Gigantic Mobilization of 25,000,000 Men Ordered By Stalin To Bolster Russian Armies in Field; Crimea Isolated From Mainland, London Reports

6 Warehouses Are Destroyed By Boston Fire

Damage Estimated at $7,000,000; Eight Injured.

By International News Service.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Flames of undetermined origin tonight roared through six warehouses in the Charlestown district, doing an estimated $7,000,000 damage before they were brought under control by a veritable host of firefighters.

No deaths were reported, but eight persons were injured, including a boy who was trampled on in the crowd of nearly 200,000 which jammed the outskirts of the fire area.

Half a mile away 896 convicts in State's prison were made ready for a quick exit and less than a mile away precautions were taken to prevent the fire from spreading to busy Charlestown Navy Yard.

Fire Chief Samuel J. Pope said: "The damage will be upward of $7,000,000. We do not know the cause of the fire. It will be investigated."

The fire, which raged out of control for three hours, started in a shed of the Boston & Maine railroad, destroyed that and three others, a warehouse of the First National Stores and the Welch storage warehouse.

Five persons, including a man and his wife from Brooklyn, N. Y., were arrested as suspicious persons when, police said, they found them looting in the burned area. Their names were withheld.

The new civilian defense fire wardens, organized by the Massachusetts public safety committee for air raid work in event of war, was promptly on the scene along with firemen of Boston and 60 adjacent communities and did yeoman service. "The work of the fire wardens," said Boston's Fire Commissioner William Riley, "prevented a more serious conflagration."

Coast Guardsmen, Marine training cadets, harbor defense police, sailors, harbor police and others were in the ranks of the volunteer fire fighters.

All policemen in Boston and near-by cities and towns who could be spared kept back the immense crowd of spectators and finally succeeded in untangling motor tie-ups miles in length on the outskirts of the fire area.

Burning roofing material, stored in one of the warehouses, sent forth a heavy pall of smoke which hung over the district.

Lights and telephone lines went down and for a long time the district was without lights or communication service. However, the Boston elevated railway overhead system, a block away from Rutherford avenue, scene of the fire, was kept in operation.

John Durant, 12, was the boy trampled upon. He and the other injured were removed the City hospital. Another boy was scorched. A policeman was hurt when kicked by a group of spectators he was trying to keep back of the police line.

A statement issued by the Boston & Maine railroad said:

"The fire started from an unknown cause in freight house No. 35, leased to the First National Stores, and spread to freight houses Nos. 32, 33 and 34, all four of which were destroyed. Two other freight houses were slightly burned.

"Train service was not in any way affected."

Lindbergh's Barb At Jews Goes Wild

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The remark to end all remarks on the Jewish question was made by Mark Twain, who said, "The Jews are members of the human race—worse I can say of no man."

However, Lindbergh and the Charlie McCarthys of the America First Committee in the senate subcommittee "investigating" the movie industry have neither the wit, logic nor humanity of Mark Twain. Lindbergh, therefore, manages in one breath to express his sorrow for the persecution of the Jews in Germany, while advocating their persecution here if they exercise the same rights as other citizens.

Following the line taken in Washington against the movies, he says that the "British, Jewish and administration groups" are the only important interventionists in this country, and that "the greatest danger to this country lies in the large Jewish ownership and influence in our motion pictures, our press, our radio and our government."

Leaving Lindbergh's motives aside, what is the plain factual truth about his statement? Is it a fact that Jews are the leading interventionists in the United States? Is it a fact that they have large ownership or influence in the motion pictures, press, radio and government? And, if they

Move Under Way To Place Mrs. Sylla Hamilton, Governor's Star Witness, on Faculty of Georgia State College for Women.

Dr. Walter D. Cocking, ousted dean of the University of Georgia, yesterday was named consultant in program planning for the Federal Security Agency in Washington, while Dr. Guy Wells, president of the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, said he had recommended Mrs. Sylla Hamilton, star witness against Cocking, for a place as instructor of social science on his college faculty.

In Washington, aides of Paul V McNutt, federal security administrator, said Cocking would work in co-operation with the National Resources Board.

His duties, they said, would relate particularly to post-war plans for the expansion of services in social security, education, youth activities, public health, recreation and nutrition.

Dr. Cocking was booted out of the University System after a trial at which the Governor charged he advocated racial equality, and Mrs. Hamilton testified. Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro, was ousted at the same time.

Dr. Wells said his recommendation on Mrs. Hamilton, formerly a member of the faculty at the University of Georgia, had been forwarded to Chancellor S. V. Sanford for action by the education-finance committee of the State Board of Regents. The Governor made no demand that Mrs. Hamilton be placed on the G. S. C. W. faculty, Dr. Wells said, adding that if she is approved by the regents her salary will be $1,350 a year—the same salary paid to other instructors.

In connection with his recommendation, Dr. Wells issued the following statement:

"It has long been customary in the University System for the various units to assist one another in the problems of personnel. An instructor who does not fit into one unit may become an asset in another. There are several instances of this in the system.

"We had an opening and I asked Chancellor Sanford for any available persons. He gave me the names of several. I recommended to Dr. Sanford, Mrs. Hamilton for a place as instructor in social science and her election will pend the action of the education and finance committee of the Board of Regents. It is only fair to give Mrs. Hamilton a place in another unit and she has been so recommended. There is nothing extraordinary in the situation, as such shifts are often made within the system."

In Athens Dr. Sanford said he had not received Dr. Wells' recommendation but said it was possible a letter was awaiting him in Atlanta. Such a recommendation, he said, would "proceed through the proper channels." A final decision, he added, would rest with him, the Governor and Chairman Sandy Beaver.

'All-American' Cargo Arrives At British Port

By EDDY GILMORE.

A BRITISH PORT, Sept. 18. (AP)—A convoy disgorged today on the docks of this port a truly all-American cargo of everything from California warplanes to Georgia peanuts—part of 850,000 tons of supplies which, officials say, is arriving every week in England.

"Hey, you guys" sang out Arch Masterson of Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood, superintendent of plane unloading. "Watch that plane!"

The plane was a grease-smeared Douglas attack bomber from Santa Monica, Cal., which the British call a "Boston." At least a dozen others were coming off the ship.

"Beginning to Roll."

"I have been here for three years unloading these babies," said Masterson. "They are begining to roll now."

Masterson said the RAF gets the planes into the air three days after he unloads them. He can unload two an hour, he said. They already have undergone test flights.

At the next wharf sweating workrs were tackling food, wide-eyed and smacking their lips at what passed through their hands.

There was a rumble as men rolled off tubs from Chicago stamped "Wisconsin brand" cheese.

Georgia Peanut Tempting.

At the edge of the docks lay a broken bag of Georgia peanuts. I picked one up and got ready to flip it into my mouth.

"Wait!" warned Colonel J. J. Llewelly, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of war transport, "the penalty for looting is death."

I put the goober down.

Atop a big pile of boxes a wall-eyed docker rubbed his stomach and smiled. He sat on white pine boxes marked "skinned hams, Chicago."

NO PLACE TO PLAY—A wistful study in loneliness and bewilderment, illustrating the earnest declarations of Juvenile Court Judge Garland Watkins and other humanitarians that Atlanta has a dire need for more playgrounds with equipment and trained supervision for many of its children. (Playground Contrast on Page 4.)

Atlanta Slum Areas Cry Out For Playgrounds---None Exist

Civic Leaders Urge Immediate Establishment of Adequate Recreational Facilities; Value as Crime Preventative Emphasized.

By WILLARD COPE.

Atlanta's slums—of which there are acres and acres—cry out for playgrounds.

Not one exists.

In the parks in summer, in the school yards, in the slum clearance projects there are some facilities.

But for the children of families living in the tenements, in the broken-down old mansions—frequently housing as many as six families where only one was intended to dwell—in the crumpled shacks of by-streets and alleys, for the areas which truant officers and welfare workers know so well but which conventional citizens politely ignore, there is a complete absence of the one proved means of preventing crime and disease and turning out kids with good bodies and cheerful, alert minds.

"A child must play—there is no escape from that necessity," declares Judge Garland Watkins of the juvenile court. "Thwart him, and his energy is expended in some other form, almost invariably a harmful form. A very great part of our national crime bill of $15,000,000,000 a year could be saved just by play, for the mature man rarely becomes a criminal. Even people who are short on humanity can be persuaded to a humane course — if it saves money."

It is unlikely that anyone in Atlanta knows more about children and the way their minds work than does Judge Watkins. He doesn't speak of imposing penalties or of "reforming" errant boys and girls. He uses the infinitely more sane term, "cure." He knows that poverty and lack of nourishing food and a chance to develop as nature requires are the real causes of the child's misdemeanors. He knows that by providing the obvious outlets for the child's natural forces a cure is insured, if provided in time—for he considers the grown criminal virtually hopeless.

"The child's path to crime has been clearly mapped. Having no place to play, he and his fellows rove the neighborhood seeking something—they're not sure just what. It's really adventure of some sort, play, activity—an outlet for their muscles and imaginations. Often, there is a vacant house. They go in and search about. Pretty soon they are taking out the plumbing and other fixtures and selling them to second-hand dealers. They progress to taking things from automobiles. And the next step is the theft of automobiles themselves—and they are established criminals."

Understanding Developing.

"Some understanding is developing. The knowledge of why children become criminals is spreading. But hardly more than a start has been made. Too many citizens are like the property owners so frequently encountered

Linder, Board Clash on Milk Price Raise

Organized Middle Man Gouges Producer, Consumer, Says Leader.

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder yesterday locked horns with the State Milk Control Board, in what was regarded as a "warm-up round" for a real battle, by declaring that under the present board the milk consumer and producer were being "gouged" by "an organized middle man."

At the same time, the Atlanta Emergency Consumer Committee hurled its full weight against the milk board by charging the state agency had "shirked its duty to national defense" in raising the price of milk one cent per quart and by calling for the resignation of J. Schley Thompson, of Atlanta, consumer representative on the board.

In a lengthy statement, Linder placed the issue squarely on the shoulders of the board members by demanding that they "immediately" raise the price of milk to the producers to an average of 50 per cent of the price paid by the ultimate consumer as required by law. He inferred that if this was not done he planned more drastic action.

"If the milk control board and the director will do this now, Georgia farmers will produce all the milk we need," he asserted.

Under the price increase authorized by the board, Linder explained that consumers in Atlanta would be paying 16 cents per quart or 64 cents per gallon and that in no case should the price paid to the consumer be less than 32 cents per gallon.

He hastened to add, however, that the law does not fix this one-half as a "ceiling," but as a "floor," and that no milk can be purchased from the producer at a lower price "than this floor clearly provided in the act."

He declared it was all right for the board to pay 42 cents for milk distributed from door to door, 32 cents for No. 2 milk and 22 cents for No. 3 milk, so long as the

Fort Guarding Leningrad Said Silent by Finns

Greatest Reserve Military Force in History Called Up.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Soviet Union began assembling its almost illimitable manpower yesterday for the creation of the greatest reserve military force in history—estimated unofficially at not less than 25,000,000 men—while early autumn fog and rain were declared by Moscow to be swallowing Hitler's last hope of quick and decisive victories.

Announcement of Premier Stalin's new conscription of every man between 16 and 50 not already in service to train after working hours in the use of weapons was accompanied by declarations that for Russia the struggle just had begun.

Major Defeat Apparent.

But the Russians appeared last night to have suffered a major defeat in the isolation of the Crimean peninsula by the Nazi Ukrainian forces and were said in Allied Britain actually to be in a perilous position everywhere through the cumulative effects of enormous losses, particularly in the materials of war.

Meanwhile Finnish army correspondents reported in Helsinki that the Soviet island fortress of Kronstadt which guards the sea approach to Leningrad had been silenced.

An army dispatch said that after ceaseless day and night bombardment by the Germans the fort suddenly went dead and has not fired a shot for several days.

Thick smoke was said to have enveloped the Russian batteries after tremendous blasting by many Stukas.

Cathedral Still Standing.

The Finns were able to see that the great cathedral and many factory chimneys on Kotlin island where Kronstadt is situated, were still standing, the dispatch said. Kronstadt is only 15 miles from the Finnish shore.

A competent London source, giving from the Allied viewpoint the most melancholy estimate of the Soviet situation yet made public, declared plainly that only a veritable and immediate "Niagara" of supplies from Britain and the United States could save the Red armies from disaster.

Moreover, he warned that lacking quick and effective replacements in equipment the Russians might have to give up—to respond to overtures for a separate peace which he predicted Hitler would make.

3,000,000 Casualties.

Information received in Britain, this source added, showed that Russian casualties up to the end of August—and thus not taking into account the long and even more bloody fighting since then—were 3,000,000 against 2,000,000 for the Germans. Of even more importance for the immediate future, he said, was the fact that the Reds were running short of weapons—particularly tanks, some of which upon being captured by the Germans were being turned the other way.

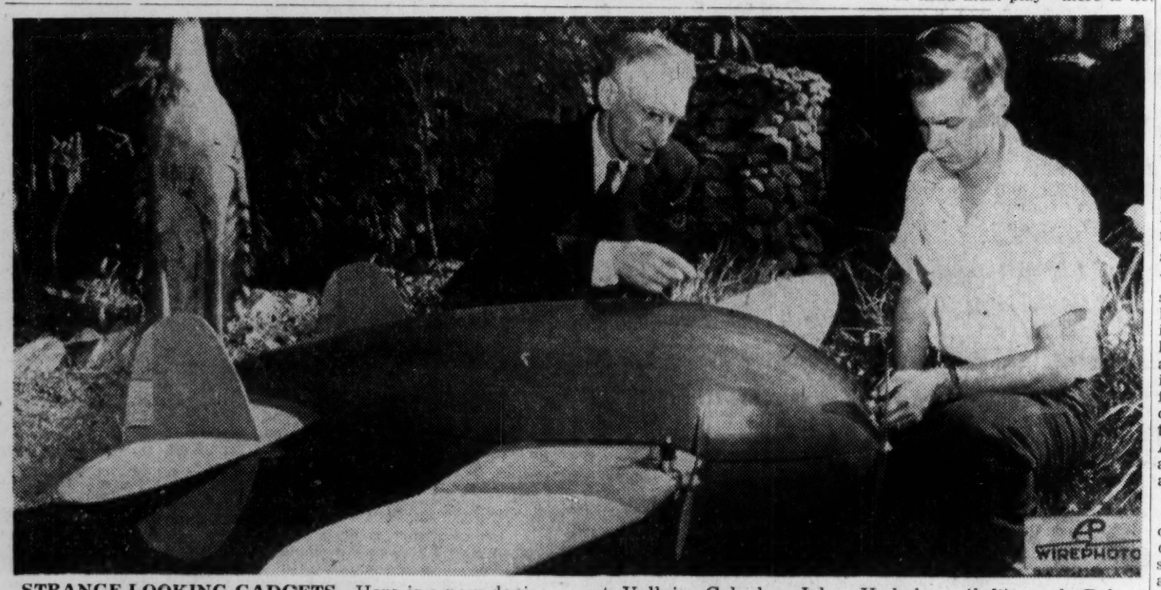

He mentioned a newly-acquired highway and rail route to Russia through Iran (Persia) which he said would be of great help, granted the immediate availability of supplies.

"The whole history of the world turns on the outcome of this battle," he summed up. "We will fight on even if Russia is beaten,

Citizens Here Are Mystified By Gay Lights

Constitution and Weather Office Are Swamped With Telephone Calls.

Atlantans last night were introduced to a stranger—the aurora borealis.

Arriving unheralded and unannounced, the aurora borealis, or northern lights, was first thought to be an antiaircraft maneuver somewhere in the Buckhead area, with strong searchlights playing about in the sky.

But as the lights grew stronger, and as various colors appeared, Atlanta citizens, although unaccustomed to the sight, soon recognized the display.

The weather bureau and The Constitution both were swamped with calls.

Many Descriptions.

Some of the callers described the lights as a glow like a fire seen from a long distance, while in other sections, the lights were so plain that the different colors, shooting out from the horizon, could be distinguished.

While the aurora borealis was a thrill to Atlanta spectators, they were a pain in the neck to operators in local telegraph offices.

For some strange reason the lights are attracted to telegraph and telephone lines, cluttering them up with static very similar to the weird sounds that come through a radio at times.

Severe Trouble.

Local telegraph operators said the trouble between Atlanta and New York was probably the most severe ever caused by the aurora borealis.

Inquiries at the local weather bureau office revealed the lights were very plain as far south as Kentucky and Tennessee Wednesday night. The office had not received any reports as to how far south the lights were visible last night, but telephone inquiries to The Constitution were received from as far south as Eatonton, Ga., approximately 100 miles from Atlanta.

Hearing about the display, many Atlantans in the downtown area went to the roofs of buildings to view the lights, while at the Winecoff hotel, one of the highest points in Atlanta, scores of guests had a good view of the display from the roof.

Seen in Other Cities.

In Washington, D. C., the lights were unusually brilliant, according to Associated Press dispatches, while other cities throughout the north and east, more accustomed to the display, also reported the lights were very bright.

Judge John D. Humphries, who as an amateur astronomer has gained quite a reputation, reported that from his home in the Morningside section, the lights appeared as a glow or a reflection against the skies.

Judge Humphries said the lights are rarely ever seen this far south.

BUSINESS AS USUAL—Bag and baggage the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was moving to New York yesterday and Bibby Osterwald, one of the girl clerks, was almost caught in the rush as Edward (Babe) Huttick, hefty mover, picked her and her chair up at the same time. 3,000 Workers Strike In London War Plant

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Three thousand workers in a London factory making war supplies were on a sit-down strike tonight over a proposal to transfer 29 men to another factory. Negotiations for a settlement are going on.

Unpaid Bills Create Serious Problem

Numerous unpaid bills can easily create a serious problem for Atlantans who lack ready cash. Insistent collectors interrupt working hours with demands for payment; worry over how to split up available money so as to satisfy all creditors puts nerves on edge; and poor credit endangers the family's safety in the event of unforeseen emergencies.

A wise course for anyone in this situation to follow is to borrow enough money to pay off old bills and restore good credit, then repay the loan in small monthly amoupts over a long period of time in installments suitable to the family budget.

Such a plan as this is a specialty of the Southern Security and Investment Corporation, located on the fourth floor of the 22 Marietta Street Building. Almost anyone who has a job can get from $50.00 to $1,000.00 immediately, without delay or embarrassment. Security may be a plain note, endorsement, auto, furniture, diamonds, or nearly anything of value. Terms can be arranged up to 18 months and loans can usually be refinanced to provide additional cash if necessary. Persons who would like to get ready cash for paying old bills, buying a car, having medical or dental work done or for some similar worthy purpose are invited to discuss their problems with the financial experts at the friendly "Southern Security" offices.

This advertisement is designed to point out to Atlantans the simple, business-like solution to financial difficulties made possible by the loan plans at the Southern Security and Investment Corporation.

A. I. Shakhurin, commissar of the aviation industry.

'Purge' of 1938 Is Explained By Roosevelt

Participation in Primary Campaigns Called for Good of Party.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's personal explanation of his participation in some primary campaigns in 1938—an act criticized in some quarters as a "purge"—is that his chief interest was to continue the Democratic party "as the liberal, forward-looking, progressive party in the United States."

Writing in the current issue of Collier's Magazine, the President said he was not interested in personalities, nor in particular measures, but in "seeing to it that the Democratic party and the Republican party should not be merely Tweedledum and Tweedledee to each other."

Home State of Georgia.

"The primary campaigns in which I actively spoke," he said, "consisted of one congressional campaign in my own home state (New York), one senatorial campaign in my other home state of Georgia, one in Kentucky . . . and one senatorial campaign in the state of Maryland, where I was accompanied by the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

"It must be remembered, also, that in some of these states, and in some other states, a definite misuse was being made of my name by one candidate or the other, falsely claiming that I favored his election. Under such circumstances I exercised my clear right to speak out in the interest of truth."

Backed Liberal Candidates.

Asserting that in these primary speeches he made it clear he was not trying to dictate to the people of any state as to how they should vote, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

"What I was trying to do was to impress upon them the necessity of voting for liberal candidates—if they wanted a continuation of the liberal kind of government which they had had since 1933.

"Looking back on the domestic issues of 1937 and 1938, there is much satisfaction in realizing that the American people, as a whole, were not taken in by the bitter accusations and dire predictions of those who cried 'dictatorship,' 'imminent bankruptcy,' or 'strangulation of business' . . .

"The political struggle of 1938 had not been in vain. Liberalism in government was still triumphant."

Finns Admit Sinking Of Largest Warship

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—(INS) Sinking of the 3,900-ton Finnish coast defense ship Ilmarinen—presumably in a battle with the Soviet Baltic fleet—was confirmed tonight by the Finnish legation in Stockholm.

Out of the crew of 330, about 250 men were feared lost. The Ilmarinen was one of Finland's two largest war vessels, her sister ship being the Vaeinaimoeinen.

According to reports from Helsinki, the Ilmarinen was destroyed in a battle with Russian vessels off Hangoe, at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

English Finally Complete 'About Face' on Russia

By GAULT MacGOWAN.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The English today rapidly are reconciling themselves to their alliance with Russia. When Adolf Hitler attacked the Soviet Union it required the firm line taken by Prime Minister Churchill to make them sure in which direction their duty lay, but now the "about-face" has been completed.

There have been some amusing incidents. The Times and other leading newspapers, which formerly called the Soviet leader plain Stalin now are careful to refer to him as M. Stalin, despite the fact that the Soviet war news eschews such bourgeoise titles and consistently calls him Comrade Stalin.

Moreover, the word Reds is officially discouraged and the Russians are classically referred to as "our gallant allies," albeit the Soviet communiques are full of the exploits of their "Red army." The Red flag, formerly not a popular symbol, now appears at the best banquets between the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes.

It would seem that the Russians now regard the English as thoroughly sympathizing with their aims, while the English regard the Russians as thoroughly sympathizing with theirs; each nation, in fact, assumes that at long last the other has seen light.

The Communists are doing their best to get back into public favor, although whatever happens in this war, it is pretty generally assumed that England would never go Communist. The conflict may bring a more sympathetic understanding of Russian ideals and a greater appreciation of Soviet achievements, but it will not make Communism or Marxism any more popular.

Ever since the war British Communists have lost face, and they have not regained it by Russia's entry into the war. The Communist party is handicapped by the continued suppression of the Daily Worker, and there is no popular clamor to lift the ban now. The party here, as in America, has changed front too often to have any great following, because the main virtue admired by Englishmen is consistency.

Thus, initial denunciation of the war as imperialism, and now approval as one that workers should support put the Communists out of court. The Labor party will have none of them, and labor is about as far to the left as any discernible majority in England is likely to go. Labor's policy is socialistic, but not revolutionary Markism.

The battle after the war probably will be between those who want to perpetuate socialist features introduced during the conflict and those who want to temper it with a return to individualism. The Socialist are fairly confident that their Utopia is on its way—especially those in the civil service who, being state employes, think everyone else ought to be.

The British civil service comprises some of the brightest boys in the country, since the only way into it is by competitive examination. They answer the questions of what happens to all the boys who are top of the class at school—and are never heard of afterward. In wartime, a great many more temporary employes get into the service, and ,judging from the last war, may want to stay in afterward.

So the march toward more civil servants, combined with the probable retention of a conscript Army for many years, is really a march toward state employment for everybody.

What really is mystifying to the observer is promotion of the idea here that Russia enjoys religious freedom, for Communist lecturers have often declared that churches that have become museums.

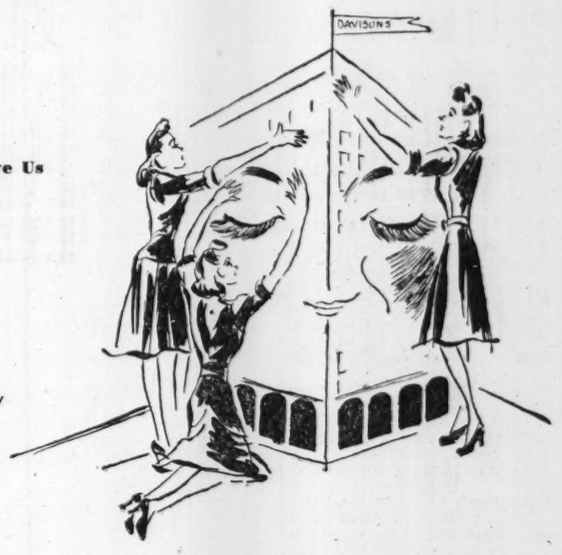

But some religious observers condone the Soviet Alliance with these words: "There is only one real difference. Nazism is successful. Communism is not."

Hitler, on the other hand, says he is "protecting Christendom against Communism."

"The sword of the spirit" movement, sponsored here by Cardinal Hinsley, has publicized widely the opinion of the German bishops: "Naziism is the German form of bolshevism."

"Communism is asthetic," declare proponents of the movement. Nazism is pagan. Communism persecutes the church. So does Nazism. Communism destroys property. Nazism has pillaged the whole of Europe. Communism destroys the family. Nazism takes the child from the home. Cmmunism suordinates everything to class. Nazism sacrifices everything to the master race."

30 Reported Dead in Canton, Nanking Blasts

Explosions Occur on Eve of 'Mukden Incident' Anniversary.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—(AP)—More than 30 persons, including several Japanese, were reported today to have been killed in bomb explosions in Nanking and Canton on the eve of the 10th anniversary of the Mukden incident, which touched off Japan's expansion program.

Foreign travelers arriving in Shanghai said 10 persons were killed and 50 injured by the explosion of time bombs, apparently set by anti-Japanese demonstrators, in the Nanking central station.

Four bomb blasts in the heart of Canton were said to have killed several Japanese. Four other explosions were recorded about Canton. Twenty spectators, most of whom were believed to be Chinese, were killed at a motion picture theater. Others died near the Japanese military headquarters there.

Martial law was declared in Canton and Japanese troops and the Japanese controlled Chinese police rounded up hundreds of suspects for questioning.

Nathaniel Collier Dies at Talbotton

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

TALBOTTON, Ga., Sept. 18.—Nathaniel Richard Harrison Collier, 51, one of Talbot county's most successful farmers, died of a heart attack on the Collier estate, two miles from Talbotton this afternoon.

Mr. Collier was a veteran of the World War and saw considerable action in France and was cited for conspicuous bravery in the battle of the Argonne. A son of the late I. W. B. and Mrs. Virginia Leabeg Collier, of Talbot county, Mr. Collier was never married.

He is survived by one brother, Harry Collier, and three sisters, Misses Ella, Lillie and Lucy Collier, all of Talbotton.

THIS MAKES THE DIFFERENCE—Scene in a school play-yard, showing children given opportunity for recreation. Such opportunity, insists Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, provides a proper outlet for children's energies and sense of adventure and constitutes a safeguard against antisocial tendencies.

Civic Leaders Cite Need for Playgrounds in the slum districts—when a house is torn down, or a vacant lot exists, and children wish to play there, the owner has driven them off. This not only is deplorable from any humane standpoint—it is financially a grave error. That fact should be emphasized, for it will bring curative efforts."

Any spread of public knowledge concerning the need for playgrounds will be welcomed enthusiastically by J. Lee Harne Jr., the city's recreational director. He, like Judge Watkins, is aware of the need for directed play, and hopes the meager facilities which citizens and property owners provide for underprivileged children—potential criminals costing millions in later life—will be amplified quickly.

How the war has aggravated the need for more recreation play facilities for children is pointed out by Dr. Pierce Harris, pastor of the First Methodist church and Atlanta sponsor for the National Recreation Association.

"The peaceful pursuit of play and recreation is urgently needed," he declares, "to prevent the warping of children's personalities under present conditions in an almost insane world."

Importance Emphasized.

In a letter to local members of the association, he emphasized the tremendous importance of giving young people a normal outlet for enthusiasm and emotions in the face of the effect of "hideous headlines, or heart-breaking history, of fear, on the souls of all our children."

The National Recreation Association, he pointed out, is organized and equipped to give young people and children the "escape they must have from this panic.

"It helps secure for them a place to play—their natural birthright — and more than that, it gives them an ideal of citizenship in a free country where children of many nationalities mix harmoniously together in the pursuit of happiness.

"This is democracy," he said. "This is America, and there are few nations left in the world where this can happen. Can we afford not to support it here?"

Stalin Orders Reserve Force of 25,000,000

but our task then will become much harder."

It was the British, also, who gave news of the isolation of the Crimea. They were informed that the Germans had knifed clean across above the peninsula, in the process cutting the railroad connecting with the mainland and thus putting the Russians up against the hard necessity of reinforcing their garrisons by sea routes in the Black and Azovs seas exposed to German aerial and naval attack.

The Germans, British experts anticipated, were preparing a land, air and sea offensive intended to seize not alone all of the Crimea, but the whole of the vastly more important industrial Donets river basin in the lower Ukraine. This would follow the German pattern in the south, where already much of the industry of the Dnieper river basin had been lost to the defenders. The Crimea is principally important for its Black sea ports, but German occupation of the Donets basin would be disastrous.

The available information from Moscow itself did not support London's gloomy picture — although this of course did not necessarily signify that London was wrong.

The minimum of 25,000,000 additional men ordered to begin training next Wednesday, it was stated, will stand behind regular Soviet armies estimated to have aggregated 9,000,000 men in the west as of some weeks ago, along with another 4,000,000 trained men ready for immediate action.

While the tremendous preliminary work necessary to this measure went forward, the Soviet command maintained its now characteristic reserve about the situation on the far-spread fighting fronts.

The afternoon communique reported only a continuation of heavy fighting everywhere and a series of offensive successes for the Red air fleet; it said nothing specific of the situation either about Leningrad in the northwest or in the lower Ukraine and Crimean area.

Soviet bombers were declared to have been active particularly in the Dnieperopetrovsk sector of the Ukraine, where a German troop and ammunition train was reported destroyed, and before Leningrad, where it was claimed that 15 heavy German tanks and 20 trucks were smashed.

Moreover, Nazi airdromes along 2,000 miles of front were said to have been heavily attacked.

Nazis Claim Key City.

For their part, the Germans claimed the capture of a city called the key to the Soviet armament industry in what the Nazi high command declared was an unhalted and "irresistible" sweep of the German armies eastward from the Dnieper river toward the Donets and Don basins.

As to the central front, Berlin claimed that sharp Soviet counter-attacks were repulsed.

Before Leningrad, which still appeared by various accounts to be holding out well, a single German infantry division was declared to have stormed 119 Russian pillboxes, but beyond this local action the Nazis claimed few specific successes.

(The Germans also claimed capture of Major General Pavel Chistoff, one of Dictator-Premier Stalin's closest advisors, according to International News Service.)

British Offensive Urged.

Official British quarters received in silence a new press campaign for a British offensive in western Europe to relieve pressure on the Russians.

The official view is considered to be that no continental invasion is feasible as long as both Britain and the United States are sending considerable parts of their own armaments to the U. S. S. R.

The Times, which ordinarily is slow to join press criticism of the government's policies, devoted a full column editorial to a sober reminder that the British are universally convinced the nation must make the most of the present opportunity not only to help on the eastern front but also to "develop other fronts where the enemy will have to expend his strength."

Playing "Hitler's Game."

"No feeling is more discredited than the feeling that time necessarily is on our side," the Times said.

The paper said it was "very doubtful" whether the Luftwaffe's losses were sufficient to prevent the Germans from switching their main air force back to the west and resuming a bombing which would retard Britain's arms production.

Even more pointed was the News Chronicle's demand:

"Are we, too, going to play Hitler's game and let him dispose of his enemies one by one? . . . Will invasion of the continent be any easier in six months, 12 months or two years if Russia is broken through lack of timely diversion? The answer is no. It will probably be impossible and a large proportion of our great army will rot in idleness on our coasts."

Loss of Clothing Fails To Halt Redskin Scout

WITH THE 134TH INFANTRY IN THE WAR GAMES, Sept. 18. (AP)—At first, Major Dean Coonley thought an undraped red skin had slipped into his tent. He looked again. It was an undraped red skin—Sergeant Luis Du Puis, Indian scout of the intelligence section. He explained that he had lost his clothing while swimming across a stream in the night but hurried through the woods anyway to deliver information about the enemy.

Boys Who Shoot Holes In Paint Buckets Sought

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Sept. 18. (INS)—Police sought tonight to locate the perpetrators of a new "boys will be boys" prank.

V. R. Lewis, St. Louis city engineer, reported that boys are shooting holes in the buckets of painters working on the east end of the municipal bridge. He said his men no longer could leave their buckets of paint hanging under the bridge when they go to lunch, for when they returned the paint would have leaked out.

Not only that, he said, but the boys, who use .22-caliber rifles, even plug the buckets while his men are working.

Missing Auto Wheel Fails To Stop Theft

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ralph Rose thought his 1930 coupe was safe from theft. He left it at the rear of his home with one wheel missing and the motor so badly in need of repairs it wouldn't turn over.

But Rose thought wrong. Police are seeking the machine.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON.

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 18.—(AP) Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mast are sure their 5-year-old son Robert is a chip off the old block. When Mast was a small boy he caught a $25 Liberty loan bond dropped from a dirigible at a picnic. This week the son snagged a balloon containing $1 in defense savings stamps dropped from an airplane during a celebration here.

Crimean Crisis Recalls Story Of 'Noble 600'

By LAURENCE MEIER.
International News Service Cable Editor.

Eighty-seven years after Alfred Lord Tennyson wrote his stirring "Charge of the Light Brigade," the Crimean peninsula last night once more was a battleground.

Taking a daring "short cut" towards the flowing oil fields of the Caucasus, German troops have seized control of the isthmus commanding the Crimea, according to reports reaching British military authorities.

The British-French-Turkish campaign in the Crimea in 1854-56 was one of the most ridiculous fiascoes in military history, and "The Charge of the Light Brigade" at Balaclava was one of its most futile episodes.

In the end, however, the Allies attained their main objective — which was to keep the Russians out of Constantinople.

Remote Miscontrol.

The British and French massed a fleet at Varna—the Bulgarian port where the Axis now is said to be gathering an armada—for the invasion of the Crimea. In the meantime the first of a series of utterly incredible incidents took place.

Far away in London, the British cabinet took a look at a map of the Crimea. They saw that the peninsula was linked to the mainland only by a narrow isthmus. They figured, on paper, that it could be cut off easily if a few warships were sent up to command the isthmus with their guns.

What they found out later was that the sea on either side of the neck of land was only two or three feet deep!

Then the British commander, Lord Raglan, had an unfortunate habit. Even when talking with his French allies, he kept referring to the enemy as "the French."

English Removed Hats.

Fifty-seven thousand strong, Lord Raglan's army sailed for the Crimea on September 7, 1854.

Seeking a place to land his army, Raglan sent his flagship so close to the shore that the British officers could see Russian officers peering at the ship through telescopes. And, said a contemporary account: "On seeing this, the English officers took off their hats and bowed."

Not so polite were the Russians, when the British sent an ultimatum to the Russian Governor, he fumigated it before he read it.

The "Charge of the Light Brigade" occurred on October 24, 1854. Mistaking orders from Lord Raglan his aide-de-camp, General Nolan, sent the light cavalry brigade—the "Noble 600"—straight into Russian cavalry positions.

The Russians won the Battle of Balaclava—but the poem by Tennyson helped to sustain the British soldiers through the horrible winter which followed.

Largely through French efforts, Sevastopol finally was taken the next year, and peace came—principally because all concerned were fed up with the struggle—early in 1856.

Private's Loyalty to Dodgers Brings Offer of Trip to Series

CAMP WHEELER, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Inspired by the loyalty of a soldier fan from Brooklyn, this Army camp 'way down in Georgia today aligned itself solidly behind the Dodgers' drive for the National League pennant.

The principal character in the baseball drama is Private Murray Waldenburg, of Brooklyn, who bristled in resentment when an officer, greeting him on arrival, spoke lightly of Dodger chances to play in the World Series.

Today a telephone call came from the New York Journal-American to the camp commander, Brigadier General John H. Hester, inquiring if Private Waldenburg could attend two World Series games at the newspaper's expense—if Brooklyn wins out.

Said General Hester: "I'm a Brooklyn fan myself. I'll be more than happy to have Private Waldenburg see these games. In fact, I wish I were free to go with him."

Excitedly remarked Private Waldenburg: "This is nearly the happiest moment of my life. The happiest will come when them Dodgers clinch that pennant."

Even Japan's Animals Facing 'Ersatz' Diet

TOKYO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Japan set out today to salvage used tea leaves for animal fodder. The agriculture ministry reported it expected to collect about 30,000,000 pounds annually from hotels, stores, government offices and banks. Women's organizations and school children will conduct the campaign.

This is a Citizen—This is a Stooge

WHAT IS A CITIZEN?

A citizen is someone who is well informed—who knows how to take part in self-government. He knows the FACTS on events and issues of the day. He is equipped by this information for the responsibility of voting. He gets this information from his newspaper.

Citizens live in Democracies.

WHAT IS A STOOGE?

A stooge is someone who is UNINFORMED. He is KEPT from knowing the things that the citizen has to know. He can't take part in self-government. He can only do what he's told—submit to regimentation—because he doesn't know any better. He hasn't any honest newspaper to show him he's a stooge. All he reads is propaganda.

Stooges live in Dictatorships.

STOOGES STAND IN LINE

They line up in the state-controlled stores to buy what the dictators tell them. They don't get what they want; they get what the dictators want them to get. And they pay what the dictators want them to pay. If the dictators' propaganda says that butter made from axle grease tastes good, the stooges have to smack their lips over it. Or else get smacked!

NOT SO THE CITIZEN

He buys where he WANTS to buy . . . where he can get the best value for his money. Merchants have to COMPETE for his business. They tell him about their wares in newspaper advertising columns. He gets the FACTS about what they have to sell, then makes up his own mind about what to buy. Nobody can force him into it.

* * *

Stooges EXIST under dictatorship, without independence in their newspapers. But to the citizens of the United States—who really LIVE—the newspapers are invaluable. They print the news facts that make self-government possible. They print the advertising facts—the all-important information that helps Americans to LIVE BETTER.

More than 320 leading newspaper publishers join together to bring you this weekly message about the function of the press in a free nation. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Ave., New York.

Police Relief Group Shifts Funds in Bank

Move Believed Reprisal Against Cecil Hester for Recent Vote.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Cecil Hester, second ward councilman and only member of city council's police committee to vote favorably last Monday on a council resolution to vest Police Chief Hornsby with full authority in administrative matters, yesterday was in the doghouse with members of the Atlanta Police Relief Association.

The organization had ordered all funds on deposit in the Mitchell street branch of the Citizens & Southern National bank transferred to other depositories presumably in reprisal for Hester's vote.

Called Routine Transfer.

G. Robert Elliott, secretary and treasurer of the police organization, said the action was just a routine transfer. He said the motion was made by A. B. McNaughton and seconded by J. M. Jackson. It was carried by an overwhelming vote.

Assistant Chief G. Neal Ellis is president of the association, but was out of the city yesterday and could not be reached for a statement.

Elliott explained that the organization has just bought about $20,000 worth of defense bonds, and that under the motion they are to be deposited in main banks and not branches. The Mitchell street bank is the only branch in which the organization had funds, Elliott said. The bonds, therefore, will go to the main office of the same banking institution.

$3,000 in Account.

The checking account which has about $3,000 in it will go to the Fulton National Bank under orders of the executive committee meeting, Elliott said.

Certain police pension funds also are deposited in the branch at which Hester is an officer, and a move was reported to transfer them at the October 8 meeting. Pension board members said they knew nothing of such a move.

Board members are Dewey Barge, chairman; Captain F. W. Ginn, Doc Sims, B. Graham West, city comptroller, and Henry Kennedy, city treasurer.

Expert Urges U. S. To Form Bicycle Corps

Chaplin Warns Army To Have New Gadgets, Also Old.

By W. W. CHAPLIN.
International News Service Defense Expert.

Something Old:—The old jingle advising the leading lady at every wedding to wear "something old and something new" is just as urgent a martial as marital "must"; but it is oftener neglected by brigadiers than brides.

In national defense, as in war, an army should have all the new gadgets the other fellow has and a few private ones of his own to hold in reserve. But disregard of the old, tried ways of war, either for offense or defense, may spell disaster.

Example: The mechanized British Expeditionary Force in France, an army of a quarter of a million men, had just four horses—for a parade that never was. The Germans had their panzer divisions, too, but they also had horse-drawn artillery and supply carts hauled by the lowly mule. And when the fields of Flanders churned to knee-high mud . . . well, for details look under D for Dunkirk.

So howzaboutus? We have tanks and planes, PT boats and parachutists, canned fog spreaders and ski soldiers. But this is the only big army in the world which has no bicycle troops, and bikes can go where blitz buggies are bogged—and even motorcycles—(attention General Marshall). The British are training roller skate squadrons of air raid first-aiders. (Attention Civil Defense Chief LaGuardia.)

Unsung Heroes:—Britain's battles may be won—as the saying goes—on the playing fields of Eton, but the groundwork of the American defense program is laid in the vast warehouses of the Quartermaster Corps, where the soldier's equipment is collected ready for his need. Here are a few activities of the Q. M. depot at Philadelphia: It's the largest purchaser of textiles in the world. Its expenditures for the year ending July 1 last were $565,000,000. It buys soldier clothing from tropic shorts and sun helmets to arctic parkas. It produces hand and machine made flags. It buys hymnals, band instruments and organs for all Army components. Its salvage operations every year return $1,000,000, which covers the depot's pay roll for one month.

The Farmer's Wife:—Electric power, which works the black magic of turning bauxite ore into the white metal known as aluminum, is a defense bottleneck with a background. When TVA was young the Rural Electrification Authority slaved to make the farmer and the farmer's wife electricity-conscious, to create a new market for the expected surplus in the Tennessee valley. The kerosene lamps and stoves and the coal ranges went to the junkman. In came electric lights, electric stoves, refrigerators, radios, washing machines, butter churns, sewing machines, hair curlers and milkers. The REA salesmen did everything but galvanize the hired man. Now their campaign has boomeranged. Every kilowatt it takes to run all those gadgets is needed to make aluminum for national defense.

Milady To Use Gadgets Made Of Hardwoods

Woodenware for Women Hold Spotlight at Lumber Parley.

By ROLFE EDMONDSON.

This year milady will wear woodenware.

This fact was revealed yesterday at the Biltmore hotel when the National Hardwood Lumber Association's annual convention opened.

A large booth extending almost the entire length of one of the long hallways at the hotel, was loaded down with wooden adornments for the fair sex.

Running the gamut from wooden cards, made of both light and dark hardwood, the table also contained bracelets, barrettes, card cases, vanity cases, necklaces and other costume jewelry, such as breast pins and ornamental buttons.

The necklaces, bracelets, barrettes and pins, all made of vari-colored hardwoods, were imitation jasmines, dogwood, poppies and leaves.

Wives Fascinated.

Wives of the lumbermen, never before realizing that such beautiful products could be made from the commodity their husbands bought and sold by the millions of feet, milled about the long table all day, while their mates assembled in the large ballroom to discuss problems confronting lumbermen.

Also attracting the attention of the wives was the newly discovered process of treating wood so table tops cannot be stained by acids or burned by lighted cigarets.

"If I had furniture built of this type of wood 40 years ago my hair would never have turned gray," the elderly wife of one lumberman said as she examined a table top on which a cigaret had just finished burning to an ash. When the remains of the cigaret were brushed away the top bore no indication whatever that it had just been subjected to the damages ordinarily inflicted by a glowing cigaret.

It contained all of its brilliant polish, and the fine grains of the wood continued to show through the polish.

Outlook Is Bright.

The lumbermen, from all states of the union, were enthusiastic over the prospects in the hardwood industry, stating that America now has a perpetual supply of hardwood.

"Reforestation and conservation has taught a wonderful lesson in the United States," George C. Ehemann, of Chicago, said. "It is being practiced today all the way from the man in the woods with the ax to the millworker who turns out the finished product. The woodchopper has learned to fell his trees without disturbing the growth of the young saplings, while the millworker has learned to utilize all parts of the timber so there will not be any waste.

"And, of course, there is the work of the CCC, which will be beneficial for many years, while forest rangers are annually saving millions of trees by their constant watch for forest fires."

Three Speakers.

The convention opened yesterday with addresses by Mayor LeCraw, the Governor and Congressman E. E. Cox.

In his address, Congressman Cox told the lumbermen the national defense program is hurting the little businessman, largely as a result of the "little bureaucrats."

"Their activities," he said, "are abusing, manacling and leg-ironing the small businessman.

He also warned that the power of priorities could be used to punish or to kill any business.

The association will close its convention this afternoon.

MILADY TO WEAR WOODENWARE—Miss Emily Mobley yesterday wandered into the lobby of the Biltmore hotel, where the National Hardwood Lumber Association is in convention. Soon she found herself adorned with wooden products, such as bracelets, necklaces and a barrette. She is shown admiring herself in a vanity, also of wood.

Gallup Poll Reveals:

U. S. War Spirit Shows Decline

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 18.—In the period between the outbreak of the Russian war in June and President Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" speech last week, the American public experienced the same decline in war spirit which observers have noted in England during the same period.

So far as the United States is concerned, this decline has accompanied every slackening of the Nazi war pressure against England. On the other hand, whenever Britain is receiving setbacks, whenever her chances of winning the war seem to decline, American interventionist sentiment tends to increase. It is noteworthy that since the outbreak of the Russian war, there has been a sharp growth in the number of American voters who think Britain will eventually win the war, the figure rising from 50 per cent to 69 per cent.

Offense or Defense.

Surveys by the American Institute indicate that during the first 11 weeks of the Russian war America continued to think almost entirely in terms of the defensive, not offensive. What difference the President's speech last week made in the national attitude remains to be seen.

Up to the time of that speech, surveys showed clearly that interventionist sentiment was distinctly on the decline, as the Russians stubbornly resisted the Nazi onslaught and as air-raids over Britain and British sea losses dwindled almost to the vanishing point.

The number of American voters who favored American entrance into an all-out shooting war was 24 per cent when Germany invaded Russia. By July it was 21 per cent. Just prior to the President's broadcast it had declined to 17 per cent.

Sentiment in favor of convoys likewise showed a drop, going from 56 per cent in early July to 52 per cent in the first week of September.

Stiffening Toward Japan.

While less interventionist regarding Europe, the country nevertheless showed a remarkable stiffening in attitude toward Japan.

Whereas only 51 per cent of voters interviewed in July were in favor of risking war to stop Japan, by September the figure had risen to 70 per cent.

The placing of embargoes on Japan was closely in line with public sentiment. In fact, surveys show that the American people were ready to cease appeasing Japan long before the American government was.

Surveys are now being undertaken by the Institute to measure the effect of the President's new "shoot at sight" policy on sentiment for war, for convoys and other aspects of aid to Britain.

Russians, British Solve Iran Snarls

TEHERAN, Iran, Sept. 18.—(AP) Difficulties attending the Russian-British occupation of Teheran, including Soviet detention of Italian Minister Luici Petrucci for several hours, were reported today to have been ironed out at a joint staff conference.

Red troops arrested Petrucci last night and held him until the British legation intervened.

Soviet detachments were ordered to withdraw from a machinegun factory so that a British brigade in the joint occupation, ordered with the announced purpose of hastening Iranian compliance with peace terms, might bivouack there.

The British had to camp in a desert gully seven miles from town last night because the Russians controlled all roads and refused to let their allies pass without Major General Novikov's direct command.

Members of the British legation and British nationals were unable to reach their homes in suburban Shemrun until the Soviet general gave instructions to the highway guards.

Scientists See Zinc as Vital To Good Health

Absence of Riboflavin's Partner Leads to Baldness and Old Age.

By G. B. LAL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS) The familiar metal zinc is a valuable partner of the big vitamin riboflavin as a food substance necessary for health, growth and vigor, according to the results of a new scientific investigation revealed today.

Dr. Elmer V. McCollum, famous Johns Hopkins University medical chemist, with Drs. Richard H. Follis Jr. and Harry G. Day, have discovered that rats given a food without any zinc develop most serious ailments.

Scientists are not particularly interested in the welfare of the laboratory rats; these humble animals serve as "models for men."

Dr. McCollum and his co-workers have opened the way for the study of the importance of zinc as a food ingredient for man himself.

According to these scientists, zinc in some way aids the vitamin riboflavin, formerly known as vitamin B-2, in its most beneficial action in the living body. In other words, a very small amount of zinc enables the vitamin to keep the body in normal health.

Effect on Rats.

Some of the effects observed in rats deprived of zinc in food were found to be as follows:

The food-tube, that is the passage from the mouth to the stomach, became diseased. The tissues were thickened and degenerated. There were sores and other signs of disease in the mouth. The skin of the body, in various parts, was damaged. The eyes became inflamed. Hair fell off, and in many of the bald spots wounds developed and germ infection occurred. The very important organs, anterior pituitary gland, gonads, spleen and thymus gland were decreased in size.

Present in Milk.

Now, all these are among the symptoms produced in rats and human beings when the diet is lacking in vitamin B-2 or riboflavin. Hence, according to the Johns Hopkins scientists, zinc is necessary for the proper assimilation of the vitamin itself.

The vitamin riboflavin is present in whole milk, and in other natural foods, and is now prepared synthetically. It is one of the most important vitamins of the B-complex system.

According to Professor Barnett Sure, of the University of Arkansas, not only baldness and hardening of the skin, inflammation of the cornea of the eye and occasional blindness result from the vitamin riboflavin deficiency, but old age, too, is hastened.

By its partnership with this vitamin, zinc aids in the preservation of health and the prolongation of life, certainly of rats, and, most probably, of human beings.

Large Store Acquires Valdosta Building

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—The Belk-Hudson Company, a chain department store, has announced the completion of a deal whereby the company becomes owner of the Strickland office building at the corner of Patterson street and Hill avenue, the largest office building in the city.

Belk-Hudson has operated a department store in an adjoining block for two years and found the present quarters too small. The five-story Strickland building will be remodeled for the purchasers as rapidly as leases now held by occupants can be arranged.

Autreyville School Is Destroyed by Fire

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 18.—The school building at Autreyville was destroyed by fire late Wednesday. It was believed that the blaze, which completely destroyed the building and its contents, was caused by a defect in the wiring.

County Superintendent L. O. Rogers said the students would be housed in temporary quarters. The loss was estimated at about $5,000.

Surgical Congress Meets in Thomasville

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 18. The Southeastern Surgical Congress was entertained here Wednesday by the Thomas County Medical Association, with some 60 surgeons from near-by cities and towns assembling at Archbold hospital for the meetings and for lunch served on the grounds.

Presiding over the meetings was Dr. T. C. Davison, of Atlanta, with an address of welcome given by Dr. J. A. Redfern, of Atlanta, president of Medical Association of Georgia. Many clinical cases were discussed by prominent surgeons from Atlanta, Jacksonville, Birmingham, LaGrange, Montgomery, Albany and other cities.

Among the guests were Dr. Wass, of Jacksonville; Dr. J. C. Fuller, of Atlanta; Dr. J. U. Reeves, of Mobile; Dr. J. C. Patterson, of Cuthbert, former president of the Medical Association of Georgia; Dr. McCall, of Rome, and Dr. Callaway, of LaGrange.

Roosevelt Asks Over 5 Billion In Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Congressional leaders tonight predicted prompt action on a new presidential request for lend-lease money, calling for an additional $5,985,000,000 to buy war equipment for Great Britain, China and other nations.

At the same time, a new element entered into the principal problem of the lend-lease program—that of delivering the supplies despite the German U-boat campaign. The Navy announced the development of a new type of ship which it said might answer the challenge of Hitler's sea war.

The new vessels are small—carrying 1,500 tons of cargo—driven by a combination of several gasoline engines, with a huge propeller deep in the water amidships. They can be built in two months' time, it was said, so speedily that they promise to offset, or more than offset, losses at sea.

Raburn Gets Request.

President Roosevelt asked for the new lend-lease money, which would run the total of such appropriations to $12,985,000,000, in a letter to Speaker Rayburn. He said the funds were needed to prevent any "interruption in the flow of aid to those countries whose defense is vital to our own."

An accompanying draft of legislation made the stipulation that none of the funds should be paid to any person who "advocates, or belongs to an organization which advocates, the overthrow of the United States government by force or violence." All those receiving payments from the appropriation would be required to make an affidavit that they were not so involved.

A letter from the budget bureau was attached which said that of the total amount $1,875,000,000 was for "agricultural, industrial, and other commodities and articles." The sum of $1,190,000,000 was for ordnance and ordnance stores, including armor and ammunition, and $685,000,000 was for planes, plane engines, parts and accessories.

Soviet Granted Aid.

With Allied sources abroad calling for a "Niagara" of supplies to Russia, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau revealed that financial assistance to that country began a month ago with a treasury advance of $10,000,000 against a prospective shipment of an equivalent quantity of gold from the Soviet Union.

The Russian ambassador, Constintine Oumansky, informed the government that the gold would be shipped within 90 days, but the Soviet government needed the money immediately to pay American manufacturers for goods already ordered.

The $10,000,000 payment was approved by the State Department. Russia does not receive assistance under the lend-lease act. Yesterday, Secretary of Commerce Jones, the federal loan administrator, announced that an RFC subsidiary was buying $100,000,000 worth of minerals from Russia, for which payment in part would be made in advance.

First Funds Allocated.

In requesting the lend-lease appropriation, Mr. Roosevelt noted that of $7,000,000,000 already provided, a total of $6,280,000,000 had been allocated.

The legislative draft, which was suggested, would empower the President to authorize contracts with foreign governments under which this country would supply them with defense articles, information or services, with the foreign governments footing the bill.

It also stipulated that if the President considered any defense article to be exported under the act essential to the safety of the United States, he could retain it here rather than deliver it to another country.

Principal Items.

In addition to the three principal items, the budget bureau included:

$385,000,000 for tanks, armored cars and other automotive equipment.

$375,000,000 for facilities and equipment for manufacturing defense articles, including the acquisition of land.

$175,000,000 for testing or repairing defense items for other countries, including damaged warships.

$10,000,000 for administrative expenses.

The Navy was obviously delighted with the new type of cargo ship. The first of its kind, named the Sea Otter, has already been launched at Orange, Texas. Authorities said the new vessels could be built by the hundreds in much less time than ordinary freighters, constructed inland and run down to the sea via rivers or canals. They would provide "a new bridge from this country to the free nations of the world," the Navy asserted.

The announcement said:

"The real revolution in design was wrought in the application of power. A means has been discovered of driving a six-foot propeller, not on the stern of the ship, but sunk into the water amidships. No less than 16 gsoline engines, such as are used in propelling motor boats, drive the vertical shaft much after the manner of the outboard motor. The engines are 110 horsepower, six cylinders, developing a total of 1,700 brake horsepower.

"Using many yards, there is no reason why the tonnage produced could not offset the tonnage lost at sea."

The Army IN GEORGIA

Civilian "roof sitters" from Georgia to North Carolina will scan the skies day and night for "hostile" warplanes October 20 to 25 in a test of the nation's defense against bomber attacks, it was announced yesterday in Washington.

Purpose of the "roof sitters" will be to spot bombardment craft taking off from Jacksonville, Savannah and Langley Field, Virginia, for simulated assaults on the cities of Charleston, and Wilmington, N. C., and other strategic location.

They will transmit information of the enemy's approach to filter centers at Savannah, Charlotte and Raleigh, N. C., and Columbia, S. C. There it will be co-ordinated and swiftly relayed to regional command at Charleston and Wilmington for use by the Third Interceptor Command in repelling the bombers.

The Interceptor Command, under General Walter H. Frank, with headquarters at Tampa, will have pursuit craft at fields in Charlotte, Columbia, Wilmington, Fort Bragg, Augusta, Savannah and Charleston to challenge the attackers.

General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the air force combat command, said the air drills would be "actual tests of a permanent system of active air defense which is being worked out for the entire United States as rapidly as possible."

The Murray Company, of Atlanta, has been awarded an ordnance contract to supply $458,502 worth of lathes, the War Department announced yesterday.

Other Georgia contracts announced were:

R. D. Cole Manufacturing Company, construction of steel water tank at Valdosta, $88,400.

AVTIVE DUTY EXTENDED FOR 22 IN GEORGIA CAMPS

At Daniel Field, Augusta, First Lieutenants William S. Cline, Hugh Harcourt Master and Duane Calvin Ayers.

CAPTAIN J. H. REEVES ORDERED TO PANAMA

Captain James H. Reeves Jr., intelligence officer of the 15th Infantry at Fort Lewis, Wash., and son of Brigadier General and Mrs. James H. Reeves Sr., of 307 Second avenue, S. E., Atlanta, has been ordered to duty in Panama. He plans to leave immediately.

Captain Reeves, a graduate of West Point, was prepared to attend a nine-week course at the command and general staff school, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, when his new orders came through.

"Sorry, sir, it must be love at first sight!"

GRIFFIN NEWSPAPERMAN RELEASED BY ARMY

Cecil Hurst, managing editor of the Griffin Daily News, who was drafted several months ago, was among 63 men released at Fort McPherson yesterday because they had passed 28.

PERSONALS.

1,597,810 Officers, Men Estimated in U. S. Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) The United States Army was estimated today to total 1,597,810 officers and enlisted men. Reporting this figure, the War Department said it included 710,000 selectees, 535,510 regulars, 278,300 National Guard officers and men and 74,300 reserve officers.

Monroe County Schools Have Big Enrollment

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

FORSYTH, Ga., Sept. 18.—Delayed two weeks by the polio situation, Monroe county schools opened Monday with full enrollments.

Around 750 pupils were enrolled here in the Mary Persons High school and the Banks Stephens grammar school. E. E. O'Kelley is superintendent of these two schools.

New Air-Borne Infantry Unit Will Be Formed

Fort Benning Battalion Will Travel in Huge Cargo Planes.

Fort Benning will be the scene and Georgia boys will participate in the organization of a new kind of fighting outfit—the Army's first air-borne infantry battalion—according to plans announced yesterday by the War Department.

Designed to get there in planes—big 28-man cargo ships — and enter the fray in small automobiles, motorcycles and bicycles, the new battalion is expected to make its appearance after a suitable landing area has been captured by parachute troops.

With an initial strength of 500 volunteers, including 450 from Georgia's Camp Wheeler and Camp Croft, S. C., and the remaining 50 from Fort Bragg, N. C., the new battalion will be organized at Fort Benning October 10.

Qualifications for the 500 volunteers are generally the same as for parachute troops, the War Department announced, but they will not use parachutes.

The battalion will include two rifle companies, one heavy weapons company and a headquarters company. One rifle company will be equipped with motorcycles and one - fourth - ton reconnaisance trucks.

Lieutenant Colonel Elbridge G. Chapman Jr., now on duty in the tactical department of the Infantry school at Benning, will be commander of the battalion.

Disclosure of the plans came at a press conference held by Secretary of War Stimson at which it also was announced that hereafter officers of National Guard units may be assigned to non-National Guard outfits whenever it is desirable.

This step was regarded as one of the most far-reaching yet taken toward merging National Guard organizations completely into the broader structure of the Army. It means that regular and reserve officers will be assigned to command guard troops as well as that guard officers may command other troops.

In connection with this change the department said that guard officers no longer would be promoted without regard to the length of service prior to promotion.

Another announced change affecting the guard was that guard enlisted men returned home in keeping with the Army's intention of releasing as many men as possible in the next few months would be carried on the rosters of their state detachments so that they would not become subject to the draft even though of draft age.

Texas Solons Flay Lindbergh In Resolution

'Ship Him Back To Live in Germany,' Representative Urges.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 18.—(AP) A resolution advising Charles A. Lindbergh that any purpose he has in opposing President Roosevelt's policies will not be served by visiting Texas was passed today by the Texas house of representatives. Lindbergh was reported to be planning a series of speeches in Texas.

"Lindbergh ought to be shipped back to Germany to live with his own people," shouted Representative Tom W. Deen, Floydada farmer, in one of the speeches preceding passage of the resolution.

"I think it is time this house should say to Charles A. Lindbergh that we do not appreciate his presence here," said Representative Roger Q. Evans, a World War veteran, of Denison.

Representative J. K. Hileman, of Atlanta, a teacher, said he disagreed with isolationist declarationist declarations of Lindbergh, but "I'll die to defend his right to say what he wants to say."

Soldiers Now Beef Because They Don't Get Enough Beans

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(INS)—American soldiers used to grouse and compose mildly ribald songs because a principal item of their army menu was beans, beans, beans.

Now they're complaining because they don't get enough, Major General Edmund B. Gregory, quartermaster general of the War Department, disclosed tonight. He said:

"We give the Army the best food there is, and the only complaint I have heard, believe it or not, is that the boys don't get beans as often as they would like. They get them only once or twice a week."

Lindbergh's Barb Goes Wild

have ownership, is there any ground for thinking that their racial origin determines the way they use their influence?

Leaders Listed.

I have written down a list of the most prominent and influential interventionists in the United States, in government, radio, journalism, the press, and public life, including the two pro-interventionist organizations, the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies and the Fight for Freedom.

In the government: President Roosevelt, Cordell Hull, Henry L. Stimson, Frank Knox and Colonel William J. Donovan. In organized public activity: Herbert S. Agar, ex-Senator Ernest Willard Gibson, Bishop Henry Wise Hobson, James B. Conant, Wendell Willkie. Among the more influential radio commentators: Raymond Swing, H. V. Kaltenborn, Elmer Davis, Walter Winchell, William B. Schirer. Among journalists: Leland Stowe, H. R. Knickerbocker, Edward C. Taylor, Edgar Mowrer, John Gunther, Vincent Sheean, John Whitaker, William Stoneman, Quentin Reynolds and the editor of Foreign Affairs, Hamilton Fish Armstrong. Among columnists: Walter Lippmann, Jay Franklin, Raymond Clapper and myself.

Of these 29 names, who would certainly be the first people suppressed if interventionists were being suppressed, exactly two are Jewish. The others are racially of Dutch, British, Irish and German extraction—there are three of pure German extraction to two of Jewish. Four of them—maybe more—Roosevelt, Swing, Hamilton Fish, Armstrong and Edgar Mowrer, are descendants of the oldest American families extant.

Well, ARE the government, movies, radio and press saturated with Jewish influence?

One Jew in Cabinet.

The only Jew in the cabinet is Morgenthau. The policy-making bodies in foreign affairs are the President, the State Department, the Army and the Navy. Jews are almost nonexistent in all these departments.

There are a great many Jewish executives in Hollywood. Jewish enterprise, which had never commanded really great capital in this country, was the first to see a latent big industry in the moving picture; they were the pioneers. But, if I am correctly informed, most of the present ownership is in the hands of banks, and there are very few Jewish banks in America. None of the big three is Jewish: Chase National, Guaranty Trust, National City.

Radio is owned by tens of thousands of stockholders in several corporations. Does Lindbergh want to go over the lists and expropriate the stock in Jewish hands? He's got precedents for it, in Fascist countries. Sarnoff, a young radio wizard, was discovered by Owen D. Young and became president of RCA. NBC has its own president and he has never been Jewish. Of 26 directors and members of the advisory council two are Jewish. CBS has a Jewish president but not a Jewish majority on the board. Mutual is a co-operative system in which one of the stockholders is the rabidly isolationist Chicago Tribune.

Radio commentators have only one trouble with the broadcasting companies; they are not permitted to editorialize, and they are supposed to avoid controversy. Since the America First Committee considers even facts controversial if the facts don't help the America First Committee, and since the America First Committee organizes boycotts and letter-writing campaigns to sponors, the lot of the radio commentator is hard. But if the public does not like the commentator, he goes off the air. Here again, the public decides. And the most influential commentators are not paid by the networks but by sponsors. Does Lindbergh think no Jewish firms should be allowed to advertise?

Falls Wide of Mark.

Lindbergh's reference to Jewish influence falls completely wide of the mark when it comes to the press. There is an amazingly small amount of Jewish ownership of newspapers. The big news successes, A. P., U. P. and I. N. S., are not Jewish. The largest chains are Scripps-Howard and Hearst—not Jewish. The New York Times is Jewish-owned, but has an overwhelmingly Gentile editorial board. The most powerful interventionist newspapers in the country are the New York Herald Tribune, the Chicago Daily News, the Baltimore Sun, the Louisville Courier-Journal, the Denver Post, The Atlanta Constitution, the Kansas City Star, the San Francisco Chronicle, the Des Moines Register and the Washington Post. Only the last is Jewish.

The most powerful interventionist weekly press is the Luce press. Not Jewish. The two monthly magazines with the strongest interventionist editorial policy are the Ladies' Home Journal and the Atlantic Monthly. Not Jewish.

In fact, if every American Jew died tomorrow it would not make the slightest difference in the policy of the movies, the radio, the government, or the press—unless, of course, Lindbergh and his followers could fill whatever positions were left vacant from the lists of the America First Committee.

There are precedents for that, too, in Fascist countries.

But first he would have to deal with some of us who are not Jews.

"When the board of control and the director set 50 per cent as the price to be paid on No. 1 milk and a less price to be paid on other classes of milk, they are entirely without any legal authority to do so," he asserted.

State-wide Situation.

Linder said his argument regarding the Atlanta milk shed applied with equal force to all other milk sheds in Georgia.

"It is impossible," he said, "for the dairyman to maintain his herd, to comply with the sanitary and health requirements of the state laws and to produce an adequate supply of milk for the people of Georgia under the present policy of the board of control and the director in denying the producer a living price for his milk."

He reviewed the statements of dairymen who testified they were getting as low as 14 cents per gallon for milk that was being sold to the consumer for 15 cents per quart.

The commissioner indicated he would continue to keep "bootleg milk" from coming into the state provided the milk board took some action to encourage the producers.

Thompson said he had "no comment" on the consumer committee's demand that he resign. Committee spokesmen said they were asking for his resignation because he, as the sole consumer representative on the board, voted for the 1-cent increase which will go into effect October 1.

"The increase," the committee's letter said, "will cost Atlanta consumers at least $2,330 more for milk a day. No independent consumer testified for the increase either at the public hearing or meeting."

The new order, Chairman T. P. Hunt pointed out, will make Atlanta prices higher than any other city listed in the United States Department of Agriculture's monthly reports except a few Florida cities that have poor grazing facilities.

Declaring that inefficiencies in the milk distribution system came under the milk board's jurisdiction, the committee added:

"The board has shirked its duty to the public interest in failing to assure consumers that measures will be taken to remedy the inefficiencies in the distribution system. Nor have consumers received any assurances that prices will not spiral even further."

Sparta Scouts Begin Work on New Hut

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—Members of the Sparta Boy Scout troop are working on the foundation for their new hut which will be located on the paved highway between here and Devereux on the Macon road. A lot was purchased some time ago and much of the building material has been donated by firms handling such commodities here.

The work is under the supervision of Scoutmaster Jimmy Ryals, assisted by Engineer R. L. Tindol Jr., of the health department. The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible so as to complete same for occupancy before bad winter weather sets in.

Jewish Group Spurns Advice Of Lindbergh

Flyer's Charges Called Part of Nazi Campaign To Stir Strife.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Denouncing the "unsupported and unsupportable charge impugning the patriotism of Americans of the Jewish faith," contained in the Lindbergh speech in Des Moines last week, a joint statement issued tonight by the American Jewish Committee and the Jewish Labor Committee declared that "our interests and those of our country are one and indivisible."

Americans of the Jewish faith, the statement says, reject as an un-American appeal to selfish interests Lindbergh's injunction to Jews to support his policy on the ground that any other attitude would lead to anti-Semitism.

The statement in full:

"On September 11 at Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. Lindbergh made an unsupported and unsupportable charge impugning the patriotism of Americans of Jewish faith.

"The overwhelming denunciation with which the charge has been met from coast to coast by the press and by leaders of all faiths, places it in the category in which it belongs. It is not serious argument but only another example of the now familar tactics of the Nazis to divide other countries by stirring up religious and racial hatreds and setting group against group. In supporting these tactics and accusing others of lack of patriotism, Mr. Lindbergh's charges react only upon himself.

Cross Section.

"As everyone knows, Jews in this country represent in all respects save a common religion, a cross section of the American population, with all the differences of viewpoint which such a cross section includes. As individuals, each one of us has a right to his views, whether for or against isolationism, without fear that Mr. Lindbergh can intimidate any of us with the low and baseless charge that there are other 'interests' which we place ahead of loyalty to our country.

"In fact, Mr. Lindbergh, in order to secure converts for his own point of view, counsels that we should do just that. He warns Jews to support his policy on the ground that any other attitude would lead to anti-Semitism. We are obliged to Mr. Lindbergh for his gratuitous advice and reject completely his un-American appeal to selfish interests. We will not put even what he considers our 'interests' before those of our country—since our interests and those of our country are one and indivisible."

Three Suspects Held Here in Bank Robbery

Men Arrested in Jefferson Being Questioned in Royston Case.

Three Atlanta men were arrested yesterday at Jefferson, Ga., for questioning in connection with the recent $5,000 robbery of the Commercial Exchange Bank at Royston, Ga., and were brought to Fulton county police headquarters here for further questioning, it was disclosed last night.

The men were listed as C. O. Baxter, 49, of a Colquitt drive address; C. Fred Gann, 18, of an Eddie avenue address, and W. A. Andrews, 35, who gave no address.

They were arrested at Jefferson by Deputy Sheriff Claud Culberson, of Jackson county, and state troopers, who turned them over to Sheriff Andrews, of Franklin county, in which Royston is located.

Branson James, cashier of the Royston bank, who was kidnaped by two men and forced to go with them to the bank and turn over $5,000, came to Atlanta, but was unable to identify any of the trio.

Among those questioning the prisoners were County Detectives John Carter and Carl Thomson and City Detective Leo Nahlik.

The detectives and the sheriff were reluctant to discuss the case, but it was understood the arrests resulted from a tip given by the wife of one of the prisoners.

Police refused to divulge the name of the woman, but she was in the chief's office at county police headquarters while the three men were being quizzed. She left the place with Sheriff Andrews.

One of the prisoners was said to have had $92 on his person and one of the others, $110. The three men were booked at city jail as being "in transit," to be held for Sheriff Andrews.

Two Burglary Suspects Are Caught Here

1 Chased From House, Another From Filling Station.

Two burglary suspects were caught yesterday by two residents in the northeast section of the city.

W. A. Hicks, of 451 Peachtree street, made one capture. He reported he found a strange white man in his house yesterday afternoon. The man ran. Hicks pursued with a shotgun, overtaking him in an alley in the rear of the house. A passerby called police. The man gave his name as W. A. Lewis, 38, of St. John avenue. He was arrested on suspicion and lodged in city jail.

W. B. Echols caught a man whom he discovered in his filling station at 380 Luckie street. Echols was working on a truck near by when he saw the lights of his car parked at the service station were out. He went to investigate.

As he did so, a man leaped through a window of the station. Echols chased him to Alexander and Mill streets.

The suspect gave his name as A. H. McGill, 26, of Highland avenue, N. E. McGill suffered cuts about the legs when he jumped through the window. After treatment at Grady hospital, he was arrested on a suspicion of burglary charge.

2 Pedestrians Are Hurt in Auto Mishaps

Woman's Leg Is Broken, Man Receives Bruises.

Two pedestrians were injured in automobile accidents on downtown streets yesterday.

Mrs. Marjorie Ringe, of 1428 Peachtree street, suffered a fractured left leg while crossing Broad street at Hunter, when struck by a truck owned by the Linen Supply Company and driven by H. D. Bowen, of 787 Essie street, N. E., according to police.

C. D. Wray, 29, of 801 Confederate avenue, an employe of the State Revenue Department, sustained bruises to his legs when struck in front of the New Post Office building by an automobile driven by Abe Sinkoe, of 591 Luckie street. Patrolmen W. E. Petty and Bob Holland booked a case of reckless driving involving an accident against Sinkoe.

'Several' Chileans Arrested in Reich

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Several Chileans — the exact number undisclosed—have been arrested in Germany on suspicion of engaging in activities hostile to the Reich, authoritative sources announced today.

"We regret being compelled to take such measures," one informant asserted, "but reasons of state make them imperative. We are in war and it is essential to eliminate all elements intriguing against us."

Thirteen Germans, 10 alleged chiefs of Nazi cells and three officials of German business houses, were held for investigation at Santiago, Chile, last Thursday night. One of them, Otto Zippelius, was a former instructor to the Chilean army.

Sergeant York Sees 'Sgt. York'

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Grinning broadly and apparently enjoying it all, Sergeant Alvin G. York was roundly feted tonight at the Tennessee premiere of the moving picture, "Sgt. York," a portrayal of his heroic deeds as a soldier.

In a downtown theater (Knickerbocker) packed to the last seat, the east Tennesseean was introduced by Mayor Thomas L. Cummings as the "outstanding hero of all those 2,000,000 heroes of the last war."

The modest York spoke only a few words of thanks, then took his seat among high-ranking Army and Naval officers, and city and state officials.

The Rev. R. C. Pile, the Parson Pile of the movie story, also was there. He spoke briefly, expressing hope "this picture show of Alvin York helps to lead young people and others upward."

The movie tells the story of York, the native of east Tennessee's rugged mountain country, who "got religion" and voiced objections to enlistment in the Army but finally found love of God and love of country compatible.

It depicts his single-handed capture of scores of Germans, and interwines a romance with Gracie and his love for the soil in the movie story.

Song Session Set Sunday at Decatur

Some 2,500 singing enthusiasts in this section will gather in the Decatur High school auditorium at 10 o'clock Sunday morning for the Twelve-County Singing Convention, W. H. Bond, chairman of the local committee for the program, announced yesterday.

Held annually in each of 12 counties near Atlanta, the convention is expected to attract quartets and other special singers from all over the southeast, Earl B. Casey, president, said.

Included in the convention are DeKalb, Fulton, Henry, Newton, Clayton, Butts, Gwinnett, Walton, Jackson, Barrow, Lamar and Spalding counties.

APPENDECTOMY FOR TWINS.

Truly alike are Imogene and Norma Jean Stehele, nine-year-old twin daughters of Tyler, Texas. Recently Imogene had an emergency appendectomy. Two days later Norma Jean underwent an emergency appendectomy.

—if Bond is your tailor!

Loosen your belt—and relax! You've heard plenty of sound facts to back up higher prices—for everything from ships to sealing-wax. Now listen to a different tune!

Bond prices are NOT going up—thanks to you! Yes, you—for your part of Bond's huge volume is one of the stepping stones that makes this exciting announcement possible.

Here's how! Last year, your purchases of Bond clothes came to 32 million dollars. This year you're boosting it to 45 million. With such overwhelming support, you nerved us to move fast—to our mutual profit. Knowing what was in the cards, we signed for Fall woolens and trimmings almost a year ago. Today, all things considered, instead of facing a very stiff increase in costs, ours is only 7%. Score one, for Bond volume!

Now score two. By keeping prices down, we expect to wipe out much of that 7%. Keeping prices down will hold the good will of our present army of boosters. Keeping prices down will win thousands of new friends. Keeping prices down—with still larger sales to make up the difference—will be good business, for us and for you! We can still hear the applause of 1937, when most stores raised prices and we didn't It's going to happen again in 1941.

And how about quality? Briefly—as long as there's a Bond shingle over a Bond store, there'll be no compromise with what your dollar buys. Were we faced with the need of juggling values to keep prices down, Bond prices would go up tomorrow. We've already said we are taking no chances on losing customers. Neither are we taking chances on losing our good name.

You will continue to get the finest woolens our money can buy. You will continue to get Bond needlework at its best from our own plants. You will continue to get two trousers with every suit. You will continue to get the convenience of a Bond Charge Account—with extended payments—at no extra cost. And you will pay not one cent more than you did last season!

Because more men wear Bond Clothes than any other clothes in America, we can now sit tight. To back up the government's wishes, this will be our policy until the load can no longer be shouldered alone. Then—and then only—may we ask you to help foot the bill.

This, gentlemen, is Bond's way of doing business!

Dickson Quits Welfare Post Despite Pleas

Board Remains Firm on Its Appointment of T. L. Gullikson.

Despite a unanimous vote of the board to ignore his resignation, and personal appeals of all members, T. C. Dickson yesterday insisted on terminating his service, October 15, as executive secretary and director of the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare.

Dickson, who previously had said there was unwarranted interference with his performance of his duties, declared he felt the "best interests of the department" would be served by his retirement and that duty to his family likewise directed this course.

He heard eulogies of himself read from communications from virtually all of the board's staff of about 150 persons, and extremely complimentary words from each of the board members.

At Odds With Lanham.

The board voted to stand by its selection last week of its auditor, Thomas L. Gullikson, as food stamp issuing officer, an appointment over which it had been at odds with Frank V. Lanham, district supervisor of the Federal Surplus Commodity Marketing Administration.

Lanham was present and said that while the appointment would not be confirmed by his office, there would be no disposition to contest it. This policy was enunciated in a telegram from L. J. Capelman, southern regional director with headquarters at Dallas, to whom the board had appealed to settle the difference.

Seek Old Shoes.

Board members voted to urge the Parent-Teacher Associations, American Legion, League of Women Voters and other civic groups to canvass the city for old shoes for persons likely to suffer this winter, the shoes to be repaired and distributed through board facilities.

It was pointed out by the director that the Army no longer could furnish second-hand shoes, as formerly had been done, and that the cost of repair materials was rising beyond the board's slender resources.

Attending the session were Chairman Albert Gossett, Vice Chairman Ivan E. Allen Sr., Dr. Luther Vinton, W. O. Duvall and County Commissioner Charlie Brown. Brown quoted James J. Doran, member who was out of town, as being strongly favorable, with the others, to Dickson's remaining in office.

Chided Brother Quit Sessa None Too Soon

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18. (AP)—Captain K. L. Hansen chided his brother Nils for quitting the Sessa, former Danish vessel seized by the United States.

Next trip after Nils quit, Hansen recalled, the Sessa was torpedoed in the North Atlantic. Three survivors who spent 19 days on a life raft were landed in Iceland last week by the U. S. S. Lansdale.

Captain Hansen, master of the Danish training ship Danmark, has been in Jacksonville since his vessel was seized by the government.

BIRTHS RECORDED.

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 18.—During August, 20 white births, 10 boys and 10 girls, were registered at the Walton county health department. Twenty-one Negro births were also recorded.

Soldiers' Stage Show Banned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—It looked like curtains tonight for the musical revue aspirations of 200 stage-struck soldiers after their brief interlude of foot-lighted glory in Baltimore, Md.

Stern orders from the War Department shut down their fast-moving production, "Snap It Up Again," and all indications were that they wouldn't be allowed to "snap it up" any more.

The 200, members of the 29th (National Guard) Division regularly stationed at Fort George G. Meade, Md., started their show in Baltimore early this week. It contained everything from strongman acts to opera bouffe. Yesterday the adjutant general of the Army ordered it closed, basing his order on a provision of law forbidding soldiers to compete with civilians—in this case established entertainment enterprises in Baltimore.

Today the matter was brought to the attention of Secretary of War Stimson and he announced at a press conference that he had ordered a full investigation. Prior to a further statement from him, other officials here withheld comment, but it was generally expected that he would fully support the adjutant general's ruling.

It was expected that a report to Stimson on the matter would be made by Major General Milton A. Reckford, commander of the 29th. General Reckford came here today from northern Virginia, where his troops are on maneuver.

In the meanwhile, the 200 soldier-actors languished in an armory at Baltimore waiting final orders as to whether they should return to the theater or set off to join their outfit in Virginia. It was, most everybody admitted, a tough predicament for them, because they had worked hard getting the show together and, after Baltimore, they looked forward to playing in Richmond, Va., and in Washington.

But according to the view in official circles here the question was much broader than merely one of putting on a show. It was said authoritatively to cover two principal issues; first, the matter of competition; and second, the matter of having soldiers working hard at being good entertainers at a time when they were supposed to be working hard at being good soldiers.

Germans Levy Death Sentence On 12 Belgians

Group Believed Executed for Anti-Nazi Activity in Brussels.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Twelve Belgians have been sentenced to death—and presumably executed—for anti-German activities in Brussels, the Brusseler Zeitung said tonight.

After a 14-hour session on September 15, said the paper, a German military court convicted the 12 persons on various charges, including aiding the enemy, spying, or carrying on other "serious" anti-German activities.

One Belgian woman was sentenced to seven years in prison, and another woman was freed because of lack of evidence.

The Brusseler Zeitung stressed that there is no appeal from such verdicts, so it was assumed that the executions took place at once.

NEW DEATH PENALTIES ORDERED IN NORWAY

OSLO, German-Occupied Norway, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Penalties ranging up to death for acts which "disturb or endanger security, economic life ad labor peace" are provided in a decree published in the Official Norwegian Gazette today.

Strikes, lockouts, industrial sabotage and agitation and "wanton decrease of work" are included among the list of acts for which severe penalties are provided.

A second decree extends the jurisdiction of the German S. S. or Elite Guards and of the German police throughout Norway.

TREASON IS CHARGED IN TWO EXECUTIONS

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Two Frenchmen convicted of treason were executed today by a firing squad. They were found guilty by a court-martial last May 27.

THUMBS UP FOR VICTORY—With their thumbs elevated, thus forming the "V for Victory," two Atlantans, James S. Farrior (left) and Elry McKay, were bade farewell yesterday by James Majoribanks (right), British consul. McKay and Farrior today leave for England, where they will be employed by the Civilian Technical Corps.

350,000 Men Said Mobilized By Bulgarians

Germans Reported Busy Building Roads Directed Toward Suez.

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 17. (AP) — (Delayed)—Balkan informants reported tonight that Bulgaria had mobilized 350,000 men in a continuing call to the colors and that German road building experts were feverishly constructing highways in south and southeastern Bulgaria which would be useful for any land-sea action directed toward Suez.

Three German divisions and other Nazi units also are in Bulgaria, these persons reported—in addition to the "Organization Todt" which is building the military roads under high pressure.

In old Yugoslavia, the same informants said, 600 German engineers are directing thousands of Serb laborers in repairing the Belgrade-Nis and Salonika-Sofia railroads, which are essential to eastern Mediterranean movements. The former was destroyed by the Serbs.

British Move Artillery.

On the other hand, a diplomatic observer just arrived from Syria said the British were moving artillery and other military units northward toward the Turkish frontier in a steady stream.

A reported Axis attempt to get Italian warships into the Black sea via the Dardanelles by "selling" them to Bulgaria appeared doomed to failure, if, indeed, the attempt was seriously made.

Today the Turks informed the British that Bulgaria had made no proposal for transit through the straits of any Italian destroyers and submarines. It had been reported that the Axis was planning such a maneuver in order to strengthen its forces in the Black sea, where Russian sea power is predominant.

Flat Refusal Expected.

In any event, a well-informed source said, the Turks would refuse flatly to permit the passage of any warships through the Dardanelles unless they were owned by "real neutrals."

Presumably this would exclude Bulgaria, which is technically not at war with any of the present belligerents. The Montreux convention, which controls operation of the Dardanelles, bars the passage of belligerent warships, unless they are on missions sanctioned by the League of Nations covenant.

In a recent note, Russia accused Bulgaria of co-operating in German plans for an attack on the USSR by way of Bulgarian soil, and there have been persistent reports of the assemblage for aggressive purposes of 100 to 200 small ships in the Bulgarian Black sea ports of Burgas and Varna.

Fake Check Artist Admits Guilt Here

A. P. Reed, man of many aliases, pleaded guilty in superior court yesterday to defrauding numerous prominent Atlantans with forged checks while posing as a relative of Cason Callaway, LeGrange cotton mill operator and large-scale farmer.

Judge Walter C. Hendrix set September 29 for imposing sentence.

TAX RATE SET.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 18.—The Muscogee county tax rate was set at 22 1-2 mills by the county commissioners Wednesday. Of this amount 4 1-2 mills will be a special levy to provide funds for the new airport. Eight mills will be for curren operations, five mills each will be levied for county schools and the state.

BOMBER TANKS.

Gasoline tanks from Boeing bombers will help the state control forest fires in Washington this summer. The tanks were discarded by the aircraft factory for bullet-proof tanks and were purchased by the state forestry division. They will be mounted on light, fast trucks carrying fire hose and water pumpers.

Two Atlantans Off to England To Aid in War

Pair Joins Civilian Technical Corps; Details of Trip Unknown.

Two young Atlanta men today are off for England, where they will do their bit for the British government.

The two Atlantans, James S. Farrior, 1273 Stewart avenue, S. W., and Elry McKay, 327 Josephine street, N. E., yesterday received notice they had been accepted by the Civilian Technical Corps, and received their transportation from James Marjoribanks, of Jacksonville, British consul for Georgia and Florida.

Marjoribanks came to Atlanta to see them off and to wish them well on their journey, which at present is shrouded in mystery.

"All I know about how they will get there," Marjoribanks said, "is that I am under instructions to send them to a Canadian city. As far as I know, the transportation problem for them has not been worked out beyond that point, but I am confident they will soon find themselves in London."

Farrior, a radio technician, recently gave up a government radio job in order to accept employment with the Technical Corps, while McKay, an electrician, learned his trade in the United States Navy. He once served on the U. S. S. Greer, which recently was fired on by a Nazi U-boat near Iceland.

"We need technical men, and especially radio men," Marjoribanks said. "The demand for more radio operators for His Majesty's government developed from invention of the radio locator, now being successfully used in spotting enemy planes long before they reach the mainland."

The two men were enrolled for the corps by Devereux H. Lippitt, Atlanta lawyer. Lippitt, an American citizen, and a personal friend of Marjoribanks, recently suggested to the British consul that he be permitted to enroll Atlantans for the corps.

Japan Protests Against Soviet Floating Mines

Sinking and Damaging of Vessels Reported in Tokyo Statement.

TOKYO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Japanese government protested to Russia today over sinking and damage to Japanese vessels which it said was caused by floating Russian mines in the Sea of Japan.

The sea also is traversed by United States tankers en route to Vladivostok with gasoline for Soviet planes. The Japanese note specifically warned of the danger to vessels of either Japan or "third powers."

The announcement said a Korean sailing vessel was sunk September 1 off Nishisuira promontory at the northern edge of Korea by a mine which drifted from fields about Vladivostok during recent storms in that area. Nine Korean fishermen were said to have been lost.

The foreign office statement said the Japanese filed the "most categorical protest" also on the explosion of a mine under a fishing boat September 10 in which four men were said to have been killed.

(A Domei agency report in Shanghai said Japanese authorities in northern Korea had forbidden navigation of waters off that coast at night and had begun mine-sweeping operations.)

The foreign office statement said:

"Despite repeated Japanese warnings the Soviet government has taken no adequate measures to meet probable dangers and consequently a dangerous situation actually arose. The Imperial government has therefore filed the most categorical protest with the Soviet government in connection with the outbreak of this case and the continued dangerous situation.

"It is the most ardent desire of the Imperial government to preserve peace and tranquillity in the Japan Sea, hence it is urgently necessary to do away with the danger that vessels of Japan or third powers be destroyed by mines."

The verbal statement also said that since August 25 more than 10 floating mines had been found either in Japanese territorial waters along the eastern shore of northern Korea or in the open sea in the same neighborhood.

The Japanese have been engaged in mine-sweeping operations ever since the Vladivostok, Russia radio warned that navigation in the Japan Sea was dangerous, the statement said.

Conservation Benefits Explained in Hancock

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—County Agent J. David Dyer is holding meetings in all sections of Hancock county acquainting the farmers with the benefits which they can secure through soil conservation practices on their farms throughout the year. He reveals that $16,000 allotted to Hancock county last year went back to the federal treasury because the farmers failed to comply with the terms laid down by the government and the large sum was lost.

From present indications this will not be the case again, as most of the farmers are taking note of what they are supposed to do and it is believed every dollar of the funds will be earned this year.

Negro farmers are also being given the same information by their county agent, L. D. Kennedy.

Walton Polio Victims Are Taking Treatment

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 18.—Seven of the 12 polio victims in Walton county will leave Friday for the treatment center, in Athens, which is one of the 14 in the state established following the recent polio epidemic.

The remainder of the patients in Walton county are entering the Scottish Rite hospital near Atlanta or are receiving treatment from their private physicians. A specially trained nurse, from the State Welfare Department, will arrive here next Monday to visit in the homes of the afflicted children and instruct the parents in the proper care of them.

Dr. Ernest Thompson, of the Walton county health department, says the ages of the polio victims range from three months to 13 years, and there are five whites and seven Negro cases in the county. He also states that there are no new cases, and at present none are infectious. There has been one death caused by the disease in Walton county.

Man Extends Probation On Self Seven Years

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(AP) Eight years ago a young fellow named "Eddie" was brought before a city judge on a disorderly conduct charge and placed on probation for a year.

Eddie did—every day all these years. Police just broke the news today his probation was ended.

Ginnings Are Reported For Walton County

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 18.—According to United States census report 172 bales of cotton were ginned in Walton county during August.

Although the cotton crop in this county is somewhat smaller than that of 1940, the farmers are optimistic over the higher prices being paid for their products.

Frankly, we've been a little worried. The demand for Manhattan shirts has been so great this season that we were anxious about delivery of our Fall selections. Well, they're here! We've just opened the cases. And, believe us truly—Manhattan makes a grand shirt—we'll say it again and again. Come in today and get your share of shirt smartness.

Legal Experts Speculate on Police Tangle

Contradictory Measures May Be Offered Public in Referendum.

Proposals to solve the police wrangle by making Police Chief Hornsby the department's dictator and by asking FBI to nominate a director of public safety to direct the force yesterday held the prospect that legal authorities may have an unsolvable conundrum on their hands.

Proponents of "Hornsby for chief in fact as well as in name," have announced they propose to take their fight directly to the people in an initiative referendum. This they say they will accomplish by getting 10 per cent of the registered voters in the last December general city election to petition for a new election.

Yesterday there were rumors that friends of Mayor LeCraw, who proposed the FBI plan, may make the same appeal. If both were ratified by the voters in the same election, a legal fight would be in order, because under present construction of the law, both would be effective although they would be contradictory as to the centralization of responsibility and authority.

No Legal Conclusion.

Members of City Attorney Jack C. Savage's staff were studying the law, but had reached no sort of conclusion. In fact the more the matter was discussed, the more confused the issue became and there appeared little likelihood that the municipal legal experts would agree before the projected election is held—if ever.

When Savage was asked for an opinion, he said: "Don't expect me to answer that one, if you do, I'd just commit suicide and be done with it."

The Hornsby ordinance would vest full authority with the chief, and the LeCraw proposal would give to the director of public safety the same authority, with Hornsby second in command.

It was pointed out that if they were not voted upon at the same election, the one voted last would by implication at least repeal the former. But there was considerable discussion about having both votes at the same time. Proponents said a single election would save money by passing on both measures at the same time. They expressed doubt that both would pass, but city hall observers were less emphatic and said there is "high probability" that voters may approve both.

Law Explained.

The law under which the elections would be held expressly stipulates that if an ordinance is approved in such an election, it remains law until repealed by a vote of the citizens. Thus if both were approved at the same time, they both would be law, and the courts probably would be asked to decide which takes precedence over the other.

Supporters of either or both of the proposals can force the election if they obtain 3,601 bona fide signatures of voters registered in the general city election held last December. A total of 36,010 were on the list and 10 per cent of the entire list must be obtained to force the election.

Proponents of the two plans said many persons would vote for both in a real effort to take control of the police department out of political bickering and center responsibility and authority in one man. If they did, and if both received the required majority, the issue would be formed. The question would be: "Which ordinance is effective?"

Doctors Are Surprised To Find Topers' Stomachs Can 'Take It'

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Two Chicago physicians, reporting today in the current issue of the American Medical Association's Journal, said they just can't understand it, but the human stomach certainly seems able to take a lot of alcoholic punishment.

For example, a toper may imbibe from one to six pints daily of whisky, beer, wine, rubbing alcohol, shaving lotion, shoe polish, "third rail," vanilla extract and so forth and after three to 52 years still have a stomach that "looks pretty good."

The doctors making the research are Seymour Gray and Rudolf Schindler. They do not recommend a liquid diet of this type because of the harm it may do to other organs, but they insisted that the stomach in many cases stands the punishment amazingly well. In their research they examined the stomachs of 100 chronic alcoholics.

13,000 Added To Old Age Pension Rolls

Many Counties Report All Available Funds Not Being Spent.

More than 13,000 Georgians have been added to old age pension roles since December, Assistant Director Max McRae, of the Welfare Department, said yesterday, but still all the money available for the state's social security program is not being spent.

Old age assistance was given to 52,950 Georgians this month compared to 39,034 in December, while the average amount of the pensions increased in the same period from $8.20 to $8.41, McRae said.

The department's total case load, including dependent children and the blind as well as the aged, was 66,012 in September. Last December it was 52,027. Average payments for all types of benefits were $8.55 in September compared to $8.32 in December.

Security Program.

For the social security program this month, the state and federal governments set aside $585,000, each contributing 50 per cent. Of this amount $564,711.50 was spent, or all but 3.47 per cent of the total. Payments are made the 15th of each month.

Last December $432,706 was spent out of a total allotment of $520,000.

8the funds are divided among the counties on the basis of population, and McRae said that some counties had not spent 60 per cent of their allotment. Chattahoochee county, he said, had an unexpended balance of 51.65 per cent of its September allotment.

Unexpended Funds.

Unexpended September allotments of other counties, as listed by McRae, included Chatham, 30.17; Washington, 46.03; Clarke, 20.08, and Taliaferro, 40.35 per cent.

McRae said the old age pension rolls had climbed steadily since last January, but the number of children receiving benefits had declined from 11,665 in December to 11,407 in September.

He explained that this was because of the department's concentration on old age cases in line with the Governor's pledge to pay pensions to all eligible old folks. No new child cases have been added but as each one reached the age limit of 16 he has been dropped from the rolls.

Pending Applications.

Pending applications for old age assistance, McRae said, totaled about 31,000, although past experience indicates only about 60 per cent of these will prove eligible for aid.

To add these to the rolls, however, would more than consume the unexpended monthly allotment now available. Since this amount is based on the department receiving 100 per cent of its legislative appropriation of $3,500,000 annually, such an increase could be accomplished only if the Governor transferred funds from other agencies.

McRae said the advisability of doing this is under consideration.

State School Office To Ask Barron Ruling

Opinion on Legality of Move To Take Over Institution Wanted.

An opinion from Attorney General Ellis Arnall as to whether the State Board of Education can legally take over David I. (Red) Barron's school at Monroe and an audit of the institution's $25,000 indebtedness will be sought by the state school department, it was learned yesterday.

Although the state board at its last meeting voted to make Barron's institution the first state-owned vocaional and trades school and pay off its debts with gasoline money, it was reported authoritatively that State Superintendent M. D. Collins wants some legal authority before he allows himself to be placed under bond.

Executive Is "Out."

The request for the opinion and audit has been placed on the Governor's desk and a decision will await his return. The chief executive has not been in his office this week.

Poliitcal observers were skeptical as to whether the Governor would ask the attorney general for an opinion of this type, inasmuch as the two generally are regarded as political enemies. The Governor has followed the practice of seeking legal information from one of his own appointed assistants in the legal department.

If the Governor authorizes an audit of the school's debts, it was presumed he would call on State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. to do this work. Such an audit, it was explained, would establish the nature of the debts as well as those that were valid. Otherwise, it was said, the state school officials might not know what creditors to recognize.

Governor's Contention.

The Governor contends there is adequate authority for the transfer in the acts of the 1941 legislature. He says the law was passed specifically for this purpose.

Meanwhile, a delegation from the State Board of Education was planning to go to Gadsden, Ala., next Thursday to visit a vocational and trades school which is similar to the type the state has outlined for its first experiments in this field.

Included in the delegation will be Dr. Collins and the following members of the board: J. H. Woodall, Mrs. William Healey, Cary Arnett, E. M. Jordan and Q. L. Garrett.

Mullis Death Near Dublin Laid to Woman

Negro Farmhand Also Held in Shooting of Man.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 18.—Sheriff I. F. Coleman said tonight that Mrs. J. T. Lane and a Negro farm hand, Buck Sears, had been arrested on warrants charging them with murder in the death of Malcolm Mullis, 40, member of a well-known Laurens county family, who was found shot to death at the woman's home near Rentz yesterday.

A coroner's jury late yesterday had rendered a verdict of suicide in the case.

Sheriff Coleman said the warrants were sworn out by W. H. Mullis, brother of the dead man, but the officer added he did not know on what evidence the action was taken.

R. I. Stephens, Dublin attorney, retained by Mrs. Lane shortly after she was brought to the county jail here, made application to Superior Judge R. Earl Camp for bond based on the coroner's ry verdict and a hearing on the motion was set for 2 p. m. Saturday. No move toward securing his liberty was made immediately by Sears.

Mrs. Lane, a comely young widow, testified at the coroner's hearing that Mullis came to her house yesterday morning and threatened to shoot both her and himself if she did not go away with him. He had just returned after being gone for several months, an absence occasioned, the sheriff said, by a court writ holding him in contempt for nonpayment of alimony to his estranged wife, and several outstanding misdemeanor warrants.

Mullis' body, with a pistol bullet wound through the head, was found in a bed at the Lane home. A .32-caliber pistol was in his hands, Coroner O. D. Knight said.

Maritime Board Takes Over Three Strikebound Ships

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Seafarers' International Union (AFL), whose refusal to submit to arbitration its war-bonus dispute with the Alcoa Steamship Company, resulted today in seizure of three Alcoa ships by the federal government, announced tonight it was willing to allow arbitration "on certain conditions."

The conditions, Union Spokesman Leonard Tir said, were that the arbitrators take into account the union's proposal to the Alcoa lines that the company apply a $60-a-month top war bonus to seamen employed on vessels plying the West Indies.

Tir said his offer would not hold good unless Harmon Lewis, president of Alcoa, included the West Indies in "the war zone," as are Canadian waters where Alcoa seamen now receive $1 daily as a war bonus.

Follows Seizure.

The union's statement at 9:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) came five hours after the United States Maritime Commission requisitioned three Alcoa frighters at Weehawken, N. J., in the first such action taken by the federal government because of a maritime labor dispute.

Captain Granville Conway, commission manager of the North Atlantic district, posted notices to that effect on the Alcoa Banner, the Alcoa Trader and the Alcoa Scout.

The union spokesman said the recommendation to allow arbitration had been submitted to a vote in Atlantic and gulf port locals and that the first return—from Mobile—was overwhelmingly for acceptance.

The sailors' union of the Pacific (AFL), which yesterday voted to join the east coast seamen in a walkout, also was said by its business manager, Morris Weisberger, to be "ready and willing to meet with all lines and with the government to discuss arbitration, mediation or anything else."

Two of the seized ships were loaded with supplies for an American offshore base.

Conway said he did not know when the ships would sail, but added, "I hope it will be soon."

Conway said requisitioning of the vessels marked the first time such action had been taken by the commission as a result of a maritime labor dispute.

'Reasonable Move.'

The union was not immediately available for a statement on the government's action, but Harmon Lewis, president of the Alcoa Lines, said he thought it a "reasonable move inasmuch as the commission made every effort to make a settlement before taking this action."

Lewis said he believed the requisitioning to be the forerunner of seizure of 55 ships owned or operated by Alcoa.

The government acted after Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, commission chairman, delivered an ultimatum directing that the war bonus dispute be submitted to arbitration by noon today. The union rejected the ultimatum after a morning conference with Alcoa officials.

Further Action Seen.

Conway indicated further action might be expected with regard to 11 other ships tied up by the strike, which began Saturday.

The government was understood to consider the three vessels to be vital to the movement of lease-lend supplies to American bases along the Atlantic and in the shipment of bauxite ore, for aluminum manufacture, from Caribbean ports to the United States.

John Hawk, union secretary-treasurer, had said earlier that "it doesn't make any difference how many ships are eventually tied up—we're going to win and get our war bonuses."

"If and when the Maritime Commission requisitions those boats," he said, "we'll take a general strike vote up and down the coast."

Arbitration Rejected.

The union rejected the government proposal to arbitrate after Hawk and officials of the Alcoa Line, against which the strike was launched last Saturday, met at Weehawken. Hawk said the line rejected the union's proposal for more than $60-a-month war bonus and insurance for voyages to war zones as well as an extension of the war zones to cover West Indies ports.

During the day the strike spread to three more ships in New York harbor, making a total of 14 struck ships. Of the original 11, six were in New York, and the remainder in Boston, New Orleans and Mobile. The vessels struck today were the Minnesota and Oklahoman, freighters of the American - Hawaiian Steamship Company, and the Sea Thrush of the Shepard Steamship Line.

Many of the ships have been in service between the United States and government bases in the West Indies, transporting workmen and defense materials. The Alcoa Line delayed departure of the liner Evangeline for Trinidad, set for 4 p. m. today. She had booked 406 passengers, many of them engineers, technicians and workmen en route to the government's offshort defense bases in St. Thomas, St. Lucia, Antigua, Trinidad and British Guiana.

Defense Food Meeting To Be Held in Athens

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The battle for more food and its proper use will be discussed September 22-23 when farm workers meet here on a "Food-for-Defense" program.

The two-day meeting will include the report of progress being made by county nutrition organizations, food supply groups and scientific nutrition activities in general.

Sponsored by representatives of agriculture, medicine, welfare and health organizations, the state nutrition committee shows farmers how best to utilize foods in the diet.

Strikers Return In Kansas City; Dispute Looms

Pickets Return Hour After Workers Are Called Back.

By The Associated Press.

Striking electrical workers in Kansas City were called back to work last night after a two-day walkout that blinded and paralyzed Kansas City at its outset, but a misunderstanding between union and company officials foreboded prolongation of the dispute.

The strikers, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), were instructed by their local officers to report back to work for the 11 p. m. shift. Pickets were withdrawn, but an hour later reappeared without explanation.

W. B. Petty, IBEW organizer, said the back-to-work order was issued on his understanding that it was agreed the Kansas City Power & Light Company would replace all employes in the status which they occupied prior to the strike, without discrimination.

Definite Understanding.

H. A. Kuhn, vice president of power company, said he had a very definite understanding with George Stocking, of the Defense Mediation Board, which engineered the truce, that men accused of sabotage would not be reinstated unless they were exonerated.

Five of 15 men arrested during the strike were charged by the city with malicious destruction of property. Albert F. Wright, an organizer sent out by Petty, was charged with trespass.

The back-to-work order was issued hours after the mediation board's formula was announced in Washington. Petty, whom Police Chief Harold Anderson said yesterday he intended to question, moved across the state line into Kansas City, Kan., and conferred throughout the day with local union officials.

To Make Probe.

The Washington peace plan—approved by Edward J. Brown, president of the IBEW; George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, and Kuhn—provided that the mediation board send an investigator to look further into the controversy and make recommendations to the board for expediting its early disposition.

The strike was called after the Defense Mediation Board referred back to the labor board and the United States circuit court of appeals a dispute between the brotherhood and the Independent Union of Utility Employes over which should represent 200 overhead workers and a dozen employes in the steam department.

Mayor John B. Gage acted swiftly through the police department to restore service by protection of nonstrikers. A battalion of the State Home Guards was mobilized, but not called into action.

The Sheffield Steel Corporation, holder of large defense orders, remained shut down today after notifying its 2,800 employes it would not resume operations until uncertainty over a continuous supply of power was removed. Other defense industries hampered by the strike were back on production.

Coal Parley Continues.

The mediation board continued conferences aimed at getting work resumed in "captive" coal mines.

What progress had been made was not indicated at the end of day-long conferences on the coal dispute. It was announced only that management and labor representatives would meet again today.

The United Mine Workers (CIO) called a strike of 43,000 miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky on Monday to back up a demand that it be given a "union shop" contract—one requiring that employes join the union after a probationary period.

At Key West, Fla., the naval station commandant there, charging that 600 union carpenters who "went fishing" yesterday had broken faith with the Navy, said last night 30 civil service workers had been pressed into duty on expansion of a submarine base.

Promise Denied.

The commandant, Captain Russell Crenshaw, declared the AFL-affiliated carpenters had promised to remain on the job pending a Navy Department decision on their wage increase demands.

This was denied by Chairman T. W. Weaver, of a union grievance committee, who said the carpenters had agreed to await a Navy reply only until yesterday.

The 30 Civil Service carpenters had been employed regularly at the naval station. Work on the submarine base and three other projects continued on a retarded basis as about 1,000 other craftsmen and laborers stayed on the job.

In Jasper, Ala., 50 retail establishments closed their doors yesterday after clerks in a department store struck over union demands.

To Open Today.

George Bagwell, chairman for the Jasper Better Business Bureau, said following a lengthy meeting of the merchants that they had agreed to open for business today, however.

The shutdown came after about 22 members of the retail clerks (AFL) walked out at Wienstein's department stores, Erskine Mabee, international representative of the union, said.

Union demands, he said, include a closed shop, a $2 a week wage increase and a 40 to 50-hour week. Present wages range from $9.50 to $22 with the work week running from 62 to 75 hours, Mabee declared.

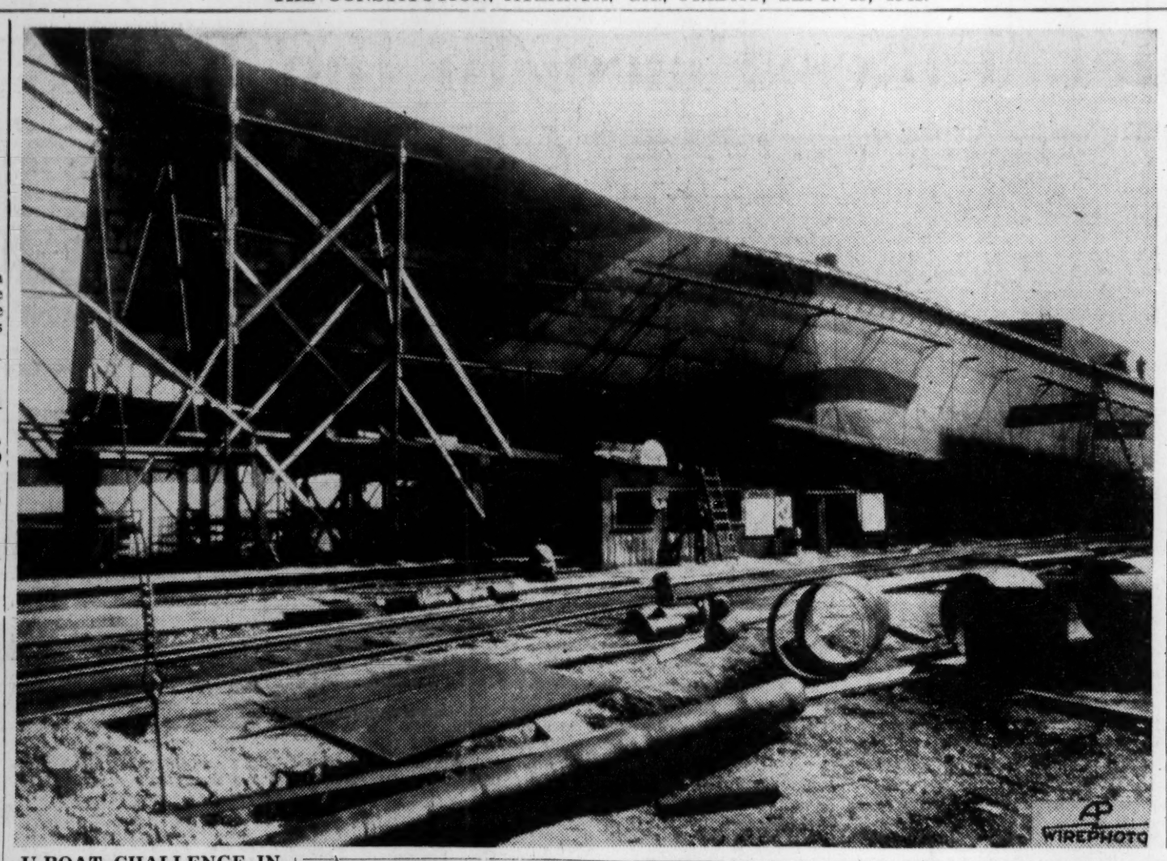

He said the union has had a closed shop agreement with most of the merchants for seven years.

U-BOAT CHALLENGE IN "SEA OTTER"—The "Sea Otter," first of a new type of cargo ship of revolutionary design announced by the Navy yesterday as a challenge to the submarine, is shown in this official Navy photograph under construction at the Levington Shipbuilding Company, Orange, Texas. Light in weight and with propeller amidships, it is believed such boats could be turned out in two months' building time, Navy engineers said.

Biddle Flays Saboteurs of U. S. Liberty

Constitutional Rights Will Survive Crisis, He Tells Lawyers.

YOSEMITE, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP) Attorney General Francis Biddle said today he had no doubt the United States government would maintain "our essential (constitutional) liberties," regardless of the severity of the crisis through which the nation may have to pass.

He stated, however, it would deal "firmly yet fairly with those miserable saboteurs who make a mask of the very liberties they are seeking to destroy."

"It is, of course, axiomatic," Biddle said in an address before the California Bar Association, "that no liberty can be absolute. Some things permissible in ordinary times cannot be safely tolerated in a time of grave peril."

He recalled that the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, in a case arising during World War days, said "When a nation is at war many things that might be said in time of peace are such a hindrance to its effort that their utterance will not be endured so long as men fight, and no court could regard them as protected by any constitutional right."

"Whatever contempt we may feel for the misguided malcontents who assert liberties only to destroy them, we need have no fear that government founded upon the processes and principles of our common law will cease to be just because the emergency compels it to be strong," Biddle added.

Ex-Premier of Spain Is Fined $10,000,000

MADRID, Sept. 18. — (AP) — The Court of Political Responsibilities today sentenced Juan Negrin, premier of Republican Spain in the civil war, to 15 years' exile, fined him 100,000,000 pesetas, and recommended that he be strip d of Spanish citizenship.

(Negrin already is in exile, having gone to Mexico after the Nationalist victory in Spain.)

The court described the fine as constituting "his entire fortune." (The amount is about $10,000,000.)

Luis Jiminez de Asua, former vice-president of the Cortes, also in exile, was sentenced to 15 years of exile, fined 8,000,000 pesetas and confronted with loss of citizenship.

Waycross To Study Drainage Problem

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 18.—City Manager O. M. Lanham will present to the city commission at its first meeting in October a detailed estimate of the cost of solving the drainage problem at the corner of State and Tebeau streets.

This is a long-standing problem and during rains water accumulates in such quantities as to drown out automobiles and to flood the first floors of business buildings near this corner.

New Legion Chief Takes Place 'In the Battle Lines Forming'

Delacey Allen Named Vice Commander As Session Closes

Mrs. Dixon, of Georgia, Nosed Out in Race for Leadership of Auxiliary.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The American Legion today elected Lynn U. Stambaugh, of Fargo, N. D., national commander in the closing session of its 23d national convention, in which the delegates took a strong stand for national defense and the President's foreign policies.

National vice commanders elected were Charles E. Booth, Huntington, W. Va.; Thomas Sawyer, Gilbert, Ariz.; Delacey Allen, Albany, Ga.; John Sullivan, St. Albans, Vt., and V. M. Armstrong, Indianapolis, Ind. The Rev. Frederick J. Halloran, Trenton, N. J., was elected national chaplain.

Mrs. Mark W. Murrill, of Scituate, Mass., was elected national president of the auxiliary by a vote of 436 to 422 for her only opponent, Mrs. Pleasant I. Dixon, of Americus, Ga.

New Commander.

Stambaugh, 51-year-old lawyer who entered the Army as a private in the 338th Field Artillery in the World War and was commissioned a second lieutenant while serving overseas, succeeded Milo J. Warner, of Toledo, Ohio, the retiring commander.

He was elected in a three-cornered race with Edward N. Scheiberling, of Albany, N. Y., and Raymond Fields, of Guthrie, Okla. He so out-distanced the field that his victory was assured before the roll call was completed, so at the request of his opponents, the count was halted and Stambaugh's election was declared unanimous.

"You have proclaimed that in the greatest needs during the months to come you do not propose to falter, that your purpose is to carry on to the end that your America and all that it means shall be secure," Stambaugh told the convention in taking office.

"It is your will, Legionnaires, that in the crisis which confronts America, the American Legion shall take its place in the battle lines forming.

"I have your orders and I take my call."

Defense Is Highlight.

Defense highlighted the convention. The delegates pledged support to the United States government, President Roosevelt, and the War and Navy Departments. They called for repeal of the American neutrality act and abolition of the restrictions on use of American troops outside of the country's boundaries. They stated the defeat of Adolf Hitler "and all that he stands for" was of prime importance and that "all diverting controversies should be subordinated to the main objective." They asked for national unity in carrying forward the defense program.

But they refused to go on record as recommending legislation for conscription of capital, labor, industry and property as well as fighting manpower during time of national emergency or war.

Such a program would set up a Fascist form of government, one delegate told the convention in objecting to the proposition.

Instead of the convention legislative committee's recommendation, the delegates adopted a substitute resolution stating in part:

"The full defense of America and its institutions should be the primary objective of an united American people; that our national defense effort should proceed without discrimination in employment, to the end that all citizens may avail themselves of their opportunity to contribute to and support our all-out defense effort. . . .

Universal Service.

"We reaffirm the principle of universal service as applicable equally to the armed forces, capital and labor and we call upon those elements of capital and labor who have been parties to delay, disturbance and strikes in essential industries to examine their responsibility to the nation in the light of the common sacrifice which all have to make."

The substitute also asked congress to practice a "sacrificing economy in non-defense expenditures" and declared that if necessity exists to peg prices "the price and cost of labor should be covered in the same legislation which may cover the cost of food products, manufactured goods, or other essentials."

The Legion will meet next year in New Orleans. Detroit and San Francisco entered bids for the 1943 session.

Legion Award Presented to Georgia Boy

Charles Brewster Wins Southern Area Scholarship.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Charles H. Brewster, 17-year-old Cedartown, Ga., high school youth, was selected today from the southern area to receive a $400 American Legion "national commander scholarship."

The award is given annually to five orphans, whose fathers were veterans and Legion members, enabling them to attend colleges.

Brewster is the son of the late Virgil S. Brewster, a second lieutenant with the 34th Infantry, and active in Georgia Legion work until his death this summer. The boy has several uncles active in the American Legion and is a nephew of Lieuteuant Colonel Phil Brewster, of the former State National Guard.

An honor graduate in his high school class, Brewster won the seventh district declamation contest and placed second in the state finals, sponsored by the Legion. He plans to study medicine at the Oxford, Ga., branch of Emory University.

Announcement of the reward was made here, where the American Legion is concluding its 23d national convention. The awards were authorized by the national executive committee last May.

The southern area is composed of the states of Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas.

WINS LEGION AWARD—Charles Hilliard Brewster, 17, of Cedartown, yesterday, at Milwaukee, was awarded the American Legion scholarship for the southern states.

Witness Tells Of Spy Suspect Seeking Photos

Detailed Production Facts on 'Latest Planes' Asked in Letter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS) A New England private in the American Army testified today that he had aided national defense even when he was still in civilian life by reporting a suspected spy to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Taking the witness stand in his Army uniform, Private Harry Thorell, 22, of Bridgeport, Conn., identified a letter asking for detailed information about American airplanes he said he had received from Edwin Heine, one of 16 alleged spies now on trial.

Heine, former manager of a Ford plant in Detroit and before that a Spanish representative of Chrysler Motors, is the only one of the defendants who was able to furnish the $25,000 bail set by the court.

Plane Photographs.

Thorell said Heine came to his home in response to an advertisement he had placed in an aviation magazine offering for sale amateur photographs of planes. He said he agreed to sell 50 of the pictures for $5 and several days later received a letter from Heine reading:

"I want pictures of current types of planes. I want the name of the manufacturers, the type of motors being produced and their construction, and the number of planes now under construction, those that have already been built, and the number of planes being planned for the future. If you want more money tell me how much. I hope we can get together intelligently about this some time."

Thorell said he immediately sent this letter to the FBI in Washington. Later the G-men arrested Heine in a round-up of 33 alleged spies, of whom 17 pleaded guilty.

Letter Identified.

Another spy trial witness was Charles A. Appel, an FBI handwriting expert, who identified a letter signed Harry Sawyer as having been written by Frederick Duquesne, a defendant and the alleged leader in this country of the spy ring.

It was written on stationery of the United States Army, indicating that in at least one instance German spies not only stole American military secrets but used War Department letterheads, embossed with the great seal of the Army, to report their espionage.

The letter was addressed to William G. Sebold, FBI agent who posed as a Nazi spy, for transmission to the Gestapo in Hamburg by means of the Long Island radio station which G-men operated as a fake spy outlet. It described a United States Army grenade gun for firing rockets, incendiary bombs and antitank grenades.

UNIFORM FUND.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 18.—Captain J. Clem Hardy and Lieutenant E. E. Dill, of the state defense corps, have requested an appropriation of $125 by the city to purchase uniforms for the members. They state the county has agreed to appropriate $125 provided the city does. The city commission referred the matter to the budget committee for action.

Nondescript RAF 'Bag' Shows Plight of Luftwaffe in West

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Indication that Germany is becoming hard-pressed for planes on the western front was seen in an air ministry news service announcement today that one of the most mixed bags of Nazi planes ever shot down was credited to a Spitfire squadron returning from an offensive action over Belgium.

Apparently, every fighter plane that can fly was hurled into action against this squadron, regardless of its chances of success. One of the Nazi victims was an American-made Curtis Hawk, the type supplied to France more than a year ago.

Another was a Henschel 123 dive-bomber, an antiquated design rarely used. Still others were a Messerschmitt 109-F, a 109-E (both obscure types) and a Junkers 52 dive-bomber. The fact that these planes were being used to fight Spitfires was taken as proof that Germany's first-line fighters are virtually non-existent in the west. None of them is a match for the oldest Spitfire.

Wickard Asks Midwest for Food Increase

Understands Billion of Aid Fund Is Earmarked for Food Supplies.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Claude R. Wickard, the Indiana hog farmer who became Secretary of Agriculture, declared today that the midwest was the pivotal point in the campaign to grow more food for America and the enemies of the Axis.

In a discussion of 1942 food quotas with 400 agricultural agents from 12 central states, Wickard said he knew "the people here in my home territory will answer the challenge."

He spoke after President Roosevelt had asked congress for $1,875,000,000 in lend-lease funds for agricultural, industrial and other commodities. Wickard said he understood a billion dollars was earmarked for food supplies.

The challenge to grow more food applies first to the upper Mississippi valley, he said, because "here we have the land—richest under the sun, and farmers who have the know-how."

"No other group of farming people on earth," he said, "can match our skill and efficiency in turning out livestock products."

He explained the crucial responsibility of the midwest thus:

Milk and meat are the two chief shortages under the lend-lease program. Since there was no time for large increases in the number of dairy cows, chickens and pigs, the government program called for greater milk production from existing cows, more eggs from hens, and better fattening of hogs.

Trust Company Plans Party for 50th Birthday

Dinner at Brookhaven Club To Honor Ernest Woodruff, Official.

The 50th anniversary of the Trust Company of Georgia will be observed at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at a dinner to be given at the Brookhaven Country Club.

Robert Strickland, president of the company, in announcing the dinner, said approximately 600 people have been invited. In addition to all the employes, officers and directors of the Trust Company, officers, directors and a delegation of employes from the National Exchange Bank of Augusta, the National Bank of Columbus, the First National Bank & Trust Company of Macon, the First National Bank & Trust Company of Rome, and the Liberty National Bank & Trust Company, of Savannah, which are associated with the Trust Company, will attend the celebration.

Ernest Woodruff, a director of the Trust Company, will be the honor guest. Woodruff was appointed on the board of directors when the Trust Company was organized in 1891. He later served as a vice president and as president.

Woman Going 'AWOL' In Britain Punished

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The "smiling corporal" of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, Frances Maude McConchie, 41, the first woman to be court-martialed in this war, was reduced to the ranks today for being absent without leave.

Hundreds of girls who walked out of the women's services have watched the case as a possible precedent for action in their cases.

At the court-martial September 1, it was stated for the prosecution that Corporal McConchie asked leave from the A. T. S., but when the group commandant would not release her she said she would "walk out." She was missed from the unit June 1 and was taken in custody at her home August 2.

New Taxpayers Shouldn't Cry, 'Big Shots' Say

By LEE CARSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(INS)—In welcoming the 5,000,000 new prospects to the once-exclusive clubs of income taxpayers, Uncle Sam today pointed out with justified pride that the initiation fee is as nothing compared to the price the charter and executive membership is paying this year for the upkeep and protection of the club grounds.

Just by way of example, Gary "Sergeant York" Cooper's off-screen contribution to the preservation of democracy completely outshines his movie role. Gary, on the basis of his last year's earnings, will be assessed some $316,384 less the high price of being a married man and a father under the new $3,550,000,000 tax bill just passed by congress.

With this wad of dough the government can buy a world of furnishings for the far-flung American barricade. If he wants to, Mr. Cooper can next March point out any four fully armed medium tanks and say truthfully, "See those tanks. I bought 'em. Pretty hot numbers, huh?" Or the long, lank and lean hero of American girlhood can rightfully claim that he has added one flying fortress, one light tank, about 20 tents and three dozen hand grenades to the arsenal of democracy this year.

Every Dime Helps.

When a tuck in a purse of $750 dims the joys of bachelorhood and the maidenly singlestep and a bite out of the family income of $1,000 sours the comforts of hearth and home, the new members can take some consolation in realizing that their six-bits or couple of bucks are being effectively used to guard the gates against crashers. A thin dime will buy five .45-caliber cartridges, for instance, and two-bits will bandage a dozen wounds. A $5 bill will buy a steel helmet for a soldier, or a raincoat for a sailor or two leg splints for the Medical Corps.

While the new members are kicking in to buy the club some needed little things, the organization bigwigs such as Charley Chaplin, Louis B. Mayer, Floyd Odum, Edsel Ford and Carole Lombard are forking over with six-figure sums to keep the big pot boiling.

The Navy, for instance, has to have a lot of aircraft carriers and battleeships to guard the swimming pools, and these skiffs run into real money. One battleship sets the club back $50,000,000 to $70,000,000 and a carrier is only $4,000,000 cheaper. It takes a lot of Louis Mayers and Fords and Du Ponts and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gables to equip the club for water sports.

Mayer to Pay $400,000.

Louis B. Mayer's tidy little salary last year of $697,048 won't look quite so pretty after he turns approximately $400,000 of it over to President Sam Americus. With that tithe, the governing body can buy a lot of necessities and knick-knacks for the first line of defense. The air forces get 1,066 propellers for training planes and have about $250 left to buy about a dozen 10-pound fragmentation bombs. Lammot Du Pont, whose workshop is turning out a lot of explosive stuff, must also pick up part of the check, in spite of being the arsenal's right hand.

Carole Lombard, who prefers being called Mrs. Clark Gable, with or without joint returns, is likely to pay something in the neighborhood of $122,699 for her locker in the clubhouse. Last year Miss Lombard or Mrs. Gable told the whole wide world that she thought the dues were little enough for the privileges allowed ladies as well as gentlemen in this organization. With Uncle Sam asking for a bigger share of her earnings as a career girl, Miss Lombard continues to fell that it's well worth the candle.

Lombard Hard Hit.

Miss Lombard's offering will make her silent partner in a pursuit ship ($76,000 per with all equipment), a nice light tank and two dozen rounds of ammunition and a bayonet with scabbard. It may not seem like an awful lot for the amount of money—but the new equipment needed is as expensive as it is potent. Of course, if Carole had the dough she could use it to get quite a nice mink coat, an ermine tippet, a new car and a really good hunting jacket for Mr. Gable.

That British beauty, Madeleine Carroll, known as the nation's choice for desert island companionship, is giving quite a few chips to further Anglo-American unity. Miss Carroll will probably be handed a bill for 170 surgical beds, a pursuit plane, 15 bombardier kits, 9 entrenching shovels, 145 rounds of .50 caliber catridges, and battle dressing—costing a total of $70,457.

Big Bill Knudsen this year earns one buck from Uncle Sam as co-manager of the Democratic Defense Organization. He made $150,000 from General Motors Corp., last year. Mr. Knudsen hasn't seen the dollar yet and if he still had that GM job on the side could give the arsenal for which he now works 10 hours or more daily, about $80,000 for the privilege. With this Big Bill might, as OPM co-director, personally supervise buying one two-motor bomber or a couple of antiaircraft guns, and a little fleet of about 40 "Jeep" cars.

Candy "Sugar" Company.

Between her fleet-footed bangtails and candy business Mrs. Ethel Mars has done all right by herself—which Uncle Sam thinks is very nice for her indeed, but of the sugar from her candy business Mrs. Mars will keep some, hand over about $60,000 membership dues on the basis of her last year's income. With $60,000 Mrs. Mars could buy quite a few Kentucky Derby hopefuls but Democracy could use it to outfit 480 fliers with parachutes and will. Edsel Ford and Robert Ripley are on different payrolls for about the same kind of money and will be almost identically nicked in March.

The organization is sorry about the whole thing but keeping up a club like ours and protecting it costs quite a pretty penny. While the gold-heeled pay for the big steel fence, the small fry will be asked to pass the hat amongst themselves to buy Uncle Sammie, the guard at the gate, an all-weather overcoat.

Re-employment Agents Appointed

The Governor has appointed re-employment agents for 188 local draft boards in Georgia, to handle the task of getting jobs for men released from the Army, it was announced yesterday.

At least one agent has been named for each board, and several will be appointed to boards in larger cities, Major Wesley Moran, at state selective service headquarters, said.

By law, it was pointed out, men who complete a term of service must be given back their old jobs and seniority.

Housing Fund Expected Soon for Walton County

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 18.—John T. Aycock, chairman of the Walton county rural housing committee, who attended a meeting in Monticello this week, at which 17 counties were represented, says that a federal appropriation of $850,000 has been made for rural housing in this section, and that it will be divided equally among the various cunties. He says that a total of $50,000 will soon be available in Walton county.

Members of the Walton county committee besides Chairman Aycock are I. M. Thompson, of Good Hope; Tom Dally, of Social Circle; W. B. Treadwell, of Gratis, and John Byrd, of Youth.

Nazi Southern Drive Viewed As Premature

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.

Russian counterattacks in the center have not yet discernibly eased Nazi pressure on either the north or south flanks of the long battle line, but they may have forced Hitler into premature action in the south.

He has started what looks like the most threatening offensive of the 90-day-old conflict—an offensive aimed at severing Red army oil arteries tapping the Baku fields.

Unquestionably, conditions for this drive would have been better a little later. The first hard freezes in the southeastern Ukraine are due next month. Until then rains along the whole course of the Dnieper from west of Moscow to the Black sea insure high waters and seas of mud, with which the German drive toward Rostov must contend.

Once the ground freezes in the south, both tank warfare and the maintenance of communications with the rear would have been easier for the Germans until heavy snow fell. Mud and high waters in the lower Dnieper marshes and along every tributary stream is certainly complicating matters now for Hitler's commanders.

Vast Offensive Moving.

Yet the Nazi war lord appears already to have loosed his legions in a vast interlocking double offensive east of the Dnieper that reaches all the way from the Densa river north of Kiev to the Black sea and has now expanded to include the Crimean peninsula. London reports that the Crimea is already isolated by road and rail from Russian armies east of the Dnieper, and there are intimations of an impending Nazi sea-air attempt to seize the whole Crimea to bolster the eastward drive from the Dnieper.

The British are reported to be bringing pressure on Turkey to deny former Italian war craft now flying the Bulgarian flag the right to proceed from the Aegean to the Black sea. This indicates that the British and Russians anticipate a sea-air attack on the Crimea.

It is feared that once the ships entered the Black sea, Bulgaria would retransfer them to Germany. Russia and Bulgaria are already verging toward hostilities. Moscow charges Bulgarians are actively co-operating with the German attack, of which the rumored warship deal might be a part.

Subs Reassembled.

There are eye-witness accounts of Nazi knockdown submarines reassembled in both Rumanian and Bulgarian waters and of ship and barge concentrations to carry a sea-borne German force up or across the Black sea. These reports strongly support the view that Hitler's attempted master stroke against Russia is already in full swing from the Kiev area south around the Dnieper elbow to the Crimea.

Presumably the Nazi bridgehead at the Dnieper bend has been expanded to cut the Alexandrovsk-Crimean railroad, the only rail connection with the peninsula.

The London report indicates also that German forces are astride of the only highway connection with the Crimea via the Perekop isthmus. If that is true, the whole Ukrainian mainland segment south of the lower Dnieper must be under Nazi control.

Sea Contact Insufficient.

The Crimea still has sea contact with the mainland both by the Black sea and the Sea of Atov. Defense of the peninsula would be seriously hampered by lack of land routes, however. And in German hands the Crimea could become an added threat to Rostov and a base of operations for a direct German drive toward the Baku field and its pipe lines southeast of the Rostov corner.

Moreover, winter weather would offer no sure safeguard to Russians defending the Caspian oil fields once Nazi forces secured bases in the Crimea. It is the site of famous Russian winter resorts and all the north and northeast Black sea coast and its hinterland is largely free of the extreme cold and heavy snows that for the six winter months grip the rest of the 2,000-mile Nazi-Soviet battle line from the Black sea to the Arctic ocean.

Jury Criticizes Pardon System

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—The Johnson county grand jury today sharply criticized the method of granting pardons and paroles to convicted criminals in Georgia, and suggested that applications for clemency be passed on by grand juries in the county of the crime.

Under the present system, the jury charged, "fair opportunity" is denied the citizens of the county in which a crime is committed to be heard upon the merits of applications for clemency.

"This grand jury feels that there is a great need for improvement in the system" of granting pardons and paroles, it said.

At the time an application for clemency is filed with the State Prison Commission, the jury suggested a copy of the application should be filed with the clerk of court in which said applicant was originally convicted, to be tendered to the next grand jury of the county for its approval or rejection.

Third Army Employs Air Blitz

By JERRY T. BAULCH.

WITH THE SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The air superiority of Lieutenant General Walter Krueger's Third Army stopped the Second Army advance through the center of a 70-mile front today and airplanes supporting ground troops sent Lieutenant General Ben Lear's Second Army forces reeling backward on the east in a frantic defense of the stronghold of Natchitoches.

At sunset, the Third Army attackers were on the outskirts of Natchitoches attempting to fight their way across the Cane river cutting through the town. The Second Army defender blew up a bridge and antiaircraft guns were set up along with machineguns to ward off squadron after squadron of bombers and pursuit ships that dived on military concentrations.

Threat Is Sudden.

The threat to the vital city along the Red river came suddenly after the Second Army had launched an early morning drive to cut the Blue lines with a combined assault of mechanized troops, cavalry, planes, infantry and artillery units.

I rode ahead of the main tank attack in a column of half-track scout cars spearheading the Second Army assault at dawn and at midday retreated with the Red infantry 60 miles eastward.

They struck with daylight after a tank column I accompanied had started for the front after a brief stop for breakfast and refueling.

Fist Fights Occur.

This column was the principal one of four hitting at the Third Army in an attempt to open the way for the infantry to follow. Side by side with both horse and mechanized cavalry, the seemingly endless lines of tanks hit at the Third Army lines of infantrymen and artillery, which had fought a stalemated battle for three days.

The infantry battles had climaxed the night before in fist fights between troops as the tension mounted. Umpires received a few wild blows before separating the men.

Tanks sped through a jungle of trees, knocked down fences and pursued Third Army troopers for miles. Except for a few jams on the narrow roads, the Second Army displayed perfect co-ordination as infantry afoot followed the mechanized and horse forces and artillery was brought in behind.

'Chutists Captured.

With the attack moving smoothly, I traveled 60 miles to the Red River, where another battle was reported in progress.

General Krueger again resorted to the use of parachute troops but all 38 were captured soon after they landed near the Red River.

The Third Army's Fourth and Fifth Corps continued to pour in infantry and artillery while scores of planes engaged in dogfights overhead. Third Army pursuit ships began strafing the front and forced Second Army forces to retreat toward Natchitoches, 15 miles north.

Stiff fights along the Red River between the opposing forces were reported southward around Colfax and Montgomery with General Lear's forces trying to keep the Blues on the east shore.

The Second Army quickly rushed artillery to protect Natchitoches, but before they were set up the town was bombed.

Meanwhile, a third parachute flight of some 40 "suicide" attackers was reported on the western flank, with the paratroopers in control of a bridge and destroying vital communication lines behind the tank columns.

CANNON-FIRING PLANES ENGAGE TANK CORPS

By RICE YAHNER.

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Louisiana war games today became an air-ground slugging match with airplanes, armored forces and weary soldiers putting everything they had into the Second vs. Third Army training exercises now seemingly approaching a decisive stage.

Before dawn today Third Army planes dropped brilliant flares over forces of the Second Army, driving southwestward with mighty armored fighting teams as its spearhead, and immediately the Third Air Task Force began sending over wave after wave of bombing and fighting planes to blast the fast, steel-protected Second Army columns hitting between the Red River on the east and the Sabine River on the west.

For the great airplane-tank fight, the Army threw into action cannon-firing fighting planes that in war would fire explosive armor-piercing shells. It is the first time the planes — swift, single-seater fighters—have been used for anything except attack upon other planes.

Success in Europe.

They mount 37-millimeter guns, the same size as the Army's principal antitank weapon, and fire through the propeller hub. The plane has had a successful baptism of fire in Europe, where it is known as the "Caribou." The Army calls it P-38.

Each side used its full forces in the continued conflict that was launched Monday. It was a grueling test of men and equipment for rarely have maneuvers progressed more than 72 hours without rest.

Today's spectacle of about 600 planes in constant bombing raids and aerial dogfights was the greatest display of air might that the Army has put in the field since the defense program started.

Even the Third Army's 400-mile-an-hour pursuit planes were equipped, theoretically, with 500-pound bombs in the assault of the Second Army's two armored divisions. As fast as they reached their targets, they sped back to their bases, reloaded and were off again.

Air Force Proven.

The Third Army had an edge of about 55 pursuit craft in the air battle. The Second Army had to concentrate its aviation over the armored divisions to protect them from bombers so they could get set for a "break through."

Already an important lesson developed in the war games is that forces in the skies can restrict mechanized forces by canalizing their efforts to permit ground artillery to get at them.

Major General Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the Third Air Task Force, said today's operations epitomized the teamwork necessary for successful battle operations.

"Here we have Navy fliers fighting in the battle of the ground for their first time," he said. "The idea of separate branches in field fighting is losing its meaning."

Briton Praises Work.

Observing the co-ordination of operations at General Dargue's headquarters was Vice Air Marshal P. C. Maltby, who has been in charge of similar work for the Army and Royal Air Force in England. He said he was "much impressed with the enthusiasm and determination" of American fliers participating in the simulated warfare of the Louisiana maneuvers.

The Army and Navy pilots here are on duty 24 hours daily, as they would be in war, and are in the air most of the day and often at night.

Court Orders Appearance of Two Officials

Stewart and Huffman Called by Underwood in Hatch Act Case.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday gave J. E. B. Stewart, director of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation for the state, and Rex P. Huffman, the bureau's clearance officer, until 10 a. m., October 11, to show cause why they should not be required to answer questions and produce documents in response to United States Civil Service Commission charges of violating the Hatch act.

Judge Underwood's orders to show cause were granted on petition of the United States Civil Service Commission, which charged that Stewart and Huffman failed to answer a subpoena duces tecum requiring them to produce "all cancelled checks, certain state check stubs and each and every receipt pertaining to the account in the Fulton National Bank, which required the signature of J. E. B. Stewart and Rex P. Huffman and B. F. Holbrook."

The petition, signed by Lawrence V. Meloy, attorney for the Civil Service Commission, charges the two state officials appeared at separate hearings August 13 and 15, but refused to answer any question other than to state their names. They based their refusal to testify upon the protection guaranteed them by the constitution, the petition states.

The Civil Service Commission issued the subpoena for Stewart and Huffman on information that each of the officials "used his official authority and influence for the purpose of interfering with the general election held November 5, 1940 . . . he directed and supervised the collection of political contributions by employes of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation for campaign purposes" and that the two "coerced, attempted to coerce, commanded, indirectly commanded, and advised" employes to pay, lend or contribute a part of their salaries to the political fund.

Atlanta Child Found Drowned In Front Yard Pool at Home

Little Martha Celia Shiver, three-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Peace, of 106 Winburn terrace, East Point, was drowned yesterday afternoon in a large pool in the front yard of her home.

Latching the screen door to her room, with the child inside, Mrs. Peace lay down for a nap about 4:30 o'clock. When she awoke a half hour later she found the screen door unlatched and the child missing.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Howard L. Carmichael.

Pan-American Effort Urged in Border Conflict

Mexico Proposes Collective Plan for Peru-Ecuador Peace.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—(AP) Mexico formally proposed a collective Pan-American effort tonight to end the border hostilities between Peru and Ecuador.

The conflict was described as threatening the "moral and political cohesion of our hemisphere."

The proposal was put forward in a message the foreign ministry sent on orders of President Avila Camacho to the United States, Argentina and Brazil.

The Objective

The suggestion, by Mayor LeCraw, that a commissioner of public safety, named by the FBI, be brought to Atlanta and given complete authority over the police department, offers a genuine solution of the department confusion.

If, as indicated by offer of the police committee to resign, all factions unite in determination that the new commissioner shall have absolute control over the department, the move holds bright promise of ending the political factionalism and recurring squabbles which, for years, have hamstrung efforts for effective law enforcement here.

Records compiled by the FBI paint a discouraging picture of local law enforcement for the past eighteen months. Compared to other cities, per hundred thousand of population, Atlanta's record reveals a higher rate of crime, in almost all categories, than practically all, including cities both north and south.

Whether Chief Hornsby may justly be blamed for this is open to question. He is presumed to have enjoyed a free hand and full control of the department during 1940, at least. It must be remembered, however, that political factionalism has been rampant in the local force for many years. It is hardly possible to remember a year out of the last three decades when there has not been some sort of fight over control, promotion or prerogative in the local force. Chief Hornsby inherited this precedent and, inevitably, was thereby handicapped, regardless of freedom from council or committee interference.

The same would probably be true of any local man.

The proposal, however, to bring in a competent outsider, a recognized expert on law enforcement and the management of a police organization, makes possible a fresh start, with a slate wiped clean of jealousies and politics.

If, in the two years trial period proposed, such a man could not show vast improvement in the organization, efficiency and personnel of the force, with resultant drastic betterment of Atlanta's crime record, it will simply signify that he is not the right man for the job. There can be no alibis, if the promise that there shall be no outside interference is observed.

There is one factor, however, over which no local authority can have control. That is the attitude of the courts and of the pardoning authorities toward accused, and convicted, criminals. It is impossible for any police force, regardless of efficiency, to keep down crime if the courts and parole authorities are constantly turning loose the criminals caught by the police.

Given proper co-operation by the courts and the parole authorities, however, the new plan for the head of the local police force should bring good results. For it recognises that there is only one objective for the police, individually and collectively. That is law enforcement.

Farthest north in this or any war is Spitzbergen, where the natives think of Iceland as Dixie.

Argentina Watches

Herr Kapitan Fritz may protest and protest and protest that his missions are harmless and that he comes as a friend, but the obvious—and therefore likely to be overlooked—truth is he would not be in Hitler's diplomatic service at all if he did not subscribe 100 per cent to the ideas of his bloodstained boss. The fact that he rates well with Hitler, and has a reputation for being the Berchtesgaden Bully's trouble-shooter for the Americas, is additional evidence that Wiedemann does all Hitler asks him to do—and then some.

It should come as welcome news to liberty-loving citizens of this nation that this course of closely watching such a menace to free peoples and free institutions is being taken by Argentine officialdom. It means, for one thing, that the South Americans are co-operating with the United States in stamping out snakes in the grass, and, for another, that the South Americans are not so blind they cannot see a bad 'un when he appears in all his camouflage. Further, it means the days are rapidly passing when all a Nazi had to do to get away with murder in a democratic country was to look pious and lie like a Munchausen.

That this is all to the good goes without saying. The record is too long of cases where Nazi poisoners dropped their corroding acids on the frameworks of democracies. It is about time the would-be victims woke up.

Government finance is beyond us. We don't even understand how the burlesque show candy butcher encloses a wrist-watch and $5 bill in each 15-cent package.

It Had To Come

It had to come. That is the reaction of most persons to the news that, under a working agreement between the United States Navy and the British fleet, English-bound Atlantic convoys have been guaranteed heavy naval escort all the way from the shores of the North American continent to Britain.

The United States has taken this announcement in its stride for the simple—and excellent—reason that most Americans recognize the basic point involved in the whole question of to convoy or not to convoy. And that is: What earthly good does it do the United States or Britain if we make efforts to supply Britain and the other enemies of Hitlerism with the products of our industry if those products land on the bottom of the sea? The majority reaction is, let's get that material to them, even if it means using the United States Navy to do it.

The convoy arrangement has much to recommend it. In the first place, it is bound to result in an immediate drastic reduction in the toll of German submarine and surface raider warfare. In the second, it is expected that with Uncle Sam's Navy seeing that planes, tanks, guns, ammunition, and all the other implements needed to defeat the bully of Berlin get to their destinations, a good 95 per cent of United States lend-lease materials will reach England safely. The agreement also permits the British fleet to concentrate its efforts on safeguarding its shipping for the last 800 crucial miles of the journey and to release naval units for much-needed reinforcement of the Mediterranean fleet.

As for the United States fleet, Americans can take heart in the fact that the Atlantic fleet has been heavily reinforced and that the Army air force, using long-range two and four-engined bombers, has joined the Navy's warship and fleet air arm units in creating as nearly as possible a constant patrol of the Atlantic all the way to Iceland. The fleet has its orders regarding the ocean "rattlesnakes." And the marksmanship of our Navy has always been a point of pride.

We don't know about defense co-ordinators, but there is a type of traffic cop who can tie up things for blocks by interfering with nature.

Don't Be Gullible

Don't believe second-hand, anonymous or word of mouth rumors about unrest and dissatisfaction among the members of Uncle Sam's rapidly expanding Army. And, even if one of the boys in khaki himself tells you that things are not quite as he would have them, in the service, remember that some of the boys weren't enthusiastic about civil life, too. And it is a prerogative of all soldiers to grouse about something or other. The toast or the camp or the drill sergeant or the second looey or something.

There is no doubt that subversive agents, deluded folks who actually want the Nazis to conquer the world—including the U. S.—are deliberately trying to stir up worries, among the folks at home, about the life of the men in the Army.

Recently an Army intelligence officer revealed one of the latest tricks of these gentry. That is to drop unsigned letters of complaint in the wake of marching troops. The idea is that folks who pick up these letters will believe them written by the men in the Army, will give them full credence and thus start another rumor of "I heard, isn't it awful—"

Unsigned letters, whoever they are from, soldiers or civilians, on any subject, deserve only to go into the waste basket unread.

Georgia Editors Say:

FATHER—HE'S A GREAT GUY!
(From The Bulloch Herald)

"Your father is the greatest man in the world. He is the best friend you have on the earth."

So said Dr. A. J. Mooney addressing the members of the Rotary Club and their sons at their father-son meeting held this week.

It was one of the most inspirational meetings that the club has held since its organization. Every member of the club who has a son played host to that son or sons at that meeting and many of the members who are not fathers or who do not have sons borrowed the son of one of his friends.

Thirty-two sons present. The youngest was just more than one year old and the oldest was himself the father of a girl about 16 years old.

The meeting was one to make a father more aware of his son and sons. It was a meeting to make every son realize that his father "is the greatest man in the world and the best friend he has on the earth."

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

BEHIND NAPOLEON WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—It may be a matter of more historical interest than military significance, but Hitler, already far behind in his Russian time table, has now passed the date where he might have equaled the record of Napoleon in capturing Moscow.

Climaxing a campaign 77 days old, Napoleon marched into Moscow on September 14, 1812—129 years ago. Hitler is still 200 miles away.

They both started out on their Russian invasion at about the same time, Napoleon on June 24 and Hitler two days earlier. Both reached their first important Russian objective, Vilna, in much the same time, Hitler in two and Napoleon in four days. Napoleon was at Grodno July 5, Hitler June 23. Smolensk was taken by the French army August 16; the Nazis announced on August 6 that the battle over the city had been won.

Here the comparison ends. In no other respects are the two campaigns similar. Napoleon, whose fastest mobile unit was a horse, started out with 600,000 men, a tremendous army for those days; Hitler is supposed to have employed some 2,500,000 men in the initial movement, most of them traveling in fast motorized equipment supported by 350 miles-per-hour dive bombers—undreamed-of military devices 100 years ago.

DIFFERENT STRATEGIES There is likewise no comparison between the strategies of the two invading forces. Napoleon used a single spearhead drive against Moscow, always his main objective. Hitler's attack was spread out over an 1,800-mile war front.

Also the Russians used different tactics in resisting Napoleon than they have against Hitler. Outnumbered and usually defeated whenever it made a stand, the Czar's army, purposely or otherwise, followed a policy of drawing the French in, desolating the country as it retreated. The two armies fought often and desperately, however.

Against the Germans the Russians have put up the stiffest kind of opposition all along the far-flung battle front. Before yielding Smolensk to the Nazis they apparently burned the city to the ground, just as they did before Napoleon captured it 129 years ago.

Hitler's original time table is said to have called for the conquest of the Soviets in six weeks, which would be 42 days. If this is true, reasons of vanity suggest that he may have hit on the figure deliberately as a means of breaking Napoleon's record, which actually was only 43 days, making allowance for the 18 days the French army loitered at Vilna and the 16 days it halted at Vitebsk.

NAPOLEON'S BLUNDER According to the historians, Napoleon, military genius though he was, made one of his many blunders at Borodino, where the Russians, seeking to block the road to Moscow, forced the main pitched battle of the war. Upwards of a quarter of a million men fought each other throughout the day of September 7, until some 70,000 were killed or wounded. At a decisive moment in the battle he was urged by three of his foremost generals—Ney, Murat and Davoust—to order in the reserves. The Russians were reported to be in distress everywhere and the Imperial Guard, constituting the reserves, might have turned the tide definitely. Napoleon hesitated; finally refused. Next morning the Russians were in retreat again.

There has been too much romanticizing about the most crucial phase of the 1812 Russian campaign. Some radio commentators and newspaper columnists have drawn a false picture of Napoleon's victorious entry into Moscow, only to find a city of ashes which forced his retreat and spelled his final doom.

As a matter of fact, the city was quite intact when his army marched in a week after the battle of Borodino. It was not until the night of September 16, two days later, that Moscow was destroyed by fire.

EMPTY CITY Historians are not at all agreed as to the cause of the fire. The French blamed it on the Russians, who had burned Smolensk under similar circumstances to deprive the invading army of supplies and shelter, but so eminent a Russian as Tolstoi, after a careful examination of all the known data, contends that the carelessness of the French soldiers, engaged in looting, was responsible for the fire. The Russians themselves, even civilians, had completely evacuated the city before Napoleon arrived, so that he found only deserted streets and empty houses when he entered.

Whatever the cause, the spectacle of the conflagration was an apt prelude to the disaster which later accompanied the retreat from Moscow. As described by Napoleon, who was awakened in the middle of the night to view the fire from windows of the Kremlin, "it was the grandest, sublimest, most terrible sight the world ever saw. . . . It was the spectacle of a sea and billows of fire, a sky and clouds of fire, mountains of red, rolling fire, like immense ocean waves, alternately bursting forth and lifting themselves to skies of fire, and then sinking into an ocean of fire below."

Fanned by high winds from the Russian steppes, the flames reduced the wooden structures of the city to ashes. There was not enough shelter left to house half of the army. In the retreat that followed through the winter, Napoleon's original army of 600,000 men and 100,000 horses dwindled to a straggling force of 17,000.

SILHOUETTES

A Passe System.

A recent Fulton grand jury recommended restoration of the old-time "red light district" as the best means of controlling what we used to call, euphemistically, "the social evil."

It happened I was on vacation at the time of this recommendation but, since my return, quite a few people have asked my opinion of the proposal.

Frankly, I'm opposed to it. But I believe my reasons for opposition are somewhat different from those of many who have risen in their righteous wrath. Because there's no righteous wrath at all in my antagonism. Just quiet, calm acceptance of conditions, in the old days and today.

I grew up, as a youth, in the era when every city and town had its red light district. Prostitutes, in those days, lived exclusively in the district. They didn't establish themselves in houses or apartments in reputedly respectable residential areas. They didn't make the hotels their headquarters. And you didn't find them frequenting places of refreshment or entertainment, all over the map. Not even the saloons, save those saloons which were frankly a part of the district itself.

But such a system would be impossible to operate today.

For This Reason.

Because, in the old days, anyone could recognize a prostitute whenever and wherever he might see her. There was something about their dress and manner which differentiated them as distinctively as in the days of ancient Rome, when they wore garments of special color.

Decent women, in the old days, didn't wear lipstick, to notice, or pluck their eyebrows or rouge their cheeks. Decent women would die rather than permit a couple of inches of ankle to show beneath the hem of the skirt. Decent women didn't go into hotels or saloons or theaters or any public places, after dark, unescorted. Why, they weren't ever seen on the streets, alone.

There was a gulf of difference between the two classes of women, the good women and the prostitutes. A prostitute was known as such, wherever she went. And so it was easy to confine them to the red light district.

Today, without laboring the point, everyone knows it is different. The recognition of the two classes is not so easy.

Not That Present Plan Is Satisfactory.

Mind you, I agree with the grand jury that present conditions are bad. Undeniably.

I can remember when Chief Beavers, egged on by the reform element, closed down Atlanta's official red light district. With lots of publicity fanfare. Dramatic, it was, the way he posted police guards to keep all males out of the district and the way he gave every woman there a week's time to get out of town.

I can remember, however, what happened afterwards. How the prostitutes scattered, here and there over the city. How various sections felt the blight of their presence and became, to all intents and purposes, unrecognized red light districts.

Ivy street used to be a street where good people had their homes. But the prostitutes swarmed into the apartments and, in a short time, no decent person dared live in any of a dozen blocks. Then it was given over to business and to the Negroes.

Then the Williams street area felt the blight.

Boulevard, after the big fire, should have been ideal location for folks who wanted to live within easy distance of their work, in the city. But too many women of ill repute found apartments there and, for years, nice people avoided it like the plague. I understand, by the way, that it has slowly won back to respectability, today.

Forrest avenue was likewise lost. It, like Ivy street, is given over to business and to Negro apartments today, in large part.

And, I suppose, there is some other section which is undergoing the blight, now.

I don't think we'll ever solve the problem in the reformers' way. I don't think the day will come, before the millenium, when all men and all women will be rigorously virtuous. I don't like the present condition of affairs. I don't think it is fair to property owners or to good people who see the apartment next to their's become a bawdy house.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, September 19, 1916:

"Along a one-mile front the British have advanced another thousand yards and have captured a German fortified work which had previously resisted all their efforts."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, September 19, 1891:

"The John M. Moore Shoe Manufacturing Company was chartered yesterday. The incorporators are John M. Moore, Wilber L. Moore and J. Holley and the capital stock is $30,000."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

Both Worried NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—My colleague, Ray Clapper, has just whipped up a batch of worry for himself over the "reckless perversion," as he calls it, of free speech and criticism in this perilous time and I will say that I have felt some bother, too, and not so much over the free expressions of others as over some of my own. Some days I am frightened by my own stuff and wonder if it wouldn't be better citizenship on my part and more helpful journalism to throw in a sentimental one about the death of my dog or a tribute of some grand old man of this or that, to help ease the public blood pressure.

But then I get to thinking about this dangerous union thing, this invisible empire of the irresponsibilities which President Roosevelt has set up in our country, and I find that I am more afraid of that than of Hitler and Stalin. I know the President is a politician and I have been told by one of his more important appointees that it is absolutely impossible for a leader to make open admission of a mistake, lest he lose the confidence of the country and cause worse harm thereby than by his original error. But this man said, and he is one of the President's true-believing, kiver-to-kiver men, that the political way to get results is to keep hammering with facts, thus arousing an organized opposition or compelling the President, himself, eventually to pretend that this danger is a new development and to take the responsibility and credit for a reform.

He Holds Same Views Incidentally, my friend, Mr. Nameless, thinks exactly as I do about the character of the leadership of our unions and sees eye-to-eye with me the danger of uncontrolled power and it may surprise you to learn that a lot of New Dealers privately hold the same views.

Some of the wiser and more practical and patriotic unioneers also wish someone would take some of their power away from them, because they realize that power unaccompanied by responsibility is dangerous to all concerned. But they won't say so publicly, because they simply lack courage and the citizenship to face the inevitable storm of epithets and lies from the union fakers and the Communists in the New Deal.

Now there is another subject that scares me sometimes, Communists in the New Deal. When I accuse the New Deal of harboring Communists and permitting these evil traitors to harass Americans and undermine our form of government I am afraid I am alienating some of our people from our elected leadership. But, damn it, it is true and it is wrong and it shouldn't be. But instead of doing anything about it, our government protects the Communists and tries to smother and discredit the Dies committee, which, by utterances of the President and gestures of Mrs. Roosevelt, plus propaganda written by the administration group of journalists, has been made to look like a lot of clowns and Kluxers. The Dies committee is all right.

Way To Get Results So the only way to get results is to criticize and prove up, thus forcing the administration to take action, or arousing an organized opposition which will toss the administration out and institute reforms. But such criticism and proof inescapably must shake the people's confidence in their government at a time when every heart and mind should be united against foreign perils.

I know quite a few young Americans who are under arms or will be under arms soon and facing a war and I just can't see myself at their age making such sacrifices to the end that, even if our side wins, we then settle down to a life under a lot of American Brown Shirt gangs not much different from Hitler's and certainly no more desirable just because we call them pickets or goons. I claim that a union mob should have no more standing than any other mob, but I realize that these mobs operate with the indorsement and encouragement of our government.

Right To Reward For that matter, all of us are going to make great sacrifices and I, for one, am resigned to a belief that in the end I will have lost every material thing that I have worked for and acquired honestly since I was 15 years old. My neighbors and you and your neighbors face this sacrifice and whether we make it cheerfully or grudgingly we have a right to know that the reward will be something better than Hitlerism or Communism, between which there is no choice, in our own country.

So, in clouting away at the Brown Shirts of the unions and the Communists both in unions and in the government, I may be impairing the people's faith in their President, but all he has to do to shut me up is to give congress permission to curtail the power of the Brown Shirts and throw out the Communists.

The Brown Shirts—ruled, in many cases that I have proved, by common underworld criminals—and the Communists are my principal obsession. I have no enthusiasm to sacrifice for the privilege of being ruled by them and I am sure most real American families feel the same way.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

WILLKIE HATERS During the 1940 presidential campaign Mr. Devereux Lippitt went up and down the state speaking in behalf of Mr. Willkie.

He knew his cause was lost before he began it, but he sweated through the summer, speaking in hostile towns and before hostile crowds.

Mr. Lippitt was an Independent Democrat and his group had nominated Mr. Willkie. Now and then a knife was drawn on him, but always there were enough fair-minded farmers to stand firm and glare down the toughest hecklers.

Mr. Lippitt was trying to deliver a message. It was to vote what one believed.

He was made sick a time or two by the dishonesty of some of the leading men he met. He came to believe that one thing wrong with government was that too many men of position were afraid to take a stand on their own beliefs. Once he had the president of the Roosevelt Club in a Georgia town come around to him and say he was even more bitter against Roosevelt than was Mr. Lippitt himself.

"But you," said the amazed disciple of Willkie, "are president of the Roosevelt Club."

"Well, you know how it is," said the gentleman.

"I am afraid I do," said Mr. Willkie's manager, "and I must be frank and say it does not possess much character."

His story of that summer is quite a story and I see now I should have devoted all of this to that summer of suffering, but it will have to serve as an introduction.

To this—

The other day Mr. Lippitt was halted by a lady whom he described as "beak-faced."

"What do you think of Mr. Willkie now?" she asked.

"I love him more than ever," said Mr. Lippitt.

"I hate him, hate him, hate him," said the beak-faced lady.

NO TIME FOR HATE "Why," said Mr. Lippitt, "this is no time for hates. The campaign is over. Mr. Roosevelt is the commander-in-chief. There is no turning back. I am for him until another campaign comes around. I think Mr. Willkie is a great patriot."

"I hate him," said the beak-faced lady.

"If you keep spreading hates you may not have a chance to have another campaign or to live your life as you've led it," said Mr. Lippitt.

"I hate him," she said, and went scuttling away.

"That," said Mr. Lippitt, "taught me something. It taught me this: There were a great many people who supported Wendell Willkie not because they were for him, but because they hated Mr. Roosevelt. We are glad to find them out and glad to be rid of them. I can see now they hurt us in the last campaign more than any other one factor. We had riding with us a great many influential persons who spent their time, not working for Willkie, but hating Mr. Roosevelt. I am a novice at this business, but I am learning, and the beak-faced lady helped me a lot."

All of which, of course, is true.

The Roosevelt haters have now become the Willkie haters. Their hate is so vicious they easily can spread it around. They let it embrace Roosevelt and Willkie. You can find some of them privately supporting Mr. Lindbergh and Senator Wheeler.

It is not anything new and, I don't think, very alarming. It is not comfortable. But it is not really alarming. These small-souled people who go about spreading hates and lies don't really amount to much. The great body of American people have the common sense to see them for what they are. They obscure the issues for a while, but not for long.

THE GALLUP POLL Those who spend their time hating Mr. Willkie read, I hope, the latest Gallup poll. The report was based on discussions of presidential possibilities in 1944. It showed that public confidence overwhelmingly supported Wendell Willkie.

That ought to make it plain that he has the support of the people. Since he has that support, and since he consistently has supported the President's foreign policies, it means the President and those policies have the confidence of the public.

There simply is no getting around that fact. If the President overwhelmingly was elected on that policy, and if Mr. Willkie, who supports them and even urges going beyond them, is named as the man most favored in 1944, then those policies and those men have the support of the people.

Mr. Willkie, it will be recalled, said in his campaign speeches that no one man could guarantee a peace. Peace, he said, was not something a nation could achieve by itself.

The people can see that now. Hitler has shown them that a nation may want peace and yet be attacked and conquered in a bloody war.

One of the very real disasters of our political system has been that the selfish Republican leaders in congress have refused to follow Mr. Willkie's leadership.

He is a great public servant, second only, perhaps, to the President and to Cordell Hull. In many respects, he is more important than they. He could have been the one man, had there been bitterness and hate in his soul, who could have torn this country apart. Some of the haters tried to make him do it.

He stands as one of the great men of this nation. He had character beyond the expediencies of politics.

A Letter to a Young Mother Concerning Imperfect Junior

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Now that Bobby has started to school, you need not be surprised to receive reports of strife and mayhem. But whatever happens, don't blame Bobby. He is what you have made him.

To say that a six-year-old boy is "spoiled" or "ruined" is utter nonsense; but he has some rather serious faults, and you haven't much time in which to correct them, for his character is beginning to jell and the next few years will tell the story.

His chief fault is that he doesn't obey. He doesn't become violently rebellious; he simply ignores commands that run contrary to his desires. And whether you speak softly or sternly or squall at the top of your voice, he remains calmly and grandly indifferent.

Have you ever wondered why he doesn't mind? I think there are two explanations, and he isn't responsible for either.

About the noisiest thing in America is Niagara Falls, yet the roar becomes so familiar to people who live near that few are ever aware of it.

By the time Bobby was able to use his hands, he began to do things you didn't approve. And from that time until the present, he has been bombarded with a constant stream of "don'ts." No matter what he did, bad or innocent, somebody cried "don't" at him. And when he had heard that command forty times a day for several years, it no longer made any impression on his consciousness.

If you had corrected him only when he did something really wrong, and at all other times had pretended not to notice his imperfections, a "don't" would mean something to him now.

Another serious mistake was that of depending on physical force instead of moral force. If you were ready to leave and told him to quit his play and put on his coat, you never wasted any time in argument. If he didn't obey promptly, you seized him and got him inside his coat by force. It saved time, but it was poor strategy. For physical force is effective only within reach of your hands, while the range of moral foroce is unlimited.

Maybe his teacher will be smart enough to undo the harm you have done, but I shouldn't count on it. If the potter doesn't shape the clay as it should be, nobody else is likely to feel interested enough to make corrections.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"Don't bother with him! Can't you see?—He's a married man!"

New Champion: On Changing Diapers. He's a Poor Sucker

Great state of Wyoming, where they raise big steers and he-men with hair on their chests, has a new distinction. He is Jim Satterfield, who claims to be the diaper-changing champion of the world. He, too, is a big guy—more than 6 feet tall and a former football player.

Mr. Satterfield has demonstrated that he can wake up, toss off the blankets, hit the floor, change the baby into dry garments and get back under the blanket in 22 1-2 seconds. Whether he gets back to sleep or not is not clearly revealed in the news stories.

I have no envy of Mr. Satterfield's accomplishments.

It has been a long, long time since any one of my offspring required such personal attention.

And never, except in an extreme state of emergency, did they get it from me.

It is odd, that with all the progress the world has seen—the airplane, the radio, the electric refrigerator, the zipper—the diaper of King Solomon's day has remained. It is true, I am informed, that after all those centuries somebody discovered they worked better if folded square instead of diagonally. And I have also heard that some are made of rubber fabric and some of "disposable" paper—or cellophane or something. To be used once and thrown away. I hope they're not cellophane, for I like to think that even an infant, of either sex, has some feeling of modesty.

But I never did learn the technique of changing diapers. I could take one off. But I never could put one on, successfully. An infant has no waistline. No hips. Nothing you can pin something over and depend on. We needed suspenders for diapers, but nobody ever thought of that.

Pays To Be Dumb

My efforts were so futile that I was no longer called upon for the task. And a great white light broke upon me which has served me in good stead ever since.

It pays to be dumb and awkward and inept and all those things.

Once let your wife discover you can sew on a button or mend a garden hose or fix an electric cord, you are lost. You'll never find a moment of your own.

I know men who might have become able executives downtown if they hadn't been forced to think of darning socks or putting a patch on their pants or stopping by the grocery store and picking out a really good steak, a head of fresh lettuce and a dozen tomatoes—not too green or too ripe. They might have risen to a point where they could employ five servants, a housekeeper, a valet, a seamstress and a special grocery-shopping expert. Instead, they are toiling away in a corner under a green eyeshade and trembling every time the boss strolls by.

It is my secret pride that I'm not worth a tinker's cussword around the house.

Years ago—because I am fond of coffee the first thing in the morning and the rest of the family prefers to sleep—I learned to make coffee. Good coffee, too. And I've been making coffee ever since.

No, sir, it doesn't pay to be too durn smart. It will get you into bad habits. Habits forced upon you by others. The theory that a woman's place is in the home has been rather well exploded—by the women. But my theory that a man's place is downtown in his workshop still holds good.

Spaghetti—Et Cet

When is spaghetti macaroni and when is it vermicelli or something else? Or is it?

News story says Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, has called a public hearing on this momentous subject for September 29. If Mr. McNutt had cut the "Mc" off his name one could understand it better.

It appears that complaints have been received by customers who ordered macaroni in food stores and got spaghetti, resulting in great humiliation and mental anguish.

My personal knowledge of these Italian paste products is not what you'd call technical.

If I am correct, macaroni is about as big around as a lead pencil, when cooked, and has a hole all the way through it, for no apparent reason except to make people wonder how they made the hole. My personal opinion is that the Swiss, who bite the holes in Swiss cheese, crossed over into Italy and took up macaroni making. But I don't believe even a squirrel could bite a hole two feet long and an eighth of an inch in diameter without weakening the side walls or coming out before he reached the end. So maybe my theory won't stand up.

Spaghetti, on the other hand, is slender and solid. It has no hole through it. And it's more trouble to manipulate. Cooks cut macaroni into convenient size. But it seems there's a law or something about cutting spaghetti. Emily Post, I think, considers it bad form to cut it even after it's on your plate. I have not her ponderous volume before me, but I think she follows the orthodox system. Which is wrapping it around your fork—using only your fork hand—until you get to the end of something, and then inserting it in your mouth. A system probably designed by or for Joe E. Brown.

Takes an Expert

It is fascinating to watch across the table, a lovely young girl whose mouth is like a rosebud fresh with dew and lipstick No. 372, sunset crimson, build up a forkful of spaghetti, dripping with meat sauce or tomato catsup, and consider ways and means of placing it where it will do the most good.

Experienced spaghetti eaters could tell her there is just one way. Throw your head back, open the mouth wide—as if you were trying to show your dentist that tooth away back on the left that keeps you awake at night—raise the fork and its burden slowly and carefully, insert the spaghetti in your mouth—and let the force of gravity take charge.

And then reach for a napkin and clean up the debris. Indeed, it would be far better to don a raincoat, buttoned up to the chin, before embarking a spaghetti feast.

Getting back to the composition and styling of paste products, there are also vermicilli and noodles and other brands found only in the better delicatessens.

They look different but they all taste alike.

I have not been summoned to Mr. McNutt's inquiry but I'm going to send a representative. I want him to arise, at the proper moment, and ask how they put that hole in macaroni. We taxpayers are entitled to know.

RUSH SEASON AND ELBOW GREASE—Both were in vogue on fraternity row at Emory University yesterday as brothers pitched in for fall house cleaning, which comes early for fraternities, since they must be spic and span for the frosh, now trickling in. Good Morning

By LOUIE D NEWTON

SAVANNAH.

Harvey Wilson wrote me sometime ago to be in Savannah tonight for the 25th anniversary program of Dr. W. A. Taliaferro's ministry at the Bull Street Baptist church, and to get here early this morning so we could go fishing today. And I answered, Okey. So, the Lord willing, I hope to be dropping a hook in the Atlantic ocean, or some of its tributaries, about the time you drop the sugar in your breakfast coffee this morning.

Savannah has its charms, and I always look forward to a visit to this grand city by the sea. I shall miss Bill Sutlive and Mr. Hitch and other cherished friends who have "crossed over to the other shore" since last I was in Savannah. Their going will, of course, leave an empty place against the sky, but it is good to know that we shall see them again on that glittering strand.

Bill Taliaferro is a man to know. I met him first in Macon, back there in the early 'teens, when he was leading the south in what was known as the Judson centennial fund. And I met Mrs. Taliaferro and the three fine boys, now grown men in successful pursuits. I recall with much joy the organization of a Sunday school in the Taliaferro home which developed into one of the present prosperous churches of Macon.

The first thing that impressed me about Bill Taliaferro was his sense of humor. I remember the first joke I ever heard him tell—how he laughed, and got everybody laughing. And that radiant sense of good cheer has been one of the abiding blessings which his widely useful life has meant to me and to countless others through all the years.

Twenty-five years ago—that would be 1916, wouldn't it?—the Taliaferros went to Savannah. That immediately added to my interest in this fine city. Their ministry in the Bull Street Baptist church this quarter of a century constitutes one of the great chapters in the church life of Georgia. The magnificent meeting house which they led the congregation to erect is but one of the monuments to their ministry. I can well imagine that thousands of Savannahians today will tell their friends that the 25 years of ministry of the Taliaferros in this city has brought blessing to their hearts, to their homes, to their community. Dr. and Mrs. Taliaferro will live on the affection of this generation, and their works will follow them to the end of life's latest day.

It is a marvelous thing to live as the Taliaferros have lived—to live for others, in the name and for the sake of the Lord Jesus Christ. Such lives inspire all of us to greater effort and to higher resolution to serve our day and generation by the will of God.

400 Register At Emory for Fall Session

Fraternities Open 'Rush Week' Program This Afternoon.

More than 400 new students began registration in the various divisions of Emory University yesterday afternoon and faced a full week of "orientation" to college life before the daily grind of studies begins September 25.

Registrar J. G. Stipe estimated the number of new students as follows: 175 freshmen in the College of Arts and Sciences, 40 transfers from other colleges, 20 in the medical school, 35 in the library science school, 36 in theology school, 32 in the day and evening divisions of the law school, and 75 in the Oxford and Valdosta junior colleges.

Traditional rivalry between Tech and Emory freshmen was already under way, with the Yellow Jackets drawing first blood. A large sign on the Emory tennis courts originally reading "For Emory Students Only" had been revised yesterday by means of red paint to read "For Tech Students Only."

Fraternity "Rush Week" is due to start at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and 12 fraternity houses and their occupants yesterday were working frantically to get their houses in order to impress the lowly frosh. After a four-day siege of super-salesmanship to pledge freshmen to their respective fraternities, upperclassmen will quickly put the "rats" in their place.

Aquarium Fish Get New Homes

By INEZ ROBB.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Only 195 days until April 1. But New Yorkers are about to lose one of their hoariest and most cherished April Fool gags.

After October 1, it will no longer be possible to tell a chum (short for chump) to dial Whitehall 4-1560 and ask for Mr. Fish. On that melancholy day, New York's world famous tourist trap and ichtyophagous retreat, the Aquarium, will close for good and aye in the name of progress.

From henceforth, Annie, Dannie, Grannie and Fannie Fish won't live there any more. This, one of the city's few old as well as famous landmarks, will be locked and barred. Because of the impending construction of the Battery-Brooklyn tunnel, this pastoral and piscatorial hang-out in Battery Park—hard-by the towering skyscrapers of lower Manhattan—will soon be one with the roses of yesteryear. Only the roses smelled better.

The proud cast of the Aquarium, which has played to millions of visiting firemen from every state in the Union and nation in the world during a 45-year tenure of its own unique Manhattan theater, has been demoted to the subway circuit and road show class.

Long Run.

After the longest New York run on record (not excepting even "Tobacco Road") ends October 1, this watered stock company will be farmed out to the Bronx Zoo and the municipal aquariums of Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and Boston. All the old performers will find new homes. Sentimental folk need have no fear that any of their favorite fish will turn up on the town's 85-cent table d'hotes.

With Washington, Boston and Philadelphia fighting for whatever specimens are not transferred to the subway circuit in the Bronx, the Fulton Fish Market doesn't have a chance. The popular favorites among the performers, including the sea horses, the electric eels, the sea lions and the penguins, will appear at the Bronx zoo.

Cynical citizens who believe that all the nation's biggest fish eventually turn up in Washington, D. C., may be surprised to learn that they really go to Philadelphia.

The City of Brotherly Love, boasting some of the biggest tanks in the nation—and nothing personal here, please—will get the huge, 165-pound sting-ray, the largest in captivity. It will also get the giant grouper, a pug-ugly seven feet in length weighing somewhere between four and five hundred pounds.

The last time the giant grouper was moved in the conventional canvas slings designed for such piscatorial pastimes, he lashed out with his tail and bent into a U-shape one of the heretofore straight three-inch steel pipes used in the sling construction.

This gives you some idea of the hazards of moving an aquarium off in all directions, come October first.

Washington's Need.

A great many customers, who have been laboring under the delusion that what Washington really needs is a good outfield, will be surprised to learn that what she really wants is giant salamanders and hellbenders. It is just possible that the hellbender situation may cause a slight civil war between Washington and Philly. Both want these babies.

Two of the proud penguins, which have recently been on loan to John D. Rockefeller Jr., to enliven the plaza of his Radio City, have been returned in ignominy. Amid these refined surroundings, they knew no better than to moult. Rockefeller stands for no strip-tease, whether it is done with fans, feathers or mirrors. But the Bronx zoo will take 'em with or without feathers.

State Tax Laws Are Outmoded, Banker Says

Instability of Government Hurting Business, Strickland Asserts.

"Georgia is losing millions of dollars yearly in industrial wealth because of the state's old-fashioned tax laws and the instability of government," Robert Strickland, president of the Trust Company of Georgia, told members of the Atlanta Life Underwriters Association yesterday at Rich's tea room.

"Other southeastern states, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina, are being filled with defense industries but outside of a few comparatively small industries, Georgia is receiving no new defense industries," he said.

"An industry in order to locate in state needs friendship and loyalty and a state government that will assure the industry of continued and uninterrupted friendship and loyalty," Strickland declared, "but Georgia's constantly shifting tax system and unwelcoming attitude is driving needed industry from the state."

The banker recommended a program of sound farming, sound marketing and the promotion of small specialized industries as a cure for the state's ills and pinned the responsibility on education rather than on politics.

The Pulse of the Public

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

DISCORD OVER POLICE EXISTED MANY YEARS

Editor, Constitution: The discord in the Atlanta city council arising out of the inability of either the police chief or the police committee to suppress crime is not something new. It existed ten, fifteen, twenty years ago. Then, however, the confusion and the crime was fully charged to the prohibition laws and the 18th amendment.

Then the prevailing propaganda required repeal of prohibition and the licensing and regulation of whisky and beer houses as a means of suppressing bootleggers, hijackers, racketeers and as a means of purifying politics and society.

Now it appears that neither politics nor society has been noticeably purified since repeal. And, indeed, it appears probable that legalized drunkenness has only aggravated the problems of prostitution, gambling, political coercion and racketeering.

But whether the present anarchy is chargeable to prohibition or to repeal, or to the police or the city council, or the churches, or to society, the fact remains that the responsibility for "law and order" rests with the Georgia Democratic party, which never hesitates to claim full credit for our present civilization, its culture and liberty.

COUNTRY CHURCHES HAVE HARD STRUGGLE

Editor, Constitution: A few days ago Dr. Newton in his daily column in The Constitution particularly stressed the value of the country church throughout the south and traveling over the state recently attending the district associations mention is continually made of his suggestions.

Baptists have 520,000 members in Georgia in the white churches and a much larger number among the Negro churches. The white churches have around 2,575 buildings or what we call meeting houses Three hundred of these are full-time churches, the pastor giving his entire attention to the church of which he is the undershepherd. Three hundred in which the pastor serves two churches, giving half time to each; 1,950 that have preaching services only once per month, called fourth-time churches.

These churches have furnished our denominational leaders through the years. Today they are still the backbone of our work. They are having a hard struggle and be it said to their lasting credit that they are struggling along with their problems and deserve the sympathy and prayers and support of the entire public.

I grew up in one of these rural churches, as did most of our church members of today. Let's pray for them and lend them our moral and financial support as they strive to renovate, identify and beautify their church houses.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—This week's downward drift of wheat prices was halted today when the market rallied briskly in the final hour, scoring net gains of ⅝ to 1⅜ cents compared with yesterday's finish.

Wheat and other grains had displayed more weakness early in the session, due to profit-taking and hedging sales as well as another sharp break in soybean prices, but after noon selling diminished and buying to cover previous short sales disclosed the market was oversold.

The President's request for additional lend-lease funds, including appropriations for purchase of agricultural commodities, stimulated some late buying. Mills and other commercial interests were reported in the market.

Soybeans, which tumbled 4 to 5⅛ cents at one stage, rallied later with grains and closed at net losses of only 1⅛ to 3 cents. However, this was the sixth consecutive session of lower prices and at the day's low, May delivery of beans, at $1.77¾, was off 24¼ from last week's all-time peak.

Taxes in Household Budget

By M. S. RUKEYSER.
International News Service.

Some years ago, H. L. Mencken computed the personal cost to him as a taxpayer for various political personalities at Washington.

I have not yet translated my own personal tax liabilities into terms of what Messrs. Ickes, Hopkins, etc al., cost me, but on ahe basis of tentative congressional action on the next tax bill I estimate that my direct personal taxes will be 150 per cent in excess of my rent bill. In addition, there are all varieties of indirect taxes concealed in the rent bill and in the selling price of all goods and services, and also excise taxes on cigarets, automobiles, gasoline, and other selected items.

Landlords in New York, for example, say that tenants are resisting any tendency to introduce inflationary elements into rent on the ground that, with goods and clothing rising and taxes soaring, they must economize on shelter, if necessary taking something inferior. In past analogous episodes, the phenomenon of family doubling up sometimes occurred.

In view of rising prices and increasing taxes, every man's criterion for answering the question, "What can I afford?" needed to be revised.

Unless incomes are flexible and move with the cost of living, including taxes, the demands of the government tend to push other dispensable items out of the household budget. This fits in with the requirements of a wartime economy, for it reduces the capacity of the civilian to compete with the government, in search of defense materials, for commodities, transportation facilities, and productive man hours.

Unless personal budgets are rigorously recast, the probability is that government will in effect confiscate that portion of the individual's income which should be allocated to savings. In some cases, it will be worse than this. Those who fail in 1941 to earmark out of current income the funds estimated to be needed to defray this year's tax liabilities, payable in 1942, may be in the unsound position of borrowing to pay taxes. Even if 1942 earnings are absorbed to pay taxes on 1941 income, the taxpayer will be one year behind, and eventually realities will overtake him.

In the circumstances, the taxpayer has two obligations. First, as a member of the political group, he should exercise his influence to compel public officials to exercise frugality in governmental spending, and should insist on rigorous reductions in the non-defense expenditures of government, national, state and local. Secondly, as individuals, subject to specific tax liabilities whether they like them or not, it is important immediately to work out a plan for earmarking out of current wages, salary, dividends, interest and rent, monthly sums equal to one-twelfth of the computed annual tax liability.

In conformity with recommendations made in this column, a trust company in the greater New York area has announced a tax savings club, modelled after the Christmas club, whereby taxpayers may make weekly deposits in order to accumulate their tax money. The first club will mature on March 5 next in time to meet the March 15 tax installment.

New Cotton Subsidy Plan Inaugurated

Program Designed To Aid Trade Between U. S. and Canada.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) The Agriculture Department inaugurated today a new export subsidy program on American cotton designed to help make it competitive in the Canadian market with Brazilian cotton.

During the past year or so, American cotton has been quoted at considerably above foreign cotton in world markets largely because of price-supporting and other farm programs.

The department will offer to exporters cotton from the 1937 crop acquired under grower loan programs to the amount of not more than 308,000 bales in any month, or 1,500,000 bales a year.

The price will be at a base rate of 13.25 cents a pound for 15-16-inch middling cotton at the warehouse locations in the mill area of the Carolinas. The price at other warehouse locations east of the Mississippi river will vary in the same amount as the location differentials set up under the 1941 cotton loan program. West of the Mississippi river, the sale price at each warehouse location will be the base price in the Carolina mill area, less the freight rate to such areas from the warehouse.

Officials said these prices were several cents under current spot prices.

Junior League Plans Follies To Mark Silver Anniversary

By SALLY FORTH.

● ● ● THE YEAR OF 1941 marks a red-letter period in the history of the Atlanta Junior League, which was organized 25 years ago. The "Junior League Follies of 1941" will be staged in October to commemorate the important date, and to raise funds for league charities.

On October 25 Isoline Campbell McKenna, organizer and first president of the league, will entertain at a tea at Argyle, her country home near Smyrna, as a complimentary gesture to the socially prominent women composing the local league.

It was during Isoline's debutante year that she persuaded her sister debutantes to pledge part of their time to philanthropic undertakings, aside from their social life. So well did the group work for the betterment of things terrestial that the National Association of Junior Leagues accepted the Atlanta league as an important unit of the national body.

That action took place in January, 1916, since which time the Atlanta league has continued to rank as an influential factor in local and national life. By a strange coincidence, the Atlanta league was organized during the first World War, and will celebrate its silver anniversary during the second World War catastrophe.

Twenty years ago the National Association of Junior Leagues convened in Atlanta during the administration of Marion Stearns Upton, the fourth president of the local league. The business sessions were held at the Piedmont Driving Club, visiting members were entertained in the homes of local members, and social affairs galore were given for the delegates.

When the gavel was turned over to the incumbent president, Mary Wylie McCarty, last June, she made the announcement that the Atlanta league would feature a program of brilliant events in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary, and the ball on December 5 will be one of these carefully planned events.

Atlantans occupying the high office of president of the Atlanta Junior League, in the order in which they served during 25 years, include Isoline Campbell McKenna, Robyn Young Peeples, Ann Patterson Ryman, Marion Stearns Upton, Tillie Harsh Tolson, Virginia Hoffman Leach, Katherine Ellis Newman, the late Dollie Blalock Black, Sarah Orme Huger, Margaret Nelson Williams, Marianna Goldsmith Knox, Margaret Carr Howell, Mary Shedden Foreman, Jennie Robinson Thornwell, Jennie Hodgson Van Winkle, Rebecca Ashcraft McGinnis, Harriet Shedden Grady, Anne Hart Equen, Katherine Norcross Richardson, Katherine Howell Cooper, Marion Bryan Carter, Vaughn Nixon Courts, and Mary Wylie McCarty.

● ● ● VIRGINIA BENNETT had her plans all made to leave for Hollins on Sunday, for freshmen were expected to register at the Virginia college not later than Monday. And, as you know, this is her first year off at school. Accordingly, she made her reservations on a northbound train for Sunday evening.

Then came a sudden change in her plans, and all due to national defense—that is, to orders from the U. S. Navy. One of her good friends had been notified to report for Navy duty, which meant that he and Virginia would not see each other for many months. A hurried telephone call came through from New York, and the friend in question took an Atlanta-bound plane, arriving here late Sunday afternoon.

So Virginia cancelled her train reservation, and early Monday morning she boarded a plane for Winston-Salem, N. C., where she took a bus for Roanoke, Va. Arriving there, she took a taxicab out to Hollins, which, as you know, is in one of the fashionable suburbs of Roanoke.

Yesterday Virginia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bennett, received their first letter from their daughter. She arrived safely and on time, she reported, thanks to modern transportation methods. And then she asked for practically everything that she left at home, according to Mr. Bennett, including most of the furnishings of the Bennett home.

Virginia graduated from Girls' High school in June, and shortly thereafter left for New York, where she spent the summer studying dramatics, in which she is exceptionally gifted. Accordingly, she has been keenly missed from the social scene, a situation that is not remedied any by the fact that a visit home for the popular college belle is not in prospect until Christmas.

● ● ● THOUGH IT was a momentous decision to make, attractive Lucile Proctor, known as "Cici" to her intimates, has decided against returning to William and Mary College in Williamsburg this fall, where she was to have entered the junior class.

Cici, you recall, has already announced her intention of making her formal bow during the Christmas holidays, but the lure of continuing her education, combined with the fact she is pledge mistress for the Chi Omega sorority, was almost too strong. Consequently, Cici will remain here this fall to attend the many debutante activities, and will resume her studies after Christmas. Attesting her popularity at William and Mary, the Chi Omegas are holding Cici's office in the sorority open until her return to school.

● ● ● ATTRACTIVE Carolyn Reed, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Reed, is commuting these days between her parents' apartment at the Henry Grady hotel and their summer home, Shohalo Lodge, on Nickajack creek near Smyrna. Having decided to make her bow this year, Carolyn has been dashing into town every day to select her debutante wardrobe, which, of course, will be filled with a variety of street dresses, formals and smart ensembles. Carolyn and her parents have planned to remain at their summer place until October 1 and will then come to their apartment in town.

Carolyn will make her bow to society at an elaborate reception to be given on November 19 at the Piedmont Driving Club. One party already planned for her is the tea to be given on November 2 by Dr. and Mrs. James T. Floyd at their Greenwood avenue home.

● ● ● NOW that Sue Thomas, of Dalton, has decided not to enter the debutante ranks, she will turn her attention toward doing some work of a serious nature. It is Sue's intention to return to Atlanta and engage in teaching dramatic art, the study in which she took high honors at Marjorie Webster School in Washington, D. C. When the technicolor moving picture entitled "Reap the Wild Winds" is released the middle of October, Atlantans will embrace the opportunity of seeing Sue among the attractive girls shown in one of the scenes.

The talent scouts in Hollywood prevailed upon Sue not to leave the moving picture capital, because they recognized in this talented Dalton girl excellent material for a moving picture career. But blond and beautiful Sue preferred to return to Georgia and take up teaching dramatic art.

Hallman-Mayfield Marriage Solemnized at Church Rites

The marriage of Miss Doris Hallman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hallman, to Richard R. Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood was solemnized at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, September 9, at the Confederate Avenue Baptist church. Rev. E. L. Barlow read the vows before relatives and friends of the couple.

The music was presented by Mrs. A. C. Boatman, organist, and Mrs. Hugh McDonald, soloist.

The altar was banked with palms and fern and flanked with tall baskets of white gladioli and asters. Seven-branched candelabra were arranged effectively in the background.

Miss Frances Hallman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her blue mousseline gown featured a fitted bodice and long, full, floor-length skirt. She carried a bouquet of asters in pastel shades tied with pink ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Misses Betty Elrod, Billie Brooks and Frances Copeland. Their gowns, fashioned alike, of net featured snug-fitting bodices and full, floor-length skirts. Misses Elrod and Copeland wore pink and Miss Brooks pale green. They carried bouquets of asters in pastel shades ties with pink and green ribbon.

Little Bennie Bryant was ring-bearer. He wore a white suit and carried the ring on a white lily. Mary Ann Duckett and Margaret Lynn Prince, small nieces of the bridegroom, were the flower girls. They were dressed alike in long dresses of pink and blue mousseline, carrying old-fashioned nosegays.

The bride entered with her father, J. H. Hallman, by whom she w as given in marriage and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, William Voss.

The bride chose a wedding gown of white mousseline, fashioned with a high neckline and fitted bodice of lace. The wide full skirt was inset with rows of lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion tulle, was caught to her hair with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Mrs. J. H. Hallman, mother of the bride, wore black crepe, with lace collar and black accessories. Her flowers were deep-yellow roses. Mrs. William Wood, mother of the bridegroom, wore victory blue crepe with brown accessories, and her flowers were pink roses.

Mr. Mayfield and his bride left for a wedding trip to Florida, and upon their return will reside at 771 Confederate avenue. The bride's traveling costume was a black crepe suit, featuring a plaited skirt and fitted jacket with wide lace collar. Her flowers were orchids.

Miss Mize Marries Glenn T. Butler.

Miss Sarah Eloise Mize and Glenn Thompson Butler were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride on Arizona avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Edward Russell and Mrs. Morgan Elliott rendered the musical program on the vibra-harp.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms, and the ceremony was performed in the living room. Stately palms and candelabra holding white tapers formed the improvised altar, which was flanked with urns filled with white gladioli.

Clarence McCook Jr., nephew of the groom, was best man. Mrs. James T. Green, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an olive green dress, jacket and hat, and black accessories. A bouquet of yellow roses tied with gold ribbon completed her costume.

The lovely bride wore a brown crepe dress and jacket, trimmed with satin, and swainsona and orchids composed her bouquet. She wore brown accessories and a gold pendant watch given to the bride's mother by her father, and worn at her wedding, was the only ornament worn by the bride. She carried a handkerchief given by her little niece and namesake, Martha Eloise Mize, of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. L. C. Mize, mother of the bride, entertained at a reception after the ceremony. She was gowned in black crepe ornamented in jade and wore pink roses and swainsona.

Miss Thelma Rowden kept the bride's book, and assisting were Mesdames O. K. Griffith, E. L. Graydon, John McCain and Miss Jessie Mize.

By Louella O. Parsons.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(INS)—Excuse me if I catch my breath before settling down to Hollywood news again after the most exciting three days of my life. Here in Chicago a long wire reaches me that Henry Koster (director of so many of Deanna Durbin's hits) steps into a producer-director's berth at Universal and that "U" is handing him the highest-budgeted picture ever filmed on that lot, "Phantom of the Opera." For years this studio has been toying with the idea of refilming the old Lon Chaney hit—but never with such elaborate plans. It will be in technicolor and if you can believe all you hear "Gone With the Wind" is a piker compared to the production plans for "The Phantom."

The Koster productions will be a separate unit with Henry the sole and complete boss of his pictures. I think it interesting that for his second picture he'll film a pet idea of his own—a movie with an all feminine cast. Bebieve it or not, the central role features a child star—don't laugh—as yet undiscovered by Koster or Universal! The current crop of kiddies just doesn't fit the bill. Ambitious mamas—please don't write me! Koster's your man.

"The Corsican Brothers" is Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s last picture for a long time. Young Doug has informed his agent that he definitely will not accept any more picture assignments and that he leaves here October 10 for Washington to await a government assignment. From so many people I have heard what a wonderful job Douglas did for Uncle Sam on his trip to South America and there was talk for a time that he would be given a diplomatic post. But just between us I think it is much more likely that as a lieutenant in our Navy service he will be appointed to a battleship—or perhaps assigned to our Navy service in London, along with Robert Montgomery.

When you see Mickey Rooney doing his sensational impersonation of Carmen Miranda in "Babes on Broadway," set it down in your little book that Mickey was coached by an expert—no less than Carmen herself. Just before the chi-chi chanting Miranda went to New York she heard that Mickey was planning to impersonate her on the screen—tall turbans, high heels, bare midriff and all—and she called him on the phone about it. At first, thinking she might be angry, Mickey attempted to set her mind at ease; "It will be a very nice impersonation," he explained. "Poof," laughed Carmen, "if you do it good, it must be wicked!" The upshot was that Carmen showed up at MGM the next day and spent the whole afternoon showing him how to trim a turban with fruit and roll his eyes the "Souse American" way.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Is Carol Bruce the reason for the new gleam in Randy Scott's eyes? The James Cagneys proudly exhibiting their year-and-a-half-old adopted son on the beach at Balboa; Janice Dawson and Eddie Moran have set October 11 as their wedding day at the El Rancho Vegas; judging by the wires—everybody in Hollywood was at the circus last night. Ty Power and Annabella with Fieldsie and Walter Lang having fun at the ringside—as were Lee Bowman and all the kids in his neighborhood. Mrs. Henry Fonda back in Hollywood after a vacation in Mexico City; Milton Berle at the stage door of John Murray Anderson's "Silver Screen Revue" waiting for Mildred Riley; Bob Sterling, whose hear is supposed to be elsewhere, still managing to be very attentive to "Mike" Fallon, pretty redhead, at the Beverly Tropics; Wynn Rocomora buying lunch for Angna enters at the Brown Derby; hard to believe that Warner Baxter is seriously considering retiring from the movies—but that's the story that reaches me; Cobina Wright Jr., who can't shake a pesky cold, has a nurse on the set of "Son of Fury;" Victor Jory starts his 83d movie this week; Slim Talbot, Gary Cooper's stand-in, going western in a big way. He's leaving the movies for a foreman's job on an Oregon ranch; Roxy Rothafel, who carried the torch for Dorothy Lee for so long, holding hands with Mary Brian at Pete and Billy Snyder's bandbox. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Little brother and little sister get a big kick out of dressing in similar clothes. Here they both wear suits of corduroy. Little sister wears a single-breasted jacket, while little brother's zips down the front. The cotton corduroy is sturdy and serviceable for school wear. Call Winifred Ware at WAlnut 6565 to find where in Atlanta these clothes can be bought.

Points for Parents

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mrs. A.: "Can't Bettie eat candy?"

Mother: "The doctor says she can have no sugar but Bettie is a fine sport about it. There are lots of good things that she can eat."

Mother: "I'm so sorry you can't have suckers as the other children do, dear. It's just a shame you have to be sick and give up so many good things."

Casual acceptance of a child's necessary denial is more helpful to him than a too-sympathetic attitude.

Clear, Red Makeup Is a Fall Must

By Winifred Ware.

Fall faces don't look the same as summer ones. Their skin tones change until they're several shades lighter. Darker clothing brings out different tones in hair and eyes until the whole color effect is changed.

So that all this change will be of advantage to you instead of leaving you a dead washout, try a change of makeup. Try a shade not too orange, not too dark. Such a one is a new makeup combination I know about.

It's a clear, brilliant red . . . to blend with fall's less tanned skins and with rich, luxurious fabrics and furs. By day it's a becoming, natural tone. Under night lights it takes on a drama all its own.

Much of the brilliance of the lipstick comes from its unusual texture. It's a soft, smooth stick which shines with a radiant brilliance when on your lips.

The lipstick comes in a handsome white and red case, and for economy's sake you can get refills when the original is used up.

The makeup includes lipstick, cream rouge and dry rouge. If you would like to know where you can get it, just call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565 or write her in care of The Constitution, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's Charm Tip

For the wife: Since he is THE man in your life and you wouldn't exchange him for any other, tell him so often and then hear him expand on your endearing qualities, too.

Rita Hayworth's fall outfit is made more flattering by the use of proper make-up. Below is mentioned a new shade of rouge and lipstick which blends with the darker shades and lighter skin tones of fall. Rita Hayworth is a Columbia star.

Silence Best Erases Embarrassment

By DIXIE GEORGE.

Dear Dixie:

I have kept a diary for the past five years. One day a girl whom I considered one of my best friends, found my diary. In this diary I had disclosed my intermost feelings for everyone. During these years I had liked several boys immensely and in this diary I had stated my love for them. I had also put down their faults and how they could be improved. My friend took this diary to school to humiliate me. She is my friend no longer, and I haven't spoken to her for three weeks. Do you blame me? I was never so mortified in my life as when I walked into the schoolroom, and my friends turned on me and began reciting intimate portions of my diary. Now all of my former friends are against me, and I am for once in my life extremely unpopular.

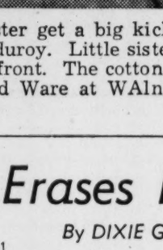

How can I get revenge on this girl? Tell me how I can regain my former popularity? My best boy friend, one whom I love deeply—in spite of his faults—has taken his fraternity pin back and given it to my deadliest enemy. How can I be popular again?

HOPELESS CASE.

You have really gotten yourself into a jam, and I think the only thing for you to do is to just grin and bear it. If there is anything to be said, my advice to you is to refrain from discussing the situation except for saying that it was a personal and private affair and that your friend should be blamed for all hard feelings and misunderstandings. I am afraid that there is nothing you can do to clear your skirts. You will have to adopt a more friendly attitude toward those of whom you wrote so critically. Try, if possible, to prove by your actions that you were not serious in your confessions. As for the boy you love, I think that you should explain the situation to him and let him know that you are not a hypocrite regardless of what you wrote in your diary. I think the affair will be of short duration and your real friends will rally to your side. As for your "deadliest enemy," I would not consider her at all. Get yourself another beau and do not keep any more diaries unless you restrict your jottings to daily happenings.

MY DAY: Radio Program Stresses Our Unity

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—I received a letter in my mail yesterday signed with an assumed name. The lady is much annoyed with the President because she has been told that he has been holding a bill on his desk which happens to affect a particular situation in her own family. She has been told this over a long period, and feels that an injustice is being done because the President has not acted.

I have no idea what the particular provisions of this bill are, nor what the reasons are which have delayed the final signing which would make it effective, but I have learned from long experience that there are always reasons. No matter how much I may be interested in some particular case, there are invariably a great many cases which make further considerations necessary for one reason or another.

So "Judy Grady," whoever you may be, I'll mention the case you are interested in to the President, but I doubt if it is "obstinacy" on his part which is holding up the final decision. I hope your "womanly spleen" won't lead you into a course of action which will defeat the things you really care about. You happen to be annoyed over a serious situation which must, however, in the long run, be considered from the point of view of "the many" rather than from the point of view of 'the one."

I wonder if my readers know of the new radio program which begins on Sunday, September 21, on the NBC red network, from 12:30 to 1 p. m. eastern daylight saving time. This broadcast is announced by Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, under whose auspices it has been arranged. There are to be six educational radio programs, under the title of "Freedom's People." These are sponsored by a special committee with which the U. S. Office of Education co-operates. Dr. Studebaker says:

"Never more than now is national unity an absolute essential. The double purpose of 'Freedom's People' is to show America the ability and aspirations of its Negro population, and to spur Negroes themselves to greater service by examples of their work."

The first broadcast will show what Negroes have done in American music, and at intervals of about a month, the five other programs will follow.

I hope that many people will listen to these broadcasts, for the more we know about each other and about our contributions to the good things in our country, the less we shall be liable to fall a victim to that most pernicious thing called "racial and religious prejudice."

Treatment of Varicose Veins Requires No Surgery

By Dr. William Brady.

Professor of surgery in one of the best medical schools observed in a recent communication published in the Journal of the American Medical Association:

"Surgery was abandoned several years ago in the treatment of varicose veins because of the high morbidity, mortality and expense of this method when compared with the injection treatment."

Ho, hum! When the chemical obliteration of varicose veins was recommended in this column as the method of choice the reaction of a good many "big shots" in the medical profession was typical. When their patients diffidently inquired about it and acknowledged that they had read about it in this column, the "big shots" exploded and in a pardonable excess of vituperation some of them asserted that the idea was preposterous. Much the same line as the old fossils in the profession take in regard to any new method—such as the diathermy extirpation of infected tonsils, the ambulant (injection) treatment of hemorrhoids and hernia. All of these modern methods have been condemned as worthless, dangerous or impracticable by numerous old fogy practitioners everywhere.

Quoting further from the surgeon-teacher's remarks:

"In 1921 it was evident that a large proportion of patients were not having their varicose veins treated. The large number of old, sloughing varicose ulcers was evidence of this. A few years after we began the injection treatment of varicose veins, varicose ulcers were rare."

It takes a degree of hardihood on the part of the doctor who seeks to persuade a patient to undergo surgical treatment for varicose veins. It takes outright fortitude on the part of the patient who submits to such treatment today. Darned if I would in any conceivable circumstance.

"There are recurrences with this method as with all other methods, but patients do not hesitate to return to have these recurrences treated with the injection method as they do when treated surgically."

That attitude of the patient applies also to the injection treatment of hemorrhoids and the injection treatment of hernia. Dropping into the doctor's office for a few more injections, if necessary, is indeed an easy matter compared with returning to hospital for another operation.

There is no foundation for the quaint notion of many of the old fossils that treatment of enlarged or infected tonsils must remove every bit of tonsil in order to be effective. Attempts to achieve that are to blame for many of the unfortunate and disastrous results of tonsillectomy. Complete removal of all tonsil tissue from any throat is justifiable only in rare conditions, such as malignancy.

Miss Barbara Brown, Fiance Announce Bridal Attendants

Of social importance is the announcement made today by Miss Barbara Brown and Lewis Howell Parham, whose engagement was announced on Sunday, of the plans for their forthcoming marriage.

Miss Brown and Mr. Parham will be married at 5:30 o'clock on October 4 at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brown, on Ponce de Leon avenue. Rev. Eugene T. Few will read the marriage service. A musical program will be presented by Miss Ethel Beyer, pianist.

Serving as groomsmen will be Joseph Fanning, of Birmingham, Ala., and Crawford Blake, of Augusta. Chester Parham Jr., of Dothan, Ala., will serve as his brother's best man.

Miss Betty Brown will be maid of honor for her sister and Mrs. Crawford Blake, of Augusta, will be the bridesmaid. Mr. Brown will give his daughter in marriage.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brown will entertain at a reception at their home.

The first affair which honored Miss Brown preceding ner marriage was given by Mrs. Howard T. Few at the home of her mother, Mrs. Julian Fluker, on Fairview road, yesterday. The party was in the form of a bridge-luncheon. On September 25 Mrs. Douglas Swagerty and Miss Gay Swagerty will fete Miss Brown at a kitchen shower at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Mrs. Richard Jones and Mrs. Douglas Thornton will honor the popular couple on September 27 at a bridge-luncheon at the Jones residence on Brookwood drive. On September 30 a tea will be given by Mrs. Beverly Johnson and Mrs. Royal Camp at the home of the latter on Rumson road.

Additional social affairs to compliment Miss Brown will be announced at a later date.

Miss Jo-Beth Geer Weds O. D. Pace

Miss Jo-Beth Geer and Oliver Dockery Pace Jr., of Jacksonville, were married September 13 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Geer, East Morningside drive, N. E., with Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, officiating.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, J. E. Geer. Jack Pace was his brother's best man. Carrying a bridal bouquet of white roses, the bride was gowned in a soft white crepe wedding dress with a lace yoke. She also wore a Dutch lace cap with clusters of orange blossoms.

Those who assisted in serving at the reception were Mesdames McCoy, Carl Blich, Ernest Williams, Milton Kennedy, Miss Marguerite McKay, Mrs. Walter McKay, Mrs. A. D. Newkirk and Mrs. Paul Skelton. Miss Louise McCoy kept the bride's book.

The bride graduated from the Andrew Jackson High school in Jacksonville, Fla., later attending Stetson University and Agnes Scott college. She also attended the Draughon School of Commerce in Atlanta. Mr. Pace is connected with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in Jacksonville, Fla.

G. S. C. W. Alumnae Will Give Tea.

The Georgia State College for Women Alumnae Association entertain at tea tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's Club. A musical program will be featured and Judge Virlyn Moore will be principal speaker.

Hull-Boyd.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Baldwin Hull, of Augusta, to Hudson Boyd, of Savannah, is of interest to Atlantans.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hull, of Augusta, and her mother is the former Miss Marie Phinizy. Mr. Boyd is the nephew of Mrs. William F. Shallenberger, of Atlanta. He attended Episcopal High school and the University of North Carolina.

Miss Dodds Weds C. F. Smith Jr.

Miss Julia Belle Dodds became the bride of Charles Franklin Smith Jr. at a ceremony taking place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Kirkwood Methodist church. Rev. J. R. Turner performed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blanchard rendered the musical program. Palms and ferns, baskets filled with white California chrysanthemums and six candelabra holding white tapers adorned the altar. The family pews were marked with white flowers and ribbons.

Marcus Morris, Bill Bryant, Askew Crumbley and Ben Knox were usher-groomsmen. Grover Davis was best man for the groom. Miss Dorothy Dodds, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore apricot voile posed over apricot taffeta, trimmed with brown velvet bows on the sleeves. She wore brown velvet bows on her hair and carried purple and rose asters tied with aqua ribbon.

Mrs. Grover Davis, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and wore a costume exactly like that worn by Miss Dodds, and carried similar flowers. The bridesmaids, gowned in duplicate costumes and carrying cascade bouquets of rainbow-hued asters, included Misses Helen Smith, Sara Gene Moore, Doris Jeane Smith, Milburn Glenn, Betty Ann Morris and Mrs. Paul M. Moore Jr.

Misses Claudene and Earlene Smith, twin sisters of the groom, wore green taffeta dresses and carried rose asters. Little Patty Anne Bagwell was flower girl and wore white taffeta and carried a placque made of mixed flowers.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, W. J. Dodds and she wore a white satin gown trimmed around the neck with seed pearls and carried a white Bible decorated with orchids and Mexican tuberoses. Her tulle veil extended the length of the graceful train and the lucky coin she wore in her shoe was given by Mrs. Theron Pendley, close friend of the family, who wore it 25 years ago at her wedding. Her bridal gown was made by her mother and her great-aunt, Mrs. Kate Wilkinson, and her only ornament was the 100-year-old necklace brought from England by her great-grandmother.

Mrs. Dodds, the bride's mother, wore Victory blue crepe, and her flowers were talisman roses and tuberoses. Mrs. C. F. Smith, mother of the groom, wore pale green crepe and her flowers were exactly like those worn by Mrs. Dodds.

Mrs. Louise Moore and Mrs. Paul M. Moore Sr., aunts of the bride, entertained at a reception at the bride's home on Warren street in Kirkwood for the bridal couple. Mesdames Theron G. Pendley, W. D. Etheridge, George Bagwell, Hoyt McCullough Mortimer Hayes Jr., Bill Bryant, Bennie Knox, Misses Georgia Belle Bagwell, Frances Watkins and Charlotte Wilbanks assisted the hostesses. The lace-covered table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake and candelabra held white tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith departed on their honeymoon, the bride traveling in a brown suede cloth dress offset with dark brown accessories, and orchids adorned her shoulder.

Miss M'Conneghey And Mr. Sheffield Announce Plans

Social interest centers in the announcement today of the plans for the marriage of Miss Anna McConneghey and Ernest O. Sheffield, of Fort Pierce, Fla., which will be solemnized Saturday, October 18 at Sacred Heart church. Father Bernard Patrick Brady, O. M. I., will read the marriage vows at 11 o'clock in the morning. Vincent Hurley, organist, and Mrs. Gertrude Trotti, soloist, will present a program of music.

The lovely young bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, John Joseph McConneghey, and John W. Patrick will serve as best man for the groom-elect.

Miss Dorothy McConneghey will be her sister's maid of honor and acting as matron of honor will be Mrs. D. E. White. The bridesmaids will include Miss Frances Sheffield, sister of the groom-elect, of Fort Pierce; Misses Betty and Loraine McConneghey, sisters of the bride-elect, and Miss Mary Ellen Slider will serve as junior bridesmaids.

Acting as ushers and groomsmen will be John Joseph Brennan, Charles Philip Scales, Ben S. Falkner Jr., D. E. White, Robert McKinnon, John Haley, Lawrence Slay, of Salisbury, and Louis Leskosky.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph McConneghey will entertain at a wedding breakfast at their home on Morningside drive.

Prior to her marriage the popular bride-elect is being honored at a series of social affairs. Among additional ones announced today is the tea to be given Saturday afternoon by Misses Jacqueline and Mary Partain at the home of their mother, Mrs. J. L. Partain on Weiuca road. Sharing honors with the bride-elect will be Mrs. J. H. Hale and Mrs. Jack Mockabee, recent brides.

Wednesday, September 24, Mrs. Hubert Rawiszer will compliment Miss McConneghey at a tea at her home on Piedmont road, and on October 4 a luncheon and lingerie shower will be given by Mrs. John Dillard at her home on Homestead avenue and that evening the bride-elect and her fiance will be honored at the steak fry to be given by Mr. and Mrs. D. E. White.

Sunday morning, October 5, Mrs. T. L. White will entertain the couple at an informal cocktail party at her home on Brentwood drive. Mrs. J. H. Hale has chosen October 11 as the date for the kitchen show at which she will compliment Miss McConneghey, and that evening the betrothed couple will share honors at the dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse R. Williams at their home on Springdale road.

A breakfast has been planned by Miss Elizabeth Keiley, Miss Virginia Mackay, Mrs. John Haley and Mrs. John Shaner for the morning of October 12. That same day a party also will be given by Mrs. William A. Miller, of Macon, the nature of this affair to be announced later.

Mrs. W. P. Bruckner will compliment the bride-elect at a party on October 16. Miss Mary Glenn Spears will give a miscellaneous shower for Miss McConneghey, the date to be announced later.

For Miss Sturdivant.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Jane Adams recently at her home on Ponce de Leon place for Miss Mary Lou Sturdivant, whose marriage will take place Saturday, September 20. Fifty guests were invited.

Miss Young Weds Jack McWilliams

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Augustus E. Young Sr. announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Young, to Jack McWilliams on September 5. The marriage was quietly solemnized at 6 o'clock in the chapel of the parish house of St. Peter's Episcopal church in Rome, with Rev. James Duncan, rector, officiating, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, A. E. Young Jr. She was becomingly gowned in a black and white printed silk ensemble with black velvet hat and veil. Her accessories were of black suede and a shoulder cluster of sweetheart roses completed her costume.

Mrs. McWilliams graduated from the Cedartown High school and completed her education at Shorter College in Rome. Since her graduation she has been a popular member of the faculty of the Cedartown High school.

Mr. McWilliams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McWilliams, of Atlanta. He was graduated from Tech High in Atlanta and completed his education at the Colorado School of Mines, Denver, Col. He has been located in Cedartown for the past year, as district engineer with the state mining survey.

After the ceremony Miss Annie Young and A. E. Young Jr. were hosts at an informal wedding supper at the General Forrest hotel.

Vols Beat Crackers, 9-2, To Even Series; Final Game Tonight

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of stories on Southeastern Conference football teams.)

Vandy's Two Deep "We've got 'em this year—two deep at every position," quipped Coach Henry (Red) Sanders, of Vanderbilt. But he wasn't joking. Not really.

"When we announce 37 boys are out for football at Vanderbilt, we mean 37. We don't have a 'red shirt' or 'B' squad with 30 more boys on it, as most other schools do. We have just 37 players, not including the freshmen," Sanders pointed out.

Vanderbilt has a lean squad, probably the smallest (as to number) in the Southeastern Conference, but it also has a lean, hungry look to it. The line is just as big as anybody's first-string line. And while there isn't a plenitude of reserve strength, either in line or backfield, the Commodores ought to do right well until they wear out.

That was their trouble last year. They did all right while their strength held out. When the regulars and the limited array of shock troops exhausted themselves, there was nothing anybody could do about it. Except the opposition.

I watched the Commodores engage in a full-length scrimmage against a near-by nonconference college the other day. The scrimmage was played by halves and was only the second in which the Commodores had engaged. They were ragged, as a result. They were off in all phases of the game and yet there were flashes, here and there, which indicatd a lot of power.

Vanderbilt will NOT use the T formation. Vanderbilt players don't even drink tea.

Great Centers Vanderbilt's two centers probably can hold their own in any competition. Bob Gude, a 200-pounder, is a brilliant senior pivot man. Fred Holder, 205, is a junior. No other school has two centers as good as these two.

The leading guards, Joe Atkinson, 195, and Emile Fritz, 195, are good—and fast. Fritz is a junior college transfer. Will Powell, 184, and Jack Richards, 190, are other guards the Commodores are counting on.

Mack Peebles, 205-pounder, is a standout at tackle and will have a steady running mate in Dan Walton, a 200-pounder. Harrison Rue, 184, and W. A. Robertson, 201, will back them up.

Vandy's probably got five ends who will see action. They include Jimmy Webb, 175; Julian Olsen, 182; Everett Holt, 181; Harry Richter, 173, and Terrell McWhirter, 195. The latter also is a junior college transfer.

Coach Sanders will field a first-string line that won't miss weighing 200 pounds by many pounds. And if there aren't any injuries the replacements will be adequate.

But, of course, the experience doesn't extend too deep. Vandy must depend a lot on sophomores both in line and backfield. Seven of last year's regulars graduated.

Fine Individuals Vanderbilt appears to have only two good men to a position in the backfield. Art Rebrovich, 173, is the leading tailback. Red Burns, 170, is his substitute. The latter is a fine passer. Actually Vanderbilt has only three tailbacks in all. Charley Byrn, 160, is the other one.

Bernie Rohling is an outstanding sophomore fullback, weighing 182. George Marlin, 165, will play a lot. There is only one other fullback, Jack McDavid, 180.

At wingback Vanderbilt has the ever-reliable Binks Bushmaier, 165, and behind him is the much-publicized J. P. Moore. The latter appears to be a bit slow, although as a punter he is in the top bracket. Moore weighs 188.

Jack Jenkins, at 200 pounds, is a man-sized blocking back. He'll give Rohling, Bushmaier, Rebrovich, et al. plenty of advance help. A capable substitute is Tommy Owen. Both are crack line backers, too. They'll work well with Gude and Holder to give Vandy a lot of strength on defense.

A first backfield of Jenkins, Rebrovich, Rohling and Bushmaier, working behind a large line, has plenty of potentialities.

Vandy is certain to be improved over last year. It will be a more versatile team.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor.

Nashville's Vols taught Professor Emile Lochbaum a lesson in hitting as they routed the champion Crackers, 9 to 2, and extended the Shaughnessy playoff finals to the full seven games.

In winning, the Vols evened the series at three games a piece, and tonight the teams meet with the Dixie series at stake. The winner will meet either Dallas or Tulsa. They are still battling it out.

The Crackers, with a chance to end the playoff last night, disappointed a fine crowd of 7,541 by their ineffectual batting and generally listless play.

Roaring back with Vito Tamulis on the mound, the Vols early routed Professor Lochbaum, who yielded six runs and nine hits in four and two-third innings. Lochbaum was the loser and it was his second straight defeat by the Vols.

HOCKETT SCORES 4 RUNS.

Tamulis, defated in his last attempt to stop the Crackers, had little trouble last night. He allowed 10 hits, but they meant very little. Manager Paul Richards led with three.

But on the Vol side, 12 hits meant plenty. Oris Hockett charged out of a batting slump with a home run, triple and two single. In addition, he had a base on balls. Hockett scored four runs and drove in one with his home run.

It wasn't much of a ball game for the Atlanta fans after the fourth. The sixth game of the playoff reached a swift conclusion as Lochbaum, wavering from the start, collapsed completely in the fourth.

"LEFTIES" VIE TONIGHT.

Tonight a pair of swift left-handers will battle in the payoff game of the playoff. Russell Meers will face Bob Chipman. Each has won three straight playoff games. This promises a spectacular finish for one of the most torrid series in Southern League history.

The last two games have not been exactly close, but there is every reason to believe the grand finale will be settled on a low-run basis.

Last night the Crackers made a radical departure from their form of the night before, when they clouted four Vol pitchers for 21 hits and 12 runs.

THOSE BATTLING BROOKLYNS—Manager Leo Durocher dishes out a pep talk—as if they needed it—to that battling Dodger infield just before they go out to protect that slim lead they hold over the St. Louis Cards in that red hot National League pennant race. "Dem Bums" rallied for five runs in the eighth yesterday, but couldn't hold their one-run lead and bowed to Pittsburgh, 6 to 5. Left to right listening to the fiery head man are Pee Wee Reese, Billy Herman, Dolph Camilli, Lou Riggs and Cookie Lavagetto.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.

"When the ways are heavy with mire and rut,"
(To borrow an Austin Dobson phrase),
"When the north wind howls and the doors are shut,"
As the forwards and backs come out to graze,
Then is the football expert curst,
Battered around by an endless blast—
For the Old Grad wants you to pick 'em first,

The sobbing moans of the coaches sound
The autumn knell of a fading dream—
"Nothing but students and kids around,
We couldn't handle a high school team."
But the gray-haired grads, with a growing thirst,
Blow the bugles and beat the drums—
The Old Grad wants you to pick 'em first,

THE FIT AND UNFIT.

Any country, in which 40 per cent of its younger men from 20 to 28 are physically unfit for service, should begin to sit up and take some notice.

Some years ago General Douglas MacArthur, then West Point's head man, told me that after his experiences in the first World War, if he had his way, the U. S. Military Academy would be largely made up of football players. General MacArthur was sold on their physical fitness and morale under pressure—two factors which football develops.

Few will disagree with the messages already given out by leading coaches and trainers in regard to diet, sufficient sleep, and regularity.

"But what about all the minor injuries sustained in football?" someone may ask. In fact, many have.

These are minor liabilities compared to the general good that comes along. And the great majority of these can be handled. In this respect football coaches and trainers are leading the way.

Handling Injuries.

Trainer Jim Cox, of Harvard, writes, "Probably 80 per cent of football injuries consist of joint sprains in which ligaments (tissues tying one bone to another) are stretched or torn. Though the tear may heal, the ligaments are left in a stretched condition which may take a period of a year or more to disappear. During this time the joint is weakened and is more susceptible to sprains.

"To solve this problem the training department starts special exercises as soon as possible to prevent the atrophy of muscles around the injured joint. The ideal course is to develop the muscles around the injured joint until they are bigger and stronger than they were before. This can be done under proper treatment.

"For example, a guard on our first team this year, Endicott Peabody, two years ago showed almost mechanical perfection in the play of his position but was of such slight build that he definitely lacked the strength to carry out his assignment. He was especially susceptible to neck injuries. He was given some special exercises which he continued through the summer. Last fall his increase in strength and general muscular development was typified by the increase in the circumference of his neck by a full 1 1-4 inches. He also had injured the tibiofibular collateral ligament of the knee joint. He had so developed his thighs that he was able to complete 25 deep knee bends balanced on one leg (the one with the injured knee) without touching the ground. I was watching him win a bet with some of the boys and stopped him from doing any more. The completing of one such exercise is difficult, and four or five is supposed to be quite a feat."

Leg Building.

At least 70 per cent of the football trainers heard from so far wrote about the scarcity of good, strong legs. Modern boys have almost forgotten how to walk or run. They'll use a car to travel two blocks. This accounts for so many leg injuries.

"I feel that the best form of conditioning," writes Spike Nelson, of Yale, "is running. There should be competitive running—for example, the tackles against the ends, the guards against the centers. Keep them running."

Tad Wieman of Princeton offers the same advice.

"There should be a mixture of walking, jogging and sprinting," the Tiger coach says. "Jogging up hill is one of the best forms of exercise. The youth of this country needs a big improvement in its leg speed and leg stamina. Walking and running are two of the finest exercises we have. Bicycling is a first-class developer. Anything to use the legs to a much greater extent."

The Softer Age.

Football, basketball, baseball and track are all fine conditioners for young men. So are tennis and golf. So is boxing. But there are too few who play these games.

The Army discovered, in addition to the long list turned down for physical deficiencies of one sort or another, that it takes a long time to get many others ready for Army work.

Too many have become physically soft. They have ignored the care of eyes and teeth, and the development of legs. Too many have paid little or no attention to any proper diet.

Even football coaches and trainers have to keep hard on the heels of many football candidates through the summer months to see that they report at least in fair shape. I know of five highly touted stars from last year who reported from 20 to 30 pounds overweight. And football has the best conditioned crop of the lot.

A Good Suggestion.

Here is a tip to the War Department. Why not give a button or a badge of some sort to those who tried to enlist and were turned down?

"I've tried to get in the Air Force, Navy and Army," a well-known athlete writes. "I was turned down on account of eye trouble. Yet, I have the feeling that many people, looking at a 23-year-old athlete, wonder why I'm not in the service. I'd give anything to get in, but I can't go around explaining my trouble. Couldnt' the War Department give us, who couldn't make it, something to wear that would prove at least our hearts were in the right place? It might help to lift our heads a little higher, anyway."

Why not?

Three Find Number At East Lake Course

Three players hit the winning number—72—in the weekly bogey play at East Lake. They were W. C. Thompson Jr., A. G. Huston and J. C. Kyle. At 73 were L. W. Hill, R. C. Munsell, L. C. Shultz and E. L. Wight. At 71 were W. W. Burns and L. V. Sabourin.

Florida, 'Bama 4-Ball Teams Are Chosen

PONTE VEDRA, Fla., Sept. 17. Crawford Rainwater, of Pensacola; Beefy Bill Stark, Dick Van Kleeck and John Fletcher, of Jacksonville, will play on Florida's team in the annual Southern States four-ball golf tournament at East Lake September 29-October 3.

Rainwater and Stark have teamed together in the tourney several times.

Sam Perry and Dick Chapman, former national amateur champions, will be the No. 1 Alabama teams in the meet. Scuddy Horner and Gordon Smith will be the No. 2 team. Alternates are Warren Smith and Johnny Thames.

Braddock Predicts Nova Next Champ

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ex-Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock watched Lou Nova go through his training paces today and then predicted the California clouter would win the title September 29 in New York from Joe Louis, the man who took the throne from Jim.

"I've watched both Louis and Nova work out," Braddock said, "and I'm picking Nova, possibly by a knockout in the late rounds, say the 13th or 14th."

Purples Rout Marist, 46-0

Cadets Crack As Boys' High Scores Early

Castleberry and Gordon Scintillate in Touchdown Fiesta.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Shorty Doyal's Boys' High eleven employed the T. (Touchdown) formation as they served notice to their fufure opponents they are bigger and tougher than ever by routing a highly regarded Marist team, 46 to 0, at Grant field last night.

The southern champions, playing without the services of three of their best men—Guard Leerie Jenkins, Tackle Ralph Carroll and Back Myrtus Maffett—could have left half their stars at home and still won in a walk, so superior was their play. Their only weakness was in their vulnerability to passes, that being the only way the Ivy Streeters gained any ground at all.

The Hurricane began blowing with gale force almost from the outset and left little doubt in the minds of some 6,000 spectators as to the ultimate outcome. The Purples tallied in every quarter, and had Doyal peering from under his good luck black derby into the 10th row of the grandstand for some substitutions "capable" of holding down the score. All his subs had already been in, and each new sub seemed to be out to get his share of the glory.

40-YARD PASS.

The first blow came early in the opening period after Clint Castleberry, the phantom pacemaker, had twisted his way 22 yards to the Marist 38-yard stripe. Bill Magbee charged over guard a couple of times for a first down to the 28. After Jock Fitzgerald threw Renimer for a loss to the 37, Castleberry skirted left end to the 26. Three plays failed, but on fourth down with eight yards to go Jimmy Gordon faded back to the 40 and heaved a long spiral to Castleberry as he raced into the end zone. Gordon Clay booted the extra point.

That one came hard. The rest were easy. Late in the quarter Joe Kenimer intercepted Bill Berry's pass at the Boys' High 42 and lugged it to midfield. Castleberry skirted left end for 30 yards to the 20, and then caught an aerial from Gordon at the one-yard stripe as the quarter ended. Magbee smashed over on the first play at the second period and Clay again converted.

Another score came after a 42-yard match featuring a 20-yard scamper by Buck Miller, two tries for ten and six by by Gordon, who looks like one of the classiest backs of the year, and a final six-yard dash around left end by Castleberry as Miller put a devastating block on the last man between Clint and pay dirt. Clay missed his first extra point try in seven attempts this year. He later kicked another, to leave the halftime count at 20 to 0.

PURPLE PUNT BLOCKED.

J. R. Dickerson, superb Marist guard who with Fitzgerald played magnificent defensive ball despite the miserable Cadet performance, "scared the Purples' mule" just before the half ended by blocking a punt at the Purple 37 and hauling it to the 11 before he was cut down.

Gordon circled end for three yards and another tally early in the third period after he and Castleberry had eaten up 35 yards with two passes, one from Jimmy to Clint and the other vice versa. The always "Johnny on the Spot" Gordon also scored the next six-pointer when he intercepted a Bennie Dickerson aerial and caught air down the sidelines for 60 yards to pay dirt.

As the fourth period started Don (Juan) Paschal faked a pass, suddenly broke and scooted down the sidelines for 50 yards and a 40-to-0 lead. Not to be outdone, Billy Haas, another of the Doyal scatbacks, a few moments later scampered off left tackle, reversed his field and outdistanced his pursuers for a 43-yard touchdown jaunt that ended the massacre.

MARIST OUTCHARGED.

Despite the heavy scoring, the vicious line play of the Purples was the feature of the fray. The forewall, no heavier than the highly touted Maristers, outcharged their opponents all evening. Charlie Furchgott, Ray Smith, Milton Miller, Buck Stainton, Phil Alexander, Joe Floyd, Clifford Griffin, Gordon Clay and a host of others ripped through into the Marist backfield time and again to crash the ball carriers before they could get started. But if there was anyone who really stood out, it was End Ben Avery, who was all over the field.

The Berry brothers and Ben Dickerson did some nice passing for the Cadets, and James Heinold, Ray King and Harry Capello were "latching" onto them beautifully at intervals, but that was about the only bright spot for a sadly outclassed, outmanned Cadet eleven. That and the fact they were beaten by one of the finest-looking Boys' High teams to show here in many a moon, including the 1940 Southern champions themselves. And the next time you are bulling with the drug store boys, don't forget to mention Jimmy Gordon as your nominee for the back of the moment.

Destiny still is watching over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

They stumbled into trouble at Pittsburgh yesterday when they lost their tempers and a ball game to the Pirates, 6-5, but the St. Louis Cardinals went sprawling, too, 4-1, against the Boston Braves.

As a result, the Dodgers continued to hold perilously to their one-game National League lead as they rode out of the west to finish the season against the last-place Phillies and the seventh-place Braves.

The Dodgers touched off another one of their late-inning explosions, scoring five runs in the eighth, but they blew up when Umpire George Magerkurth called a balk on Hugh Casey to let in the tying run.

Great Booting Highlights Vol Practice Drill

Butler in Form; S. E. C. Teams Get Set for Opening Tilts.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Little Johnny Butler's 50 and 60-yard kicking brought smiles from Tennessee coaches this afternoon as the Vols went through light drills in preparation for Furman on Saturday.

Furman players are expected to reach Knoxville by bus in time for a workout on the Vol gridiron Friday afternoon.

FURMAN ENDS PRACTICE.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Furman's Purple Hurricane ended three weeks of pre-season practice today and prepared to leave tomorrow for Knoxville, Tenn., to play the Tennessee Vols on Saturday. Coach Dizzy McLeod will take 33 players.

The practice show was spent entirely in checking up on a defense for Tennessee plays and lasted a little more than an hour. The Hurricane will have another light workout in Knoxville late tomorrow afternoon.

McLeod seemed pretty well satisfied with his first team, but said of his reserves: "They may come through and if so we'll make it an interesting afternoon for Tennessee."

'GATOR CAPTAIN NAMED.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Florida's 'Gators came out under the stadium lights tonight for a thorough checkup on their preparations for an opening game with Randolph-Macon here Saturday night.

Coach Tom Lieb called his squad out for a diversified drill and even included a bit of scrimmage. A final tuneup is slated for tomorrow afternoon.

Athletic Director Percy Beard estimated 8,000 persons would attend the opening game, but the weather has hampered the 'Gators in their preparations and rain may keep many fans at home.

The honor of being game captain for Florida in the curtain-raiser will go to Bill Robinson, senior center from Orlando.

VANDY DEFENSE WEAK.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18. (AP)—Some good news came out of Vanderbilt's grid training camp today when it was announced George Marlin, senior fullback, may be in condition to open against Purdue September 27.

Marlin will return to practice Monday. Only Tex Robertson, a tackle, is definitely out of the opener.

AUBURN GUARD RETURNS.

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Max Morris, veteran Auburn guard, returned to heavy duty work today after three days of absence because of a cut above his eye, but a similar injury forced one of his running mates to the sidelines.

Vic Costellos, 160-pound guard from Birmingham, Ala., watched the scrimmage from the bench as the squad drilled for its opener against Howard College in Montgomery, September 26.

N. C. MAY LOSE O'HARE.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 18. (AP)—Frank O'Hare, who is being groomed as a first-string quarterback at the University of North Carolina, has received notice to report to the Atlanta division of the Air Corps next Tuesday and may have to drop out of school.

TULANE LIKES 'T.'

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—(AP) Tulane players are all for the new "T" formation being used in practice because of more versatile offensive and a better chance for various backs—even the quarterback—to haul the pigskin.

REBELS LOSE TAILBACK.

OXFORD, Miss., Sept. 18.—(AP) The University of Mississippi Rebels have lost another ball player, Chuck Demos, tailback, to a defense job. Coach Harry Mehre said Demos would have been of assistance this year as he was a fine ball carrier.

Today's practice was spent in offensive drilling. Mehre said the Rebels would concentrate their attack on an attempt to outscore Georgetown, the first opponent.

1 SOPH IN L. S. U. LINEUP.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 18. (AP)—Only one sophomore was included by Coach Bernie Moore in the starting lineup announced tonight for the opening game with Louisiana Tech here Saturday night.

Jim McLeod, rangy soph end, was assigned one terminal berth since Jack Fulkerson is nursing an injured knee. The veterans will be Dudley Pillow, end; Al James and Herb Kendrick, tackles; Dan Eastman and Billy Edwards, guards; Bernie Lipkis, center; Bill Hogan, Buck Weaver, Walter Gorinski, and Billy McKinney, backs. Lipkis was chosen to captain the Tigers in their opening game.

MAROON SOPH STARS.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Defensive play of Elbert Corley, sophomore center, stole the show today as the Mississippi State Maroons worked against Florida plays.

Wilbur Dees, tough little blocking back, and Kermit Davis, soph end, showed improvement from recent injuries and both will return to heavy work Monday.

Feller Attains 24th Triumph; Halts Red Sox

Ted Williams Held Hitless; Senators Shade Browns.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bob Feller marked up his 24th victory of the season today, snapping a Boston Red Sox victory string which had run to eight games as his Cleveland Indians battered three Boston pitchers for a 6-1 decision.

Jeff Heath put the game into Cleveland's victory book in the opening inning when he lofted a Dick Newsome serve into the right field stands with two mates aboard. Ray Mack also hit for the circuit with none on in the sixth, his blow coming off "Lefty" Earl Johnson.

Feller held Ted Williams hitless.

CRACK CARD CAVORTERS—Here are two of the fittest of the fightin' St. Louis Cardinals who are camped right behind those now un-Daffy Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League pennant struggle. Max Lanier (left) pitched a five-hitter to trim Boston, 3 to 2, Tuesday, and Estel Crabtree, who won the game for him with a ninth-inning home run. Crabtree, whose potent bat has helped the Cards rack up several wins, is 37 years old.

mainder of the schedule, with two exceptions, is also exacting.

After Purdue, the Commodores take on Tennessee Tech, Kentucky, Georgia Tech, Princeton, Tulane, Sewanee, Louisville, Alabama and Tennessee in order.

Of these teams, Vandy defeated only Tennessee Tech and Sewanee and tied Kentucky last year. Purdue, Tulane and Louisville were not on the schedule. In losing to L. S. U., Ole Miss, Georgia Tech, Alabama and Tennessee, Vandy nevertheless scored 101 points as compared with 98 by opponents.

New 'Pitcher' Born To Paul Derringer

SARASOTA, Fla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Derringer, wife of the Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, gave birth to a son at a hospital here last night. The infant weighed six pounds and was named Lucien Paul.

Hosiptal attaches said Mrs. Derringer, the former Eloise Brownback, of Decatur, Ill., and son were doing well. The Derringers also have a 15-month-old daughter.

lowed a run before the side was retired. After Shilling and Staller went out, Hockett singled to center. Fleming walked as Lochbaum tried to pitch to the corners. Workman singled to center, scoring Hockett.

In the third Hockett tripled against the signs and scored on Fleming's long fly to put the Vols two runs in front.

Gerlach doubled to lead off the third inning but was left stranded when Lochbaum, Mailho and Bates went out in order.

Lochbaum, who barely had escaped being shelled in the second inning, finally was knocked out of the box in the fourth. A four-run rally sent the Vols six runs ahead. Culler lined out but Helf walked and Tamulis singled. Shilling appeared to have beat out a hit to Ryan, but Tamulis loafed and Ryan forced the Vol pitcher at second, but even this couldn't save Lochbaum. Staller singled, sending in Helf. Shilling, advancing to third, scored on a passed ball. Hockett, who had been in a slump, hit a home run, scoring Staller ahead of him.

BURGE HOMERS.

Burge came up with one out and nobody on and belted a home run in the fourth to end the scoreless trend.

The Crackers came up with a choice play in the fifth. Richards and Stout singled, and with one away, Mailho was called out on a three-and-two pitch. Richards broke for third and was thrown out easily for a double play.

To cap the climax, Umpire Red Jones called Ryan out in the eighth after he crossed the bag. With two away, Burge tripled off the signs. Culler kicked Ryan's grounded and then made a hurried throw. Ryan crossed first and Jones astounded everyone by calling him out.

The Vols scored three runs in the ninth off Nowak. Hockett and Fleming walked, and Workman beat out a bunt. English singled, scoring Hockett and Fleming. Culler sacrificed. Helf flied to right and Workman crossed the plate.

Rambert batted for Marshall and was safe on an error in the ninth. Richards singled and then Rambert scored on an infield out.

Dallas Wins, 5-4; Leads Series, 3-2

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 18.—A run in the tenth inning gave the Dallas Rebels a 5 to 4 victory over the Tulsa Oilers here tonight, and placed the Rebs ahead in the series, three games to two.

Tulsa was off to a one-run lead in the first. Dallas tallied in the fourth, but Tulsa came back with three more in the sixth. Dallas scored three in the eighth to knot the count and the game went into extra innings.

Casey Balks In Tying Run In Hectic Tiff

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The belligerence of the Brooklyn Dodgers in their battle for the National League pennant cost them a damaging 6 to 5 defeat today by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Durocher clan came up with another of its miraculous late-inning rallies—five priceless runs in the eighth—and then nullified this ferocious effort with an outbreak of frayed tempers, which caused Hugh Casey to throw away the game and Manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher to be chased off the field by Umpire George Magerkurth.

The whole game was the kind of a zany spectacle in which only the Dodgers ever get involved, but the eighth inning was wild beyond anyone's wildest dream.

Brooklyn bashed all five of its runs across after two were out and then Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin came in to pitch to the Pirates in the last of the eighth. The score was 5 to 4.

DIMAG SINGLES.

Vince DiMaggio led off with a single and raced to second as Ducky Medwick fumbled the ball. Immediately Hugh Casey replaced Hamlin and got the next two batters out. DiMaggio went to third on a fly by Debs Garms and was held there while Pinchhitter Maurice Van Robays grounded out.

Then trouble came in a big, nasty-tasting dose. With two strikes on Catcher Al Lopez, Casey committed a balk and Umpire Magerkurth waved DiMaggio home with the tying run.

The Dodgers, their nerves worn thin while trying to stave off the St. Louis Cardinals on a long road trip, were infuriated and Casey was the most furious of all—though Durocher and all his Dodgers joined in a mass protest, claiming Lopez had stepped out of the batter's box.

When order was temporarily restored, Casey hurled three consecutive wild pitches, far over the heads of Lopez, his own catcher, Mickey Owen, and the umpire.

A TRAVESTY.

Magerkurth, a towering, broad-shouldered man, whipped off his mask, strode out to the pitcher's mound and told Casey (he said later) that the pitcher could not "make a travesty of this ball game."

Durocher came charging right at Magerkurth's heels, protesting volubly. The fiery little manager planted himself between big, chubby Casey and the bigger umpire and for a few minutes he stood toe-to-toe with Magerkurth, who disclosed that the manager argued he was interfering with his pitchers and used "bitter language."

Magerkurth ordered Durocher out of the game and Umpire Tom Dunn escorted him off the field while the crowd of 9,021 fans, who had cheered the Dodgers earlier, gave vent to jeers.

Lopez, who had been the first to holler "balk" at Magerkurth, walked on the first pitch after play resumed and Alf Anderson, the weak-hitting shortstop substitute for Arky Vaughan, then connected for a triple to the extreme rightfield corner to bring home the winning run.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Cardinals wasted a golden opportunity to take first place in the National League today when they lost, 4 to 1, to the Boston Braves. With Brooklyn bowing to Pittsburgh, 6 to 5, a victory for the Cards would have put them on top by two percentage points.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs crowded into fifth place in the National League today by overpowering the New York Giants, 7 to 1, with a six-run uprising in the seventh inning and four-hit hurling by Jake Mooty.

The rivals came up to the last of the seventh in a 1-1 deadlock, with Tom Sunkel, new recruit of the Giants, matching the fine pitching of Mooty. But in the rousing rally which followed, the Giants made three errors and Sunkel was shelled out of the game.

In the Cubs' big inning they loaded the bases on a single, a sacrifice which didn't jell and a fumble. A fly brought in one run and a walk filled the bases again. Then Bill Nicholson singled for a run, Babe Dahlgren singled and Johnny Rucker let the ball get past him so that Dahlgren and all three runners came home.

Flashy Soph 'Furriners' Run Best at Tech

Eldredge and McHugh Are Offensive Stars.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Some fancy-dan running by a pair of flashy sophomores brought smiles to faces of Georgia Tech coaches yesterday as the Yellow Jackets went through a lengthy scrimmage.

Little Davey Eldredge, the broken-field star from Miami, and Pat McHugh, lanky "furriner" from Alabama, were the offensive stars of the afternoon.

Eldredge, while performing at tailback, got away on several long runs and once through the line was harder to stop than a house cat with a running fit. Indeed, sometimes it looked as if he was running backwards.

Eldredge later moved over to wingback but didn't carry the ball much, leaving McHugh as the outstanding man at that post for the day.

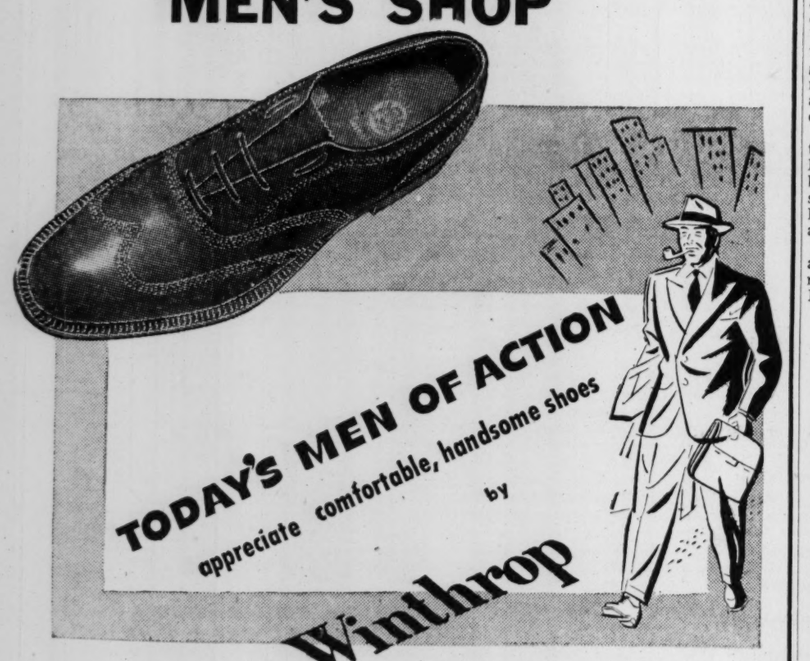

STEPS ON GAS.

Once the lanky soph started around end on a reverse and Coach Bill Alexander, standing on the sidelines, yelled for him to step on the gas. Patrick took him at his word, shot ahead as he cut across the line of scrimmage and outran the pack to the goal line, some 35 yards away.

Fullback Bobby Dodd looked good bucking the line and End Paul Page turned in some neat

G. M. A. Opens Season Against Smithies in Grid Feature Tonight

Parachute Battalion To Fight Here Tonight

Those reckless, hard-hitting, courageous sons o' guns who helped to make up the famed Parachute Battalion of Fort Benning, will don fighting togs for a big program at Lakewood tonight which closes the outdoor boxing season.

Atlanta's strongest group of ringmen is ready for the invasion of the soldiers.

If the Benning men take a fall tonight, they will not have their parachutes to help them glide down easily. And the floor of the ring is awfully hard. However, from all advance reports on these daring lads of Uncle Sam's prize service outfit, they can take care of themselves.

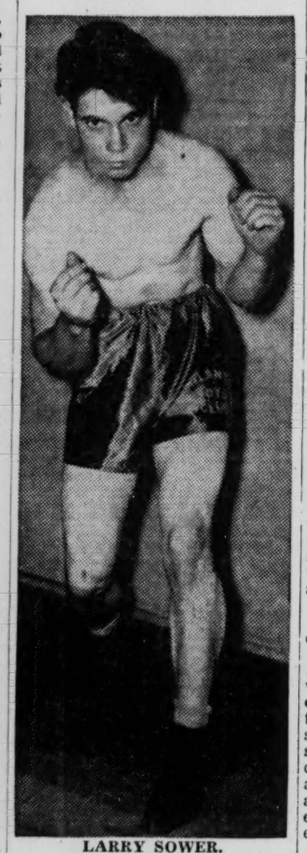

The local fighters hope to make tonight's closing performances their best of the year. These weekly bouts have served to give them experience and ruggedness which will be helpful in the coming Golden Gloves tournament and they will be out to demonstrate how much they have improved.

Among the Atlantans likely to see service are Larry Sower, Dick Adkisson, Roland Lee, Harry Broadnax, George Bond, Sam McFarlin (Piedmont College), Ernest Stokes and other favorites.

Roland Lee, former Golden Gloves champion, will meet Albert Wolfe, 126-pounder. Harry Brodnax will meet Soldier Woodrow Womach, winner of the 1940 bantamweight division of the Golden Gloves here. Warren Edwards, 130-pound soldier, meets Bummy Griner, Chapman Springs N. Y. A. battler. Robert Cook will fight a tough Benning opponent in "Plow Boy" Canning in the welterweight class. Johnny Miller, Gainesville middleweight, and Daniel Allen, Benning, will collide. There will be at least eight fights.

Prizes will be awarded winners of the City Novice tournament prior to the final fight.

Prices will be 50 cents for ringside and 20 cents for any seat in the grandstand. The program begins at 8:30.

LARRY SOWER.

Decatur Meets Fulton; Russell and Hapeville To Clash.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

It will be all noisy on the western, eastern, northern and southern fronts—and we do mean noisy—as impatient preps crack the football season wide open tonight with four big games here.

The top game of the night is on tap for Grant Field at 8 o'clock when Allen Shi's Tech High Smithies will share honors at G. M. A.'s coming-out party which also will serve as the debut of J. W. C. (Doc) McKay as head grid mentor of the College Park Cadets.

The Cadets are strictly an unknown quantity this year, with not a letterman back, but the newcomers sat in the grandstand when the Smithies fought Marist to that hectic 0-to-0 stalemate, and the College Parkers can't be convinced the Shimen have anything they don't. "Make Tech High the favorites if you feel that way, but we're going to beat 'em just the same," they shout in chorus.

SMITHIES FAVORED.

Just the same, in view of the class they displayed against Marist, the Smithies rate a comfortable edge until it is proved otherwise. Jack Couch, with that talented kicking toe and the ability to scamper in an open field, should prove one of the season's sensations. Make a note on your clean cuff right now that Ed Lowe, a newcomer at fullback, will be among the year's fancier performers despite the little publicity given him to date.

The surprise of the season opener was the ruggedness displayed by the Smithie forewall against highly touted Marist. Fred King and Coley Whitaker particularly caught the eye, and Joe Nixon, Bill Leavell and that Greer boy stamped themselves as three of the best ends in prep ranks with sensational performances.

Doc McKay admittedly has two first-class flankmen himself in Carden and Connell, and 175-pound Albert Fritchie, an end who has been shifted to fullback, is reported to be a classy performer.

The N. G. I. C. elevens break out in a rash with six local outfits opening their seasons with three games here. Coach Weyman Tucker's North Fulton starts defense of its two consecutive N. G. I. C. championships and will be after its 23rd victory in a row when the 1941 outfit meets little West Fulton at Dykes Field in Buckhead. The Bulldogs are weaker this year, but should take this one handily.

RUSSELL-HAPEVILLE.

R. L. Bowen will send his Russell High brigade against Roy Brewer's Hapeville club, which upset Russell, 7 to 6, last year. Russell is supposed to have one of the better clubs this time and should not be caught napping in the tiff slated for the Russell field.

Smoky Joe Martin will unleash his Decatur Bulldogs, a powerhouse outfit in the making, they say, against C. C. Wills' Fulton High Red Birds, an unknown quantity.

Commercial journeys to Macon to take on another of the top G. I. A. A. crown aspirants, Lanier High, and Richardson opens its season against Newnan High in the latter city.

Otherwise, the Techs didn't look so good. Many of the young backs were either missing their blocks or not blocking at all. The ends acted as if they had five thumbs when trying to catch passes and the pass defense was ragged, the Red Devils once driving within four yards of a touchdown.

The club will work out lightly today in preparation for a regular "game" Saturday. Coach Alex announced the last workout of the week would take on the aspects of a regulation contest, except maybe for kicking off.

Red Oliver, tailback, and Ed Ryckeley, guard, are still working out in sweat clothes as a result of injuries. Neither is expected to take part in today's scrimmage.

Life of Gehrig Movie Script Pleases Wife of 'Iron Horse'

Hopes Gary Cooper Will Play 'Lou'; Foreign Scribe Recalls Baseballer's Tour in Japan.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(INS)—We had dinner at Toots Shor's the other night with Mrs. Lou Gehrig, Christy Walsh and the Jimmy Youngs. Jimmy Young is the button-bright correspondent who was tossed into a Japanese sneezer for telling the truth.

Eleanor Gehrig was just back from Hollywood. The script which she and Paul Gallico fashioned around the most piognant story in baseball history is now completed. It was tough on her. What she had to say about her work out there will be interest to you:

"Paul's done a wonderful script," she said. "He was just the right person . . . wonderful writer, a great one for blending the facts with the right kind of fictional flavoring. And he knew Lou. What he's done is what I wanted done. This may not be a great movie. You can never tell. But I know a lot of hard work will go into it . . . real sincere work. It won't be trite, I know that. The hero won't spit tobacco juice, hit the home run and win the girl. I have an idea that it might be a shock to a lot of people when it comes out. For this won't be a picture about the Lou of the record books. This will be a picture about Lou, himself, and what he was like, what he thought about . . .

GARY COOPER.

"That's why I hope Gary Cooper can do it. What does it matter if he isn't the ball player Lou was? Who is? The important thing is capturing the spirit of Lou, and I don't know anyone who could do it as well. I don't know Cooper well, of course, but he has a lot of Lou's manner, and Lou's way of expressing himself, and Lou's outlook.

"I didn't go out there on one of those ballyhoo trips. To start with, I didn't want to go at all. But when I finally did, I worked. I had an office next to Gallico's. We'd begin working every morning at 10 and keep at it until four. I guess you'd call it a long interview. I'd ramble on and Paul'd take notes. We both felt that the place to end the story would be at the Yankee Stadium, you know, on that July Fourth Gehrig Day . . . Mr. Goldwyn thinks so, too. That's what first interested him in the picture—seeing the newsreels of Gehrig Day."

Jimmy Young said, "My wife and I met you and Lou in Tokyo, Mrs. Gehrig. That was 1934, when Connie Mack brought his all-star team out there. What a trip that was! I've been around the Far East a long time, and I know that there's never been a demonstration, and never a reception, compared to the one the Japanese people gave those ball players.

"You wives didn't make the trip up to Asahigawa for that game, did you? What a place? It's about as far north as you can go in Japan, without landing in Siberia. There's only one bathtub in the whole town, and only one European bed. Of course, 'The Honorable Mr. Ruth' got first crack at both. He got into the bathtub and darn near all the water went out of the tub in a big wave. He got into bed, too, but he couldn't take it. It was a relic from the Russo-Japanese war. It had been captured off some Russian admiral's battleship, and had gotten pretty lumpy in the meantime. Everybody darn near froze, for it snowed out the first game. And there wasn't much to eat except raw fish and bean curds."

REAL GREETING.

"I'll never forget how gentle those people were," Mrs. Gehrig said. "The way they stood in the streets by the hour, to watch the players go by. The way they turned out for games as if every game was a World Series contest. And the polite way they clapped, instead of cheered, and the way they bowed to the umpires and never thought of protesting a decision. How did they become what they've become?"

Young outlined the capture of the Japanese nation by a German-trained military clique, but the talk went back to baseball again.

"I guess I covered the best-dressed ball game of all time," the foreign correspondent laughed. "It was in Dairen in 1928. There were 20,000 spectators, mostly men. Every fan there appeared in striped trousers, morning coat and a derby—except the members of the diplomatic and consular set. They wore top hats. It was the craziest thing I ever saw. You see, Prince Kuni, the Emperor's father-in-law, announced the night before that he would attend the game. So everybody had to dress."

"Wasn't there some trouble about us after we left Japan?" Mrs. Gehrig asked Young.

"Yeah . . . there was. Some gang tried to assassinate the Japanese newspaper publisher who brought the American team over there. They claimed that you all had put evil thoughts into the minds of the Japanese. They claimed you had taken their minds off the war in China, so they tried to rub out the responsible party. I picked him up out of the gutter, where they left him."

Hoke Cooley Fires Par 72 In Pro Play

Attridge, Brooks Rank Next in Florida Matches as Wind Howls.

By AL SHARP.

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 18.—The even par score of Hoke Cooley, Griffin pro, featured today's second round of the Southeastern Professional Golfers' Association tournament.

Cooley put together 36-36—72. Which reads exactly like the card as he moved into a contending position at 154. The score was a distinct contrast to his 82 of yesterday when he had a 9 on the par-5 third hole after a series of mishaps in the banks and sandtraps.

Cooley's round was all the more remarkable because of the wind which changed the course. Actually, it was a different course from the one the golfers played yesterday. His 72 was the lowest round of the tourney, and it was scored in a nor'easter that made you lean into the wind to keep your feet. The score was only one above the official competitive course record of 71, shot by Pro Gene Cook, of Anniston, Ala., for the 1938 Southeastern P. F. A. and Rufino Gonzales, Cuban pro, who made the score in a sectional qualifying for the National Open.

The Griffin pro was four strokes back of the leader, Clayton Attridge, the Canadian pro stationed at Pensacola, who had 75-75—150. Ed Brook, of Bartow, Fla., was in second place at 151 with 74-77. Next were Dick Doerschler, Jacksonville amateur, who will be a sophomore at North Carolina this year, and Jake Fondren, Memphis pro. Doershcler had 74-78 and Fondren, 76-76. Al Nelson, home pro, slipped into next place with 74-79—153.

Two rounds are scheduled tomorrow as the tourney comes to a close, and Cooley looks as good as any one to take the title which John Cochran, of Greenwood, Miss., grabbed last year. Cochran, former Rome, Ga., boy, had 78-79—157.

Carling Dinkler Jr., who took second place in the pro-amateur with Cooley, and Morton Bright, another Atlanta amateur, left for Sea Island today. . . . Dr. T. R. Staton and Morgan Sutton, of Atlanta, are enjoying the tourney as part of their vacations. . . . Jimmy Livingston, Atlanta pro, is having a good time. . . . Billy Wilson, another Atlanta pro, headed home today via Savannah.

In the seniors' tournament, George Norrie, president of the Southeastern P. G. A. from Savannah, took a second-place tie with Whitey Glazner, Birmingham pro, at 164. . . . First was Wilfrid Reid, of Savannah, with 82-81—163. . . . Reid was one of the world's finest golfers when he came over from England way back yonder, say about 30 years. . . . The defending champ in the seniors' tilt, Fred Haas Sh., of New Orleans, had 167.

Pivot Position Probably Won By Earhardt

Bulldog Sophomore Tops Godwin, Hughes; Dudish Returns.

If Coach Wallace Butts names Big Clyde for a starting assignment against Mercer, he will probably be the only sophomore in the Georgia line-up when the opening whistle blows.

Earhardt has gotten to the top the hard way at Georgia. He was shifted to blocking back early in his freshman career, but he just didn't fit in at that spot. So back to center he went for the Tech Baby Jacket game in Atlanta last Thanksgiving.

All during spring practice, until just before it was brought to a close, he was second choice to Godwin. Along towards the last of spring work the pair was regarded almost on a par.

This fall Arkansas Bill was late getting started due to a back injury suffered during the summer, and Earhardt was promoted. He likes it up there, and though Godwin is back in uniform and in good health, he'll have a battle over ousting his former understudy.

Coach Butts inaugurated his "light drills" today, winding up the workout with a short scrimmage on defense. Most of the afternoon was devoted to pass defense and offense and running plays. While "knocking" will be less from now on, running will increase.

"We've got to get in better physical condition," Coach Butts declared, "and runnnig a lot is the best way to do it".

While Gus Letchas, sophomore backfield hopeful, limped around from a slight leg injury and didn't take part in the drill, the Bulldog wingback situation had a boost by the return of Andy Dudish, who has been unable to handle the ball on punts, passes or reverse plays because of a sprained thumb.

Dudish and Lamar Davis will have to do most of the work at the position until Letchas' is ready to go again. The Thomasville sophomore isn't badly hurt and will probably be ready to go against Mercer.

GREAT PITCHING.

AROUND Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

Youth conference of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta will be held today, tomorrow and Sunday at Camp Mikell, Toccoa, Ga., under the direction of the Rev. James L. Duncan, of Rome, it was announced yesterday. Rectors of Georgia churches and Miss Emily Wilson, national field worker for the youth movement of the Episcopal church, will take part.

Rosh Hosana, the Jewish New Year, will be observed by the Congregation Anshy Sfard beginning Sunday night, H. Taratoot, president, announced yesterday. Cantor S. Sood will conduct services at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night and at 8 o'clock Monday and Tuesday mornings. Taratoot will deliver the president's report at 12 o'clock Tuesday. Others will speak Monday and Tuesday mornings.

Inman Park Students' Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Willis Dobbs, 1082 Oakdale road, at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Auxiliary of the West End American Legion, Post No. 147, will be hostess to 50 soldiers from Fort McPherson at 8 o'clock tonight at the Legion home, with a program under the direction of Commander E. M. Lowery, of the Post, and Mrs. Milton W. Davis, of the Auxiliary.

Bank clearings yesterday totaled $18,400,000 compared with a total of $13,100,000 for the corresponding day a year ago, figures released by the Atlanta Clearing House Association revealed.

Annual outing of the Empire State Camp No. 7, Woodmen of the World, will be held from 2 o'clock to 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Adams Park. All members are invited and a fish fry will be held.

John B. Reeves, district manager of the priorities field service, will speak before the Buckhead Civitan Club at 6:30 o'clock Monday night at the Colonial Terrace hotel.

Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce's weekly luncheon meeting was postponed yesterday because of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce meeting now in progress at Brunswick. The next meeting will be held Thursday.

American Legion, Atlanta Post No. 1, will hold the weekly luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Legion Home, 1071 Piedmont avenue, Galdstone Pitt, commander, announces.

Washington Lodge No. 943, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the Southern Railway General Office, elected Alton W. Corbett, president, and Allan G. Rice Jr., chairman of the protective committee, to serve the unexpired 1941 term.

Jewish Temple, 1589 Peachtree road, will resume the regular Friday night services at 8 o'clock tonight in the new decorated auditorium of the temple, Rabbi David Marx, the spiritual leader of the congregation, announces.

Public speaking, a new class at the Atlanta Opportunity School, 417 Piedmont avenue, is open for new registrants, Professor James F. Watson, instructor, announced yesterday.

Civil service competitive examinations are open for the following positions, according to an announcement by the Fifth District Civil Service headquarters. The positions are senior, junior, minor, associate, assistant and under inspectors for Naval ordnance materials with pay ranging from $1,620 per year to $2,600 per year.

Methodists, of the Atlanta area contributed $19,941.26 to the World Service Missionary Service of that denomination during the first quarter of the fiscal year ending August 31, the Rev. O. W. Auman, treasurer of the Methodist General Commission on World Service and Finance, announced yesterday.

E. E. Andrews will speak at a meeting of the Atlanta Alumni Chapter of the Intercollegiate Law Fraternity of Sigma Delta Kappa at 6 o'clock tonight at the Winecoff hotel.

Kendall Weisiger, general information manager for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, will address the weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at Rich's tea room.

F. X. Kerscher's weekly bridge tournament will be resumed at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday, September 30, at his home at 405 Ninth street, it was announced.

at the COURTHOUSE

Forty-four first verdicts and 39 final verdicts in uncontested divorce cases were returned by juries in the Fulton superior court yesterday. Judge Paul S. Etheridge presided.

The grand jury will inquire into the fatal injury last Friday of Edgar Wilson, 13, by an automobile on Campbellton road near his Alpha street address. The driver, Paul Sheppard, Negro dairy truck operator, is held in Fulton tower.

Mrs. G. W. Sims, sister of Ike Gaston, East Point barber flogged to death near Ben Hill March 7, 1940, appealed to the grand jury yesterday to solve her brother's death. She pointed out there had been numerous Ku Klux Klan flogging convictions, but no indictment in the Gaston case.

F. D. R.'s Day

By LEE CARSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(INS) Flag Down: The flag over the White House came down at sunset and late tonight the President left for a week-end of settling the estate of his mother, the late Sara Delano Roosevelt, at Hyde Park. As executor as well as beneficiary Mr. Roosevelt will straighten out certain details, clear up others. He is expected to return early next week.

Message Up, Congress Down: Up to Congress early this morning went the presidential request for $5,985,000 lend-lease funds and down to the White House dribbled three congressmen. First in was Speaker Rayburn. Later Lyndon Johnson, the Texan defeated for Texas senatorship, came around for 15 minutes with the boss. Ten minutes before lunchtime silk-stocking New York Republican Congressman Joseph C. Baldwin arrived at the quest of the President, probably talked over Candidate Fiorello La Guardia's chances as a third-term mayor of Manhattan.

Trader Charm: The Washington charm boy and No. 1 horse-trader, Jesse Jones, showed up beaming and charming, reported to FDR his money-lending deal with the Russians.

South American Way: Accompanied by Venezulian Ambassador [illegible] Don Diogenes Escalante, General Lopez Contreras, Ex-President and present army chief of Venezuela, came to call, paid his respects in Spanish, told Mr. Roosevelt that he was pleased and honored to meet a man who stood for the same democratic ideals and principles as himself. After 20 minutes of this the thin, moustachioed General Contreras clicked his heels, marched out to start a swing around the U. S. Army circuit.

Today in Atlanta Churches

Oakhurst Baptist church loyalty dinner will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the church. September loyalty program topic, "Loyalty to Christ and the Church," will be presented.

Loyalty meeting of members of the Decatur Presbyterian church will be held at 6 o'clock tonight at the church following a picnic lunch on the church lawn. The meeting will replace the regular Woman's Auxiliary meeting and is sponsored by the Woman's and Men's Works Committee.

St. Mark Methodist church's Spiritual Life Group will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at the church with Miss Elizabeth Coles in charge of the program.

Sonja Henie Takes Oath as Citizen

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Screen and Skating Star Sonja Henie disregarded an illness that has confined her for two weeks to come to Stamford today, where she was sworn in as a citizen of the United States.

"I had to come today or wait another year," she told reporters, "I am very happy to be a citizen. I've achieved most of my success in this country and I love it."

Community Fund Inaugurates Annual Drive for Special Gifts

Vanguard of Huge Volunteer Army Completes Plans for Solicitations at Luncheon; Formal Campaign Is Scheduled October 20-31.

The vanguard of the huge volunteer army which will carry Atlanta's $575,000 Community Fund appeal to the people of Fulton and DeKalb counties swung into action yesterday.

Upwards of 200 representative citizens, gathered about a great "V for Victory" table at the Atlanta Athletic club, completed mobilization for a whirlwind advance solicitation of special gifts in advance of the formal campaign October 20-31.

Headed by W. C. Harris, a former appeal chairman, and Wright Bryan, a veteran of other campaigns, this force of picked men is the first of two wings of a division undertaking one of the most important assignments in the community's annual effort to support 34 key agencies in the human welfare field.

20 Teams Formed.

These workers, divided into 20 teams of a dozen members each, will make first-hand, face-to-face canvasses of a selected list, including some 1,500 of the fund's strongest supporters in previous years. Indicative of the spirit of action, optimism and confidence dominating the meeting, virtually every worker present signed his own pledge card before adjournment.

"We've set our goal at 20 per cent above last year's quota," Co-Chairman Harris said, "and we're going to get it so quickly it will set the pace for the entire campaign."

"You men are sold on the fund or you wouldn't be he e," added Bryan. "We've got to set a new standard of giving if we provide properly for the needs of thousands of our people—and I know you're going to do it."

Captains Listed.

Serving as team captains under Co-Chairmen Harris and Bryan are Russell Bridges Jr., James J. Doran, N. D. Eubank, Howard W. Fisch, Claiborne V. Glover, Henry W. Grady Jr., Reed S. Hammond, John H. Harland, J. Harvey Irwin, H. A. Kane, James Lea, L. C. Long, Frank Maier, C. Robert Mitchell, John S. McDonald, Fay Pierce, Robert H. Scott, Joseph S. Shaw, Joe Singer, William C. Wardlaw Jr., Julian A. Whatley and A. L. Zachry.

Actively taking the field this morning, the first section of the advance gifts division will be followed next week by a second section of volunteer solicitors led jointly by George Winship and H. Carl Wolf.

4 Nazi Ships Reported Sunk In RAF Raids

Extensive Operations Carried Out Over Channel and Continent.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 19.—(AP) British bomber and fighter planes sank two German mine sweepers and two antiaircraft ships, and damaged four other vessels in the channel during extended operations yesterday, the British air ministry announced tonight.

The ships, off the Dutch and Belgian coasts, were plastered with bombs and raked by aerial cannon and machinegun fire, the communiques said.

The RAF also reported offensive sweeps over the continent, destroying 16 German planes and losing 11.

Flight Lieutenant C. G. Peterson, of Santaquin, Utah, an American Eagle Squadron pilot, was credited with shooting down his second German fighter plane during a sweep over northern France.

Bombers and fighters combined made the first attack on shipping, the ministry said. Two antiaircraft ships were sunk and a supply ship damaged in this foray, it was stated.

Later bombers damaged a motor ship off the Dutch coast. The final assault was by four fighters which sank two mine sweepers with cannon fire, set fire to a third and left a fourth holed and listing heavily.

(A German announcement said the RAF lost 16 planes including three bombers in a raid on the coastal zone. Two other bombers were shot down in an attempt to bomb a German ship in the channel, the announcement said.)

The air ministry said the British losses were two bombers and nine fighters. German fighter squadrons were encountered so near the channel that bursts of cannon fire could be heard on the English coast.

The day's raids followed night attacks on Karlsruhe and other Rhineland points in which one British plane was lost.

Mrs. Hester Heads City Hall Women

Mrs. Vera Hester, who is just beginning her 25th year as an employe of the Atlanta Waterworks Department, yesterday was elected president of the Atalanta Club, organization of women employes at the city hall. She will succeed Miss Sarah Cleveland, of the same department.

Other officers elected at a luncheon meeting held at the Cox Carlton hotel are: Miss Vera Cooper and Mrs. Annie Dickson, vice presidents; Miss Florence Nicholson, secretary, and Mrs. Dell Pounds, treasury.

The new officers will be installed at a meeting October 1, at which Mayor LeCraw will preside.

Nazis Impose Strict Curfew On Parisians

New Restrictions Ordered Upon Entire Population in Reprisal.

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 19.—(Friday)—(AP)—The Germans announced today that new severe restrictions would be applied to the entire population of Paris as reprisals for attacks on German occupation troops.

Traffic anywhere in the Seine department was prohibited from 9 o'clock at night to 5 o'clock in the morning. All theaters, restaurants and places of amusement are required to close at 8 o'clock at night during the same three-day period beginning Saturday.

German military police ordered that any violators of regulations be arrested and held as hostages. German army units were ordered to patrol all streets.

An order signed by Colonel General Heinrich Von Stulpnaegel, commander of occupation troops, said "I will not longer allow the lives of German soldiers to be threatened by murderers."

Youth Unconscious For Two Weeks

A 17-year-old Atlanta youth injured in an automobile crash remained unconscious in Emory University for two weeks, it was disclosed Wednesday.

He is Paul H. Nixon, of 410 Euclid terrace, who suffered a fractured skull and a broken collarbone when the car in which he and two other youths were riding September 1 overturned five times and landed in a ditch on Glenwood avenue.

Nixon regained consciousness Sunday. His condition last night was described as critical. His companions were slightly injured. They were Howard Watson, 17, and J. C. Cofield.

Georgians Leave To Get Trophies

Two representatives of the Governor will leave Atlanta today for Lansing, Mich., where they will receive trophies captured from Georgia troops in the War Between the States.

They are Lieutenant Colonel H. A. Lawrence, commander of the Old Guard Battalion of Atlanta, and Mrs. Arthur McD. Wilson Jr., president of the Ladies' Memorial Association.

In ceremonies Saturday morning attended by delegates from all 13 states of the confederacy, the Governor of Michigan will return war trophies taken by Michigan troops. Three swords and eleven battle flags will be brought back to Georgia.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1941.

With all ingredients ready for making apple chutney, this housewife shows you how to relax and refresh yourself before starting. Taking time out for refreshment is as smart a trick for the housekeeper as it is for the office worker.

Roll Out the Apple Barrel For Lots of Good Health

When rosy apples come rolling into town one knows that autumn cannot be far behind. For red cheeked apples, bright colored leaves and frosty mornings are really regular go-togethers. It's a fine thing that apples are among the foods that have vitamins and other good-for-you elements, because they are so well liked eaten as a raw fruit and in many cooked dishes. As the apple barrels roll out, you should check over the apple recipes old and new and make ready to serve up this fruit in many a delectable dish. Here are some suggestions:

Stuffed Pork Chops With Apples.

Bread dressing.
3 tart apples.
Salt, pepper, flour.

Have chops slit on one side to hold stuffing. Wipe with damp cloth, sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper. Fill cavity with bread dressing and fasten with toothpicks or skewers. Roll in flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Lay in baking dish and on each chop place half an apple, which has been cored, place cut side down. Cover baking dish closely and bake in moderate oven about 45 minutes. Serves six.

Apple, Cheese, Nut Salad.

2 cups diced apples.
1 cup cottage cheese.
2 tablespoons honey.
1-4 cup mayonnaise.
1-2 cup walnut meats, chopped.
Walnut halves for garnish.

Apple and Pineapple Salad.

1 cup apple juice.
1 cup ginger ale.
1 cup diced apples.
1 cup diced pineapples.
1-2 cup diced celery.

Dissolve gelatin in 1 cup hot apple juice, cool and add gingerale. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then add other ingredients. Chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with fruit salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Apple Chutney.

12 ripe tomatoes, medium size.
6 onions, medium size.
3 red peppers.
3 green peppers.
1 pound seedless raisins.
1 cup celery, cut fine.
2 quarts cider vinegar.
3 cups granulated sugar.
Salt to taste.

Chop vegetable first and then the apples. Cut celery. Combine ingredients and cook until chutney is thick and clear. Pour immediately into clean hot jars. Seal at once.

Fried Carrots and Apples.

6 tart apples.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons shortening.

Scrape carrots and cut lengthwise into thin slices. Pare the apples, or leave skin on, as preferred; core and cut into slices about 1-4 inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and carrots in large frying pan with the shortening, cover tightly and cook until well browned. Turn and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Serve on a hot platter, placing a layer of carrots on a layer of apples.

Dutch Apple Pie.

1-3 cup water.
1-3 cup cream.
1 tablespoon butter.
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 tablespoon sugar.
4 cups sliced apples.
Pastry for 1 crust.

Place sugar and water in sauce pan. Bring to a boil. Boil gently about 5 minutes, or until syrup becomes thick. Add cream, butter and cinnamon. Cool 5 minutes.

Roll pastry to 1-8 inch thickness and fit into pie pan. Mix flour and the 1 tablespoon sugar together. Sprinkle on bottom of pan. Add the apples, which have been pared, cored and sliced. Pour syrup mixture over apples, being careful to coat all exposed pieces.

Bake 30 minutes in hot oven 400 degrees, then reduce temperature to 300 degrees F. and bake 30 minutes longer. Serves six.

Tricky Seasonings

1. Candy carrots on top of stove by sauteing cooked baby ones in butter or margarine and brown sugar, with a hint of curry powder added.

2. Macaroni in soup takes kindly to a dash of curry powder.

3. Butter or any other sauce for fish likes a tiny bit of curry powder.

4. Left-over boiled potatoes? Dice them to make three cups, add one minced onion and brown well in butter or margarine. Add 1-2 cup soup stock, simmer until almost absorbed by potatoes, then add 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and a hint of cayenne pepper.

5. Beef potroast takes happily to curry powder as a seasoning. Season it lightly, and at serving time sprinkle toast with a fine grating of lemon rind.

6. Ever make a southern cream sauce for pork chops? Sometime add a touch of curry powder to the sauce, just enough to make the family wonder what fine cooking secret you are hiding.

7. Have pink dumplings with lamb or beef stew. How? Use tomato juice instead of milk or water in mixing the dumplings. Flavor the stew delicately with chili powder.

8. A hot canape, quite different: Cut slices of rye bread in finger-like strips. Spread each with a mixture of butter and prepared mustard. Top with cooked ground ham which has been blended with tomato catsup and sliced pecans. Toast under broiler and serve promptly.

Budget-Minded Meats

While there are many excellent meat substitutes, nothing really takes the place of meat in the diet of an American. We are a meat-eating people, and no meals long satisfy us with a filling quality and flavor unless they contain meat in some form. As the housewife adjusts her meal planning to increased costs, she is wise if she makes good use of the inexpensive cuts, using recipes that successfully camouflage her real purpose. The less expensive cuts are as nutritious as the tender steaks and chops, the only appreciable difference being in the method of cooking. The less expensive cuts require longer cooking to tenderize them and to bring out their best flavor. In buying meat it is well to remember that the shoulder or forequarter cuts are less expensive as a rule than the hindquarter cuts, and that the rib section cuts are fewer, tenderer and therefore most expensive of all. The recipes which follow were designed to help the meal planner have plenty of meat without embarrassment to the food budget. The dishes that evolve will give not one hint to family or company of their economy-mindedness.

Broiled Salisbury Steak.

Buy 1 1-4 pounds lean chuck of beef and have it ground very fine. Mix with 1 teaspoon grated onion, salt, pepper and paprika to season and shape the mixture into 6 individual small steaks about 1-2 inch thick. Sprinkle lightly with flour and then brush each steak with melted butter or with cooking oil. Broil about 2 inches below the flame, allowing 5 to 6 minutes' cooking on each side. While the meat is cooking make a sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, adding 1-4 cup tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, a generous dash of cayenne or 1-2 teaspoon pepper sauce, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard. Mix all together with a fork and pour over the steaks.

Beef and Kidney Pudding uses 1 veal kidney or four lamb kidneys and 1-2 pound chopped lean beef—chuck or bottom round. Skin the kidney, cut through the center, remove the tough white inner membrane and then cut the kidneys in small pieces or chop them coarsely and mix with the chopped meat and 2 tablespoons finely chopped beef suet. Mix 1 cup fine stale breadcrumbs with 1 cup scalded milk and let stand until soft, then add 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced onion and the same of minced parsley; the meat and suet. Mix well, pack into a well-greased pudding mold, sprinkle 1-4 teaspoon each powdered thyme and sage on top, cover the mold and steam for 1 1-2 hours. Turn out and serve very hot with tomato sauce. Add a green vegetable and a salad—no starchy vegetable needed.

Braised Flank Steak, when properly cooked, is tender and delicious. The fiber is long and needs slow cooking to make it tender. Buy a flank steak and ask the butcher to score it, or cut it criss-cross on one side to break the long fibers. Mix together 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon flour. Mix in a separate bowl 1 1-2 tablespoons salad oil and 2 teaspoons vinegar. Spread the oil and vinegar over the steak and then sprinkle with the flour mixture and rub it well. Melt 2 tablespoons drippings in a heavy iron frying pan, put in the steak and fry to a golden brown on both sides. Pour off excess fat, reduce the heat and sprinkle the meat with 1-2 a green pepper cut in shreds, 1 onion chopped coraseely, 1-2 cup finely cut celery and 1 tablespoon minced parsley. Mix 4 tablespoons tomato catsup with 2 tablespoons hot water, pour over the meat, cover closely and cook very slowly for 1 1-2 hours or until the meat is very tender.

Potroast Shoulder of Lamb: Buy about 4 pounds of boned, rolled shoulder of lamb that is tied securely. Sprinkle the meat lightly with salt, pepper and flour. Melt 4 tablespoons meat drippings or cooking oil in a deep, heavy saucepan, put in the meat and brown quickly on all sides. Pour off the excess fat, add 2 medium-sized onions cut in thick slices, carrots cut in quarters and then across in eighths, 1 small white turnip cut in quarters, a sprig of parsley and 1 teaspoon salt. Next pour in 1-2 cup water, cover the pan closely and cook very slowly for 2 hours; add 6 medium sized, peeled whole potatoes and continue cooking until the meat and potatoes are done, or about 30 minutes longer. Lift the meat and vegetables carefully to a hot serving dish, thicken the gravy with a little flour and strain before serving.

Rolled Lamb Roast.

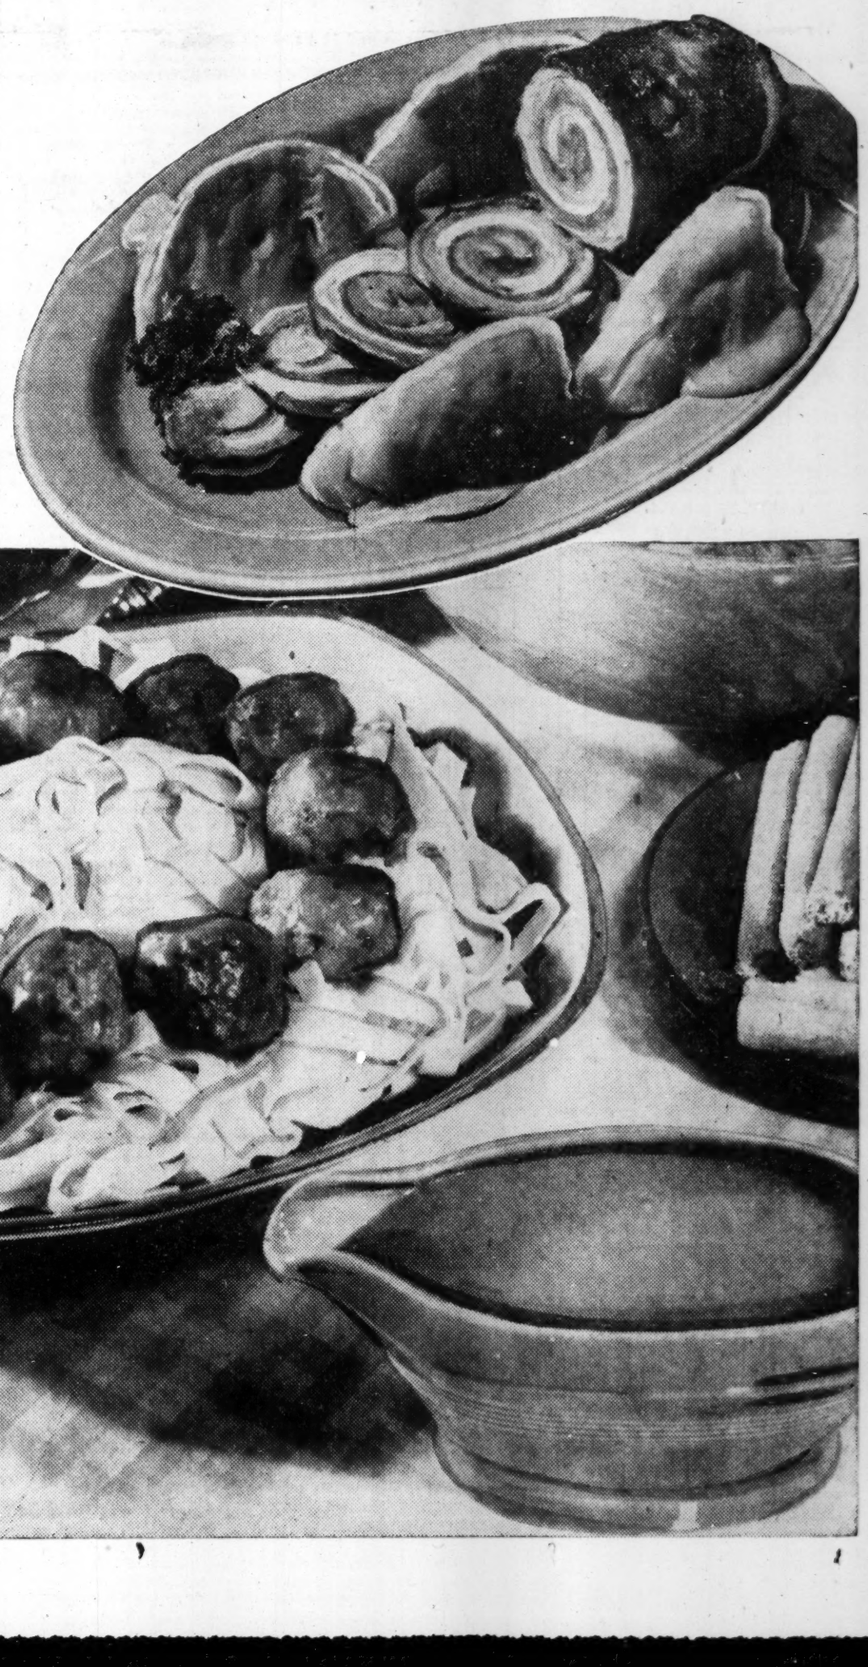

Lamb roast is an economy cut and an unusual way to serve it is to have it boned and rolled into "pinwheels." Have the lamb breast prepared at the market, spread lightly with bulk sausage (or if rolled at home it may be spread with a savory bread stuffing before rolling). The roll is then tied securely. First, brown lamb roll on all sides in hot fat, add 1-2 cup water, cover pan tightly, reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue cooking for 1 1-2 hours. If desired, vegetables may be steamed around the pinwheel roll during the latter part of the cooking time.

Beefsteak Pie.

2 pounds round steak (other beef cuts will do).
2 tablespoons flour.
1 1-3 teaspoons salt.
1-2 teaspoon pepper.
3 or 4 cloves or
2 slices onion, minced.
1 1-2 cups water.
Flaky pastry or
Fluffy mashed potatoes.

Cut the meat in thin slices or small pieces. Mix flour, salt and pepper and roll each piece of meat in it. Put a small piece of fat on each and place in a deep dish. Sprinkle with the onion or add the cloves. Add the water, cover dish and place in moderate oven, 350 degrees. Cook for 1 1-2 hours, or until meat is tender, then cover with flaky pastry or fluffy mashed and seasoned potatoes and bake 20 to 30 minutes longer.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Plum Conserve.

Wash 2 dozen ripe red or blue plums, cut in half and put them in a saucepan with 3-4 cup water. Cover and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes or until the plums are very tender. Rub the whole mixture through a coarse strainer and measure it. Add 3-4 cup sugar for each cup pulp, the pulp and grated rind of 1 small orange to each 3 cups pulp and 1-2 cup chopped seedless raisins to each 3 cups pulp. Mix and cook all together for about 40 minutes or until thick—stir frequently to avoid scorching. When done, remove from the fire, let cool for 15 minutes, stir in 1-4 cup chopped nut meats and pour into sterilized jelly glasses. Makes about 4 half pint glasses.

Fruit Sandwich Bread.

3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
1-2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1-2 cup milk
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1-2 cup chopped dates
1-2 cup chopped nuts
1-2 cup orange juice
1-4 cup melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Stir in coarsely chopped nuts, chopped dates and orange rind. Beat the egg, add milk, orange juice, melted shortening and mix well. Add liquid ingredients to the flour mixture, stirring only until all the flour is well moistened. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake one hour in slow oven (325 degree F.) When self-rising flour is used omit baking powder and salt. Yield: 1 one-pound loaf.

Veal Scallopina.

Buy very thin slices of veal cut from the leg—1 1-4 pounds for 6 people. Dip each slice in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Heat 1-4 cup salad oil in a heavy frying pan and add a thin slice of garlic—cook for a minute or two, then remove the garlic. Brown the veal in the hot oil, then pour off any excess oil, add 1-2 cup white wine and 1-4 cup water, 2 tablespoons minced parsley and 1-2 teaspoon grated lemon peel. Cover and cook slowly for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve on a hot platter garnished with toast dipped in butter and then in minced parsley.

Corn Timbales.

Melt 1-4 cup butter or margarine in a saucepan and add 4 tablespoons very fine dry breadcrumbs. Stir until the crumbs are lightly browned. Remove from the fire and add 1-2 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1 1-2 cups cooked corn cut from the cob, 2 well beaten eggs, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika and a little pepper. Pour the mixture into 6 greased custard cups, stand the cups in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven or steam over a moderate heat for 25 minutes or until firm. Remove from the fire, let stand for 5 minutes, then turn out on thin slices of cold boiled or baked ham and serve at once. Or arrange the ham overlapping in the center of a platter and put the hot timbales and slices of broiled tomato around the edge.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Vegetable Roast.

Submitted by Miss Mildred Blair, Mt. Airy, Ga.

1 cup vermicelli
1 1-2 cups boiling water
3 small onions
3 teaspoons drippings
1 egg
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup nut meats
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1-2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon salt

Cook vermicelli in boiling water until tender. Chop onions fine. Cook in drippings until yellow. Add egg, well beaten, the cooked vermicelli, bread crumbs, nuts, and put through food chopper. Then add parsley, poultry seasoning and salt. Mix well and shape by packing in a bread pan. Turn out in a loaf in a baking pan and bake 1 hour in a moderate oven (about 350 degrees) basting frequently with melted drippings. Serve with brown sauce.

Pear Mincemeat.

2 pounds seedless raisins
3 1-2 pounds sugar
Juice of 2 oranges
1 stick butter
1 tablespoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon

1-2 cup sugar
2 lemons (rind and juice)
1 cup canned cream

Put yolks, sugar, grated lemon rinds and juices in pan. Let come to a boil, stirring. Beat egg whites and beat into hot mixture. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Pour into tray lined with vanilla wafer crumbs, then cover top with crumbs. Put tray into refrigerator and freeze. Serves eight.

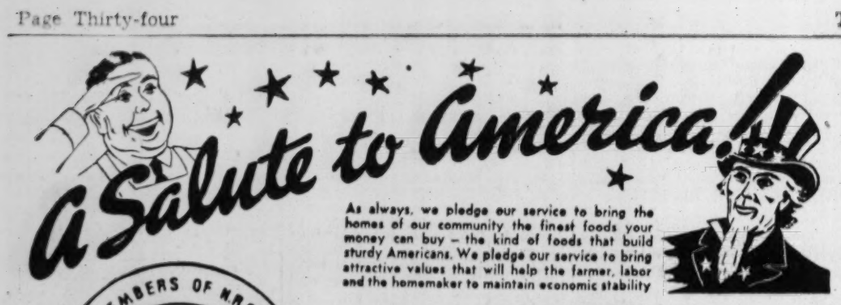

Casserole of Ham and Cabbage

Submitted by Miss Lula Sculley, Boston, Ga., Route 1.

3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-8 teaspoon paprika
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1-2 pound cooked ham, chopped
1-2 cup fine bread crumbs, buttered.

Cook cabbage in boiling, salted water 2 minutes; drain. Combine tapioca, salt, pepper, paprika and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 8 to 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter. Place layer of tapioca in greased baking dish, then layer of cabbage and ham. Repeat, finishing with tapioca. Sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 20 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

G. O. P. Solon Asks House To Back Roosevelt

Opposition Will Imperil U. S., Dirksen, of Illinois, Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Representative Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, a frequent critic of the administration, appealed to the house today for unified support of President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

The President, Dirksen said in a speech, "has announced a policy of patrolling and clearing the waters which are deemed necessary to our defense and for the maintenance of freedom of the seas," and to "disavow or oppose that policy now could only weaken the President's position, impair our prestige and imperil the nation."

He called for a "moratorium on hate"; for "fair, candid and temperate criticism of every mistake which hinders national defense."

Army Will Leave No 'Ghost Towns' After Emergency

By FRANK DRAKE.

The United States Army will have no more "ghost tow. and that means there isn't going to be one around the tremendous Army project between Conley and Forest Park when this national emergency ends, Army officials declared yesterday.

Though more than 4,000 men and women are going to work in the offices, depots, schools and such at the Clayton county development, they are going to be housed in and around Atlanta, College Park, Hapeville, East Point, and other communities and there will be no millions of dollars poured out to build houses for them near the place where they will work.

There will be no housing problem for the workers in the Fourth Corps Area quartermaster corps depot because most of them already have homes they do not want to leave, according to Colonel Thomas L. Holland, commander of the depot.

Motor Transport School.

The problem of housing the personnel for the huge motor transport school to be erected on the reservation by next spring will be largely solved if the Atlanta Housing Authority makes about 179 units of its Capitol Homes development available for the school permanent personnel, Lieutenant Colonel R. N. Atwell, commander of the motor transport school, asserted.

Officially, what the Atlanta Housing Authority will do was not known, but unofficially it was predicted the authority will offer the 179 units to the Army for use as needed. Capitol Homes are still under construction and an extension to care for Army needs can be made if necessary, it was said.

Uusually, the problem of housing workers for such a vast undertaking as the Conley depot (called Conley although the project is nearer Forest Park) is a major one for the commanders and in the past temporary houses have often been built at considerable cost only to be abandoned when the project's usefulness was over, leaving "ghost towns."

Both asserted that transportation from the depot to Atlanta should be arranged to care for the volume of traffic and added that the roads between the city and the depot should be widened and improved.

"Almost everyone working here at the Atlanta quartermaster's depot has a car or can arrange to ride with others to and from work," Colonel Holland asserted. "It is no different from the many workers in Atlanta private offices who live 20 or 30 miles away from their jobs by preference. The people who live in Marietta and work in Atlanta do it because they want to."

He added that most of the men and women working at the quartermaster's depot live in the southwest or southeast section of Atlanta, or in College Park, East Point or Hapeville. They will not have very far to go to the Conley project when it is put in operation, he pointed out. The project is 10 miles from Atlanta city limits.

Solution of Problem.

A few of the officers and instructors who will be assigned to the enlarged motor transport school would like to have homes near their work but Lieutenant Colonel Atwell declared that turning over to the Army a part of Capitol Homes "will solve our problem."

The Army is scheduled to begin taking over the Conley quarters about January 1, when the Quartermaster Corps moves in from the Candler warehouse, where it is now housed.

The Quartermaster Corps will take along 1,800 men and women workers and then there will be some 700 or 800 more for the medical, chemical warfare, engineering and signal corps when these units get their buildings ready and move in.

There will be nearly 1,500 more on the reservation when the motor transport school starts operation there sometime in the spring, and if corps area motor parts warehouses are erected there, it will mean 800 or 900 additional.

Hard to Visualize.

It's one of the biggest projects in the country and it is so big it is hard to visualize. The average man just can't imagine how large it is. It is costing millions of dollars and there will be millions of square feet of floor space in the rows and rows of warehouses.

Imagine a hundred-acre farm—think how big that is. Imagine how it would look covered with long one-story warehouses. Then multiply that by 15—for Conley project is approximately 1,500 acres big and most of it will be covered with buildings when it is completed.

It stretches almost from Forest Park to Conley, a distance of about three miles, and it is hundreds of yards wide.

Under construction now are buildings that will have nearly 4,000,000 square feet of floor space—enough to house a small city!

A lot of little businesses will spring up about this beehive of activity—some already have for the benefit of the construction workers. The roads near it will be lined with filling stations, soft drink and sandwich stands.

Much Activity.

Trains will be puffing in and out all day on the spur line tracks and lines of trucks and Army cars will pour in and out its gates from dawn to dusk.

The Conley Quartermaster Corps depot will be pouring out uniforms and supplies of all kinds to all the Army in the Fourth Corps Area. The motor transport school will be repairing heavy trucks, jeeps, tanks, and all types of motors, and at the same time training mechanics for the Army.

Three hundred earnest young soldiers will enter that school every month and every month 300 will graduate. There will be 900 student mechanics there all the time, housed in barracks to be erected. Three hundred and sixty enlisted men will be at the school on permanent duty and 80 officers will be in command. Fifty-one civilian instructors to teach the students will be there, teaching the learners how to fix the "wheels of war."

Briefly, these are the plans for Conley now. But it is likely that the whole thing may be vastly enlarged to meet increasing needs if war comes. Think of what Conley will be then!

Bets on Ponies From a Prison Camp in Poland

British Private Sends Wagers Via Red Cross Channels.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—If a man wants to play the horses, it seems there's hardly anything that can stop him—even though he is in a Polish prison camp and his betting agent is in London, with the International Red Cross their sole means of communication.

That was the situation of Private Gordon Roll, captured by the Germans at Dunkirk, who has been sending requests to Betting Agent Warwick Thompson for information on the horses.

Thompson was not inclined to take the communications seriously until Roll ordered a bet equal to $4,000 on the Cambridgeshire race. Now Thompson takes Roll seriously and arranged today to send weekly racing information to the prisoner.

The International Red Cross operates a clearing service enabling prisoners of war to write home and receive replies. It has no responsibility, of course, for the contents of letters handled.

U. S. Changes Location For Base in Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The United States, dissatisfied with a previously inspected site, has selected a location near Georgetown, Exuma Island, for its Bahaman defense base.

The United States discarded plans for a base at Mayaguana, some 800 miles southeast of Florida, and finally chose Exuma, only about half the distance from the mainland.

Great Britain agreed to lease a Bahaman and several other defense outpost sites to the United States in exchange for 50 overage destroyers.

Junior Chamber To Hear Pepper

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, will be principal speaker at a dinner session of the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday night.

Other scheduled speakers on the three-day program September 18-20 include Wiley L. Moore Jr., vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. M. E. Winchester, Glynn county health commissioner.

Russians Gaining Mastery Of Air, Red Reporter Finds

By EUGENE PETROV.

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

WITH THE RUSSIAN ARMY ON THE CENTRAL FRONT, Sept. 18.—(By Wireless)—The Soviet Air Force, which the Germans declared they had annihilated in the first few weeks of the war, is gaining mastery in the air.

I have visited practically the whole front and everywhere I saw the same picture. The air belongs to the Russian airmen. Germans, it is true, appear from time to time but they vanish at the first sight of Soviet fighters..

I already have written about the first turning point in this war. That was when the Germans here on the central front began to adopt the methods of positional warfare. The Germans' loss of superiority in the air is the second and no less important turning point. I do not know the cause of this loss of mastery of the air, whether it is lack of planes, pilots or gasoline, or a combination of all three. But the important thing is that the German fliers, who at the beginning of the war chased after every man in the road, after every country boy in the field, don't do it now. There is one other unquestionable fact I would like to testify to and that is the beginning of a decline in the morale of the German Army. One has to be extremely cautions on this subject. It would be foolish to say that a decline in morale was rife in the German Army. That is not so. If it was, the war would already be over. But that the decline in morale has begun is a fact.

Mud in Ears.

Before me stood a young man in a ragged, earth-soiled, greenish-gray tunic. He was a well-built, handsome lad. He was very dirty. His ears were so thick with mud they were almost invisible. He looked as though he had not washed for eight days. He was captured an hour or so earlier during an attack which began at dawn.

Together with four other German soldiers he came running out with hands high in the air to meet advancing Russian soldiers. They were taken prisoner and brought here to headquarters. On the way, all five of them kept saying that they had made up their minds long ago to surrender and to write letters to their comrades calling upon them to surrender.

They were fed up with war. They definitely were averse to fighting any more. They learned on the way to headquarters that they were not going to be shot. This came as a surprise. Their officers had told they would be tortured if they were captured. They were extraordinarily animated and loquacious.

They stood outside a tent, talking all the time and waving their hands and interrupting one another.

The commander had given me permission to interview prisoners under any circumstances. I called one of the Germans aside. We sat down and began talking.

24-Year-Old Corporal.

His name is Hans Dobat. He is a corporal, 24 years old. He is not a reservist, but a regular soldier and he arrived in Russia with his unit from France two weeks ago. He was a motorcyclist. He thought it had been fine fighting in France on his motorcycle, overtaking crowds and terrorizing them. But now he had been sent into the trenches. That was an unpleasant surprise for him. Generally speaking there was nothing interesting about this prisoner. He seemed like an ordinary modern Hitlerite youth. But what was interesting was the way he described the circumstances under which he surrendered.

Only yesterday he had been counter-attacked by 80 Russian tanks in the area occupied by his regiment. But the Germans apparently had sent their tanks elsewhere. There were no tanks today and Hans Dobat had to fight without them.

"Whoever heard of fighting without tanks," he exclained with the simplicity of a calculating businessman. "If they cannot give us tanks and feed us humanely what did Hitler mean by starting this war?"

The noise of planes was heard from overhead. Hans Dobat starts and ducks his head. Then he notices red stars on the wings of the planes and his poise returns.

"We were told that the Soviet air force had been destroyed but we didn't believe it," he says in an apparent effort to be friendly.

Fighting Gets Harder.

Then he went on to talk about what is on the mind of all prisoners. Autumn has come. It soon will be winter. The fighting is getting harder, not easier. They are forced to lie weeks on end in trenches and shell holes without daring to raise their heads. Soviet artillery is making life intolerable for them.

Hans Dobat said that you couldn't fight like that. The Germans are no worse than any other people, he insists, and the German leaders were responsible for the war.

I told him about the Anglo-Russian military agreement, the meeting between President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill on the Atlantic.

"Now the whole world is against us," he says gloomily.

"That was bound to happen. Hitler is an idiot."

"Did you only realize that now?" I asked him.

"No," he replies, "our men have been saying that for a long time."

What is interesting about this young man is that he and other German soldiers are surrendering in groups and that the German regulars are beginning to realize the difficulties of war

All five of the prisoners went to a dugout and sat down to write letters to their comrades in the trenches.

"Don't believe them when they tell you that prisoners are shot," they wrote. "That was one of Hitler's lies. We are all right here."

Not Very Bad.

They certainly are not very bad off. They have been fed and given cigarets and their lives have been spared.

At the front, night and day pass in the midst of a constant sanguinary effort. And now a new day has dawned and the sun has risen to the incessant accompaniment of artillery thunder.

The sunrise was unusually beautiful. But I caught myself appreciating its beauty only with my mind. I felt no response in my heart. In wartime there is no beauty. The day that Hitler is beaten, the first day of peace, people will again realize how beautiful is nature surrounding them. But at present that bare elongated hill, which was lilac colored, strictly speaking is not a hill at all. It is a height. And for possession of this height, stubborn fighting already nas been going on for about two weeks.

And that Russian birch standing over there by the road is not a birch but just a tree. It is so marked on a map. And a stream is not a stream but a line of defense. And the edge of a forest is not the edge of a forest but an excellent gun position.

The war has robbed nature of everything. Above all it has robbed it of its aromas. There are no aromas now. Only the smell of war. It is always the same, day and night, summer and autumn. The smell of modern warfare is a mixture of the fumes of gasoline, powder and burning debris.

We used to curse war. We wrote good books against war. We very properly brought up our children to hate war. And it wasn't only the Russians who did that. So did honest Germans. We cursed war and strove not to think that quite nearby in our very neighborhood—after all the world is very small—there were fierce anthropoid apes who clapped forage caps on their heads, decked themselves with metallic badges, shoulder straps with skull and crossbones, swastika bracelets of iron and exalted war, teaching their children to kill and flinging into prison all who were opposed to war.

As I looked at this group of German prisoners I searched in my heart for the hatred I had for these men mut here was none. And yet how I hated them when they had rifles in their hands!

CCC Boys Play Major Role in Defense Work

14,000 Enrollees Engaged in Noncombatant Activities.

Charles C. Coffin, state selection officer for the Civilian Conservation Corps, announced yesterday that eight companies of the CCC, comprising approximately 14,000 enrollees, are actively engaged in noncombatant duty on United States military reservations.

He said the CCC members are clearing land for new construction, building target ranges and drill grounds, laying telephone and water lines and building roads and bridges.

Coffin singled out two projects as examples of the work the CCC is doing. He cited an airfield in Alaska where 400 enrollees have been at work for almost a year, and the clearing and preparation of the parachute jumping field at Fort Benning, Ga., where the Army's first parachute troops are being trained.

The United States Army's Boeing bomber can fly at 27,000 to 30,000 feet, an altitude hard for many of Europe's pursuit planes to reach.

TECHNICAL MEN—The railroad fellows who have to worry about the technical end of railroading, like getting machine tools in these days of national emergency, met yesterday at the Ansley hotel. As members of the Southern and Southwestern Railway Club, they heard J. E. Carroll (left), supervisor of tools for the Southern Railway, discuss tool economy and increased production. J. M. Plaskitt, of Washington, president, presided.

Roosevelt To Study Proposed Repeal of the Neutrality Law

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(INS) President Roosevelt, after canvassing the Navy's stern new job of protecting British lend-lease convoys in the Atlantic with Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and going over the entire international situation with Secretary of State Hull, prepared to leave Washington tonight for a weekend at his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate.

As he prepared for his journey, he had before him for signature the record new $3,500,000,000 tax bill.

During the weekend at Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to handle the details of settling the estate of his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who died two weeks ago.

The President also carried with him the problem of possible steps to repeal the neutrality act as the last legal impediment in the way of full United States naval and maritime aid to Britain.

On this current subject, Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, until recently chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, today expressed the opinion that until the neutrality act is repealed or changed, United States naval convoy of British shipping into the combat zone around Britain would be illegal.

Assumes Convoys Legal.

George said he assumed that the convoy duty announced yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Knox does not extend beyond present legal limits in the Atlantic.

"If the United States is to undertake the protection of shipments of war materials into dangerous areas as defined under the neutrality act," George said, "it would be necessary for the administration to come to congress for revision or repeal of the act.

"My opinion always has been that the United States Navy could be used to protect United States ships wherever they may legally go."

63 'Old Men' Get Releases At McPherson

Healthier, perhaps a little weatherbeaten, but hardly sad and dejected, 63 men at Fort McPherson this week said goodbye to Army life, granted exemption from further service because they have passed the age of 28.

Twenty-five of the men left the regular Army post and 38 others were released at the reception center.

Departure of the men brought plenty of humorous jibes from fellow soldiers, who described the older men as "tottering from the barracks."

Corporal Frank W. Hardie, an Auburn graduate who is 31 years old and will get his own release soon, said the men were "ravished by time, and no longer the desirable hand-picked soldiers their local draft boards assured them they were." He added "they were sustained and soothed by the thought they can now sleep until 7:30 o'clock each morning."

Being something of a literary man, Corporal Hardie also wrote this little poem and dedicated it to the 28-year-olds:

"It's better to have loved and lost,
Better to have marched than not,
Better to be outward tossed,
Than here and on the spot.

The spot that old men occupy,
Through no fault of their own, forsooth,
The law of the fittest is the cry,
And Age gives way to Youth."

Among those released were: Clyde T. Bowen, Edward B. Bruce, William F. Gibson, Thomas F. Kehoe, Leonard B. Richardson and George F. Williams, all of Atlanta; Ernest W. Akins, Columbus; Charles E. Brinson, Millen; Milus H. Carroll, Blythe; Clarence B. Chapman, Winder; William J. Macher Jr., Savannah; Julian E. Mathews, Paco; James H. Orr, Buford; Jay R. Reynolds Jr., Rome, and John H. Tate, Marietta. They were in the reception center group.

Substations Speeded To Run Gas Line Pumps

11 New Units Rushed as Two Major Systems Near Completion.

Eleven new substations of the Georgia Power Company are being rushed to completion, it was said yesterday, to provide some 50,000,000 kilowatt hours per year for the operation of gasoline pipe lines through Georgia.

The Southeastern Pipe Line, which runs from Port St. Joe, Fla., through Atlanta to Chattanooga, will pump approximately 650,000 gallons of fuel per day, while the Plantation Pipe Lines, running from Baton Rouge, will cross Georgia and carry fuel into the Carolinas.

The Southeastern Pipe Line has requested Georgia Power Company officials to furnish power for eight pumping stations by November 15. The pumping stations will be at South Albany, Americus, Macon, Griffin, Atlanta, Euharlee, Summerville and Marshallville.

The three Georgia pumping stations on the Plantation lines will be at Bremen, Atlanta and Athens.

Terminal facilities of the Plantation line will be at Bremen, Atlanta and Athens, with branch terminal facilities at Columbus and Macon, while the Southeastern line will have terminals at Albany, Americus, Macon, Griffin, Atlanta and Rome.

Parley Set Today By Planning Unit

Post war problems in employment and in public construction and improvements will be laid before members of the city planning commission at a meeting at 12.30 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel.

Officials of Public Works Reserve, a new federal public works agency, will explain post war construction plans to the city planners, and will urge that a substantial post war program be mapped for Atlanta now in order that the transition from a war basis to a sound peace economy be cushioned so unemployment may be kept at a minimum and a depression averted.

T. Elton Drake, commission chairman, and Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary of the planning commission, urged all members to be present.

Old Shah's Estate Delivered to Iran

TEHERAN, Iran, Sept. 18. — (INS) — Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi today turned over to the Persian State all the possessions of his rich father, who abdicated this week under Russian and British military pressure.

The 21-year-old Shah, who ascended the throne yesterday, also pledged co-operation with the British and Russians.

(The Moscow radio reported that Russian troops have entered Teheran, where London charged that German influence still persists.)

(A Rome radio broadcast picked up in New York by NBC asserted that Britain is planning to set up in Iran a new dynasty headed by the AGA Khan, wealthy head of an Indian sect.)

Labor Conference Will Be Held Here

Plans will be developed for the fall and spring program for the 15 units comprising the Georgia state council of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes union at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Labor Temple, it was announced yesterday.

Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, and Paul Chipman, secretary of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, will deliver addresses. Chipman will speak on "Value of Unity in Unions."

R. B. Bates, president of Atlanta local No. 3, will preside, according to announcement by Edgar Gunn, publicity chairman.

U. S. Aid Promised In Weevil Losses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Farm Credit Administration assured Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, today that credit agencies under its control would render all assistance possible to cotton farmers who had suffered losses from the boll weevil.

Dr. A. G. Black, administrator, wrote Fulmer that the farm agency was fully aware of the plight of the cotton farmers.

Dr. Black suggested that farmers who had Federal Land Bank commissioner loans and were unable to meet their obligation because of crop damage get in touch with local National Farm Loan Associations.

"They, with the operation of the bank's officials, will do everything possible to assist in working out satisfactory payment programs," the administrator wrote.

State Patrol Ends Hunt for Fugitive

Georgia State Patrol yesterday ended a two-year search for an escaped safe cracker, Wendell T. Fowler, when they returned him to the state from Paducah, Ky., after a tip from Lieutenant C. E. McCrary, of Atlanta police, led to his arrest.

Investigators Max Parker and W. C. McLemore went to Kentucky after Fowler, who fled a Georgia prison two years ago after being sentenced to serve 17 to 35 years for participation in the robbery of the Tennessee Egg Company here.

The Army Medical Library in Washington has about 1,000,000 books, magazines and other reference items.

Vacation-Fresh Ickes Stands by Oil Curfew, Calls Critics Stupid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) Declining to heed the recommendation of a senate committee that gasoline restrictions in the east be lifted, Secretary of Interior Ickes, the defense petroleum co-ordinator, declared today such action would be "stupid."

He told newspapermen the rationing of motor fuel to service stations and the 7 p. m.-7 a. m. station curfew would continue.

"To take off all the restrictions now and yell, 'Come and get it,'" he said, "——that would be stupid."

Ickes, just back from a month's vacation in the west, stated the position of the petroleum office at his first press conference here since the committee, headed by Senator Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, reported there was no petroleum shortage in the east, that "unnecessary alarm was created" and that "we believe that present restrictions should be lifted."

The committee said the only shortage it found was one of surplus storage.

Ickes said he had no comment on the committe's conclusions except to say that "the whole thing is in the lap of time and time will tell the story."

However, he framed this question for reporters:

"When you say there's a shortage in storage, you say there's a shortage, don't you?"

To emphasize his contention that an emergency existed he cited reports of the American Petroleum Institute showing that for the week ending September 13 gasoline stocks on the Atlantic seaboard dropped 565,000 barrels, making a total decline of 1,023,000 barrels for a week period compared with a drop of only 160,000 barrels during the corresponding weeks of last year.

East coast gasoline stocks, he said, now are about 2,700,000 barrels or 12.5 per cent less than they were at this date in 1940, while demand is about 11 per cent higher than last year.

"Those are the facts," Ickes commented. "I'll let the facts speak for themselves."

Grand Army of Republic Headed by Ex-Sailor, 93

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A 93-year-old ex-sailor, George A. Gay, of Nashua, N. H., today was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Gay, who succeeds William Nixon, of Jewell, Kans., served in the Civil War with the Atlantic blockade fleet of the Union forces.

Ex-Selectees Asked To Join State Defense

Experience of Former Draftees Needed in Home Guards.

Major Oren Warren, adjutant, said yesterday the State Defense Corps planned to enroll as many as possible of the selectees who are being mustered out of the Army.

Although Georgia's home guards are within about 200 of their authorized strength of 6,000, Warren said there is a constant turnover in personnel with many of the older men resigning because of the greater strenuousness of the training.

Addition of men released from the Army, he said, would enable them to continue their training and at the same time contribute their experience to the Defense Corps.

Since men from 35 to 50 years of age first were enrolled in the corps, the enlistment of selectees who have completed a year's training will lower the average age. In recent months enlistments have been limited to men from 21 to 35 years of age.

No Set Period.

Warren said if the men mustered out of the Army were recalled they would be released by the state. He pointed out that enlistments in the Defense Corps are for no set period, although the men are requested to serve for the duration of the national defense emergency.

A shipment of 2,500 rifles from the War Department is due here Saturday, Warren said, to complete the arming of the defense unit.

More Equipment Ordered.

The adjutant also said 100 rifles and bayonets had been sent today to the Savannah unit of the military police battalion, a special organization of the Defense Corps. The Savannah unit, Company C, is commanded by Major John R. Fawcett. Uniforms for it have been ordered but not delivered.

The Gainesville unit of the police battalion already has been organized and the third and last unit will be established in Atlanta within two weeks, Warren said.

Super Suds CONCENTRATED for WASHING CLOTHES AND DISHES
HERE'S HOW RAYON EXPERTS SAY TO WASH DAINTY RAYONS
1. Test a small patch in plain water for color-fastness. If color runs, it's not washable.
2. Wash rayons separately by hand. Use lukewarm suds made as follows: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, then add cold water to get lukewarm suds.
3. Do not soak rayons. Wash quickly and gently. Do not rub, wring or twist.
4. Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean, lukewarm water. Roll in towel, but don't leave there.
5. Use moderate iron.

'Pack Hunting' By Subs Seen As New Tactic

Germans Have Abandoned 'Lone Wolf' System, Author Suggests.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A theory that the major proportion of Germany's submarine fleet engaged in "wolf-pack" maneuvers during July and August preparatory to a co-ordinated attack on the Icelandic convoy route was advanced today by H. C. Ferraby, prominent naval author.

In a BBC war commentary, Ferraby said these practice tactics would account for subsiding British shipping losses during those months, a period in which most of the submarines "were not at war at all."

A recent Berlin communique referred to sustained convoy attacks continuing for "several days of hard fighting," and Ferraby cited this as evidence that the new tactics of team play now was coming into its own.

Submarine captains during the summer months, he said, were "trying to forget how to play as individualists to learn the new game of fighting as members of a team.

"Today we find something quite different. There are several days of hard fighting. There are obviously several successive waves of U-boats engaged, one picking up the trail of convoys as a previous wave drops out of the engagement.

"The plan is quite a revolution, not only in German submarine practice, but in that of all navies."

Aside from smashing the north Atlantic route via Iceland, he said the German hope was to force British ships farther south so that long-range planes based in France also could strike at them.

Early-to-Bed Selectees Arise, Fall In as Goodnight Sounds

"Jeeps," green selectees at Fort McPherson, believe it is best to do something, even if it's wrong, every time that bugle blows.

Because new arrivals must be in bed much earlier than the veterans at soldiering, "jeeps" are always puzzled by the 10:45 o'clock call to quarters that sounds each night several hours after most of them have been asleep.

When the call sounded Wednesday night at least a dozen men in Company E barracks jumped to their feet, thinking it was morning, and reveille. They were half-dressed, preparing to "fall in," before a sergeant ordered them back to bed.

'American Boy' Bought at Sale, To Live Again

Name, Good Will Bring $700 at Detroit Auction.

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP)—American Boy, the magazine whose adventure tales fired father's imagination as a boy, may again entertain the nation's youth.

This is the intention of James A. Humberstone, former automotive trade magazine editor who today bought the title and good will of the bankrupt magazine for $700 at auction.

The American Boy, once one of America's most successful publishing ventures, was combined with the Youth's Companion in 1929. It faded from the scene with the July-August issue of this year.

Its passing brought nostalgic sighs from many men who as youngsters had thrilled to tales of "Bluebeard the Pirate" and had laughed aloud at the antics of "Mark Tidd" and "Funnybone Ticklers."

Read by Thousands.

The Youth's Companion was founded in Boston in 1827. Its particular audience was Sunday school students, and week after week thousands of boys—and girls and grownups, too—doted on its wholesome stories and solved its anagrams.

Not until 1899 did it encounter a serious rival. That year marked the appearance of The American Boy.

William C. Sprague founded The American Boy and used as material the stories he had collected to amuse his son and his friends' children. Magazine editors who pooh-poohed the idea the publication would be a success watched it grow by leaps and bounds.

Impressive Authors.

Its pages contained an impressive list of authors, among them Clarence Budington Kelland, James Willard Shultz, Howard Pease, Glen Balch, John A. Morosco, John Masefield, Franklin M. Reck and Kenneth Gilbert. Articles were illustrated by such artists as Anton Fisher, Frank Schoonover and R. M. Brinkerhoff.

How soon publication of the revived magazine would be resumed was not announced. Assets of the combined magazines brought $8,895 at auction.

Rail Service Is Praised by Shippers Here

Meeting Here Points to Increased Freight and Supply Trains.

The railroads shooting daily supply trains to the armies engaged in "war" in Louisiana are ready to roll with the maneuvers in the Carolinas, and are generally taking care of ever-increasing freight shipments of all types, it was reported yesterday at a meeting of the Southeastern Shippers' Advisory Board at the Ansley hotel.

Over 3,000 carloads of supplies already have been sent the soldiers on maneuvers in Louisiana and more are on the way, T. M. Healy, acting district manager of the board, explained.

Praise Private Ownership.

Members of the board, most of them traffic experts for big manufacturers and industries, unanimously adopted a resolution yesterday afternoon asserting, "As shippers we reaffirm our confidence in the railroads under private ownership and management to do the job as efficiently, indeed more efficiently, than they could under bureaucratic supervision or government ownership."

This followed report after report from the shippers' agents declaring that though freight-car loadings are increasing and an 11.4 per cent increase is expected during the next three months, there have been no shortages on cars. Every shipping emergency has been handled successfully by the railroads, they declared.

Urge "Speed Up."

However, they urged full cooperation between shippers and railroads in speeding shipments and facilitating the use of existing freight cars. Elimination of delays, shorter routings, more rapid loading and unloading and similar "speed-up" methods will care for the greater demand for transportation by rail, they maintained.

Lieutenant Colonel George W. Wannamaker, chemical officer of the Fourth Corps Area, spoke on chemical warfare and praised the work of the railroads in relation to the Army. H. D. Pollard, trustee of the Central of Georgia, was another speaker. O. H. Weaver, of Griffin, general chairman, also spoke.

Mishandling of Torpedo Seen in Swedish Blast

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The most generally accepted cause today of the explosions which cost Sweden three modern destroyers yesterday was the mishandling of a torpedo. Another report in civilian circles said that a boiler explosion aboard the destroyer Goteborg set off the blasts which also destroyed the Klas Horn and Klas Uggla at their anchorage at Harsfjaerden, south of Stcokholm.

Official versions of the disaster remained undisclosed.

Mrs. Holcomb Dies Here at 70

Mrs. Minnie E. Holcomb, 70, of 819 Glendale terrace, N. E., died last night at a private sanitarium. She had been a resident of Atlanta for three and a half years.

Surviving are her husband, H. M. Holcomb; two daughters, Mrs. R. M. Washburn, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Norman Howes, of Chatham, Mass., and a brother, Cleon C. Sweet, of Westboro, Mass.

Brandon - Bond - Condon is arranging to have the body taken to Northbridge, Mass., for funeral services and burial.

K. M. Orlop, 45, Salesman, Dies

Kenneth M. Orlop, 45, a salesman, of 203 North avenue, N. E., died yesterday at his home after a brief illness. He was a native of New York state, but had resided in Atlanta for the past three years.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill.

New Hospitals May Be Ready January, 1943

Facilities in Fulton, DeKalb Will Operate Under New Authority.

The Metropolitan Hospital Authority yesterday laid plans to begin operation of hospitalization facilities for Fulton and DeKalb counties beginning January 1, 1943, but generally agreed to operate city hospitals next year with contributions made by Atlanta and Fulton county governments, a system which has been in effect for many years.

When the authority actually begins functioning it will be financed by a special tax levied by Fulton and DeKalb counties, but until that time Mayor LeCraw asked if it would take over Grady hospital, the Albert Steiner clinic and Battle Hill tuberculosis sanitarium.

Thomas K. Glenn, banker, was named chairman of the authority at the first session, held several weeks ago, and members yesterday said they will study the proposal from Atlanta with a view of granting the mayor's request.

Formal application has been filed with PWA for a $5,000,000 loan-grant to construct new facilities, but those acquainted with present priority demands said that even if the financing arrangements were completed now the authority could not get delivery of needed construction materials in time to complete the plant before January, 1943.

P.-T. A. Founder To Get Memorial

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—Selection of a city-owned lot, directly opposite Northcutt stadium on Polk street, is announced as the location of the Alice McLellan Birney memorial. A committee headed by Miss Virginia Crosby, acting as chairman in the absence of Judge J. H. Hawkins, chose the site when a letter from the National Parent-Teacher Association arrived requesting prompt action.

Mrs. Charles D. Center, secretary, wrote that the organization was ready to ship the memorial stones collected from every state in the Union, and had set the unveiling date tentatively for next May provided Marietta could assure them a definite site by September 17.

The lot selected belongs to the Marietta board of education. L. W. (Chip) Robert Jr., whose interest and promise of financial assistance in erecting the monument helped to speed selection of the site, was notified at once of the choice.

Mrs. Birney is credited with being the founder of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Dewey Johnson, Former Congressman, Succumbs

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—(AP) Dewey Johnson, 42, who was elected to congress from the fifth Minnesota district in 1936, serving one term, died from pneumonia today. He was a lawyer and leader in the Farmer-Labor party. Funeral services will be held Monday. His wife and a daughter survive.

Guarantee Called Misrepresentation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Federal Trade Commission said today it had issued a complaint charging Eversharp, Inc., of Chicago, with misrepresenting in advertising that its pencils are "guaranteed forever."

The complaint contends, the commission said, that the company does not make a "genuine guarantee without limitation" but merely agrees with the purchaser of its fountain pens or pencils to make necessary repairs at a flat charge of 35 cents "purportedly for postage, insurance and handling."

Vatican Denies Getting Request

ROME, Sept. 18.—A report in the United States, but not carried by the Associated Press, that Pope Pius XII had refused a request of President Roosevelt that he declare a war against Nazism justified, was denied at Vatican City today.

Osservatore Romano, semi-official Vatican City newspaper, said "We are authorized to declare that the request was not made and thus the report is devoid of any foundation."

CONSERVATORY OPENS.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Enrollment at Wesleyan conservatory already has doubled last year's total, with the registration of old students just beginning. Six men students are included in the enrollment.

Tim Gets His First Taste of the War When He Is Attacked by German Bombers

SYNOPSIS.

Tim Baker, young American, is first reprimanded by a Canadian official because he violated the neutrality act and then hired by the Canadian government. His job is to ferry bombers to England. He finds London rather dull, and to break the monotony he speaks to a group of people engaged in an air raid drill.

INSTALLMENT II.

The young man smiled comfortably. "Nothing to get excited about. Just air-raid practice, you know." He subsided into an embarrassed silence as a nurse passed by and threw over her shoulder: "Lie down and be quiet, young man. You're in a very serious condition!"

Tim turned away. But at that second a passing form caught his attention. Tim couldn't see the girl's face, but something about the swinging, easy grace of her walk made him certain that she was different from the other nurses in their drab uniforms. As she passed by the lighted underground entrance, Tim caught his breath sharply. Yes, it was she. He leaped forward. "Hey!" he yelled, but the girl didn't hear and disappeared down the underground steps, while Tim plunged after her. He snatched a bandage from a tray carried by a passing nurse and wound it around his jaw while he ran.

A second later Tim, his jaw bandaged, stood before the girl he had followed. As she looked up at him impersonally, he snatched off the bandage and kissed her soundly. She struggled free and glared at him. "You worm!" she said grimly. She stared at him levelly. "I didn't expect to see you here," she continued quietly.

"I can."

Tim's face fell. "Can I help it if I was forced down by a snowstorm in Tulsa?" He looked injured. "That note you left me in Dallas was something!" He pulled her close. "I knew if I could only see you again I could explain about that other girl."

Carol laughed bitterly. "That's the thing you do best — explain. But you needn't bother, Tim. I'm not interested. It's over. Finished. Done."

Tim looked at her sadly. "That's a fine way to treat a guy who's flown the Atlantic just to see you." She stared at him, and as Tim sensed her resistance ebbing, he continued quickly. I've changed, Carol," he hurried on. "I've changed a lot since then. Honey, you'll be surprised."

She turned and started walking away. "I've work to do."

"Still talking about the old Baker," Tim interrupted, matching his step to hers. "There's a new Baker, don't you see?" He stopped and held her arm. "The new Baker's a pretty steady model, Carol. Look, what harm would there be in giving me a try-out?"

"I suppose you'd even join the RAF?" she asked coldly.

"Not at these prices," he smiled. "Anyway," he continued, "you're going to have dinner with me, and we'll talk more about it. Wake me up when you go off duty." He lay down calmly.

"Can't I? Just watch me." He reached for a blanket, wrapped it around himself and in a second was fast asleep. Carol glared at him for a second, and then her face changed to a half smile.

Passengers passing that way a little later stared in a surprise at the tall, apparently undamaged young man lying fast asleep with a tag reading "Fractured Jaw" around his neck.

It was a quiet day for the coastal command. A gray winter wind tossed the channel into a seething lather, and the watchers, certain that no German raiders would try flying, were lounging around in their heavily camouflaged post on the beach.

The commander, glasses held steadily before his eyes, held up his hand. "Wait! Hold fire," he called. "It's one of ours! An American plane! Curtiss P-36. Testing, probably." Heatedly he dropped his glasses. "What the dickens is he doing this far east? They've been ordered to stay out of this zone! Inform headquarters!"

Inside the plane Tim Baker, absorbed in the sheer joy of flying, had not noticed that he had passed over the choppy channel. He didn't notice the two lean, dark planes in the cloud-tatters above him peel apart and dart down toward his own ship, until something splattered the windshield in front of him, sending splinters of glass whipping through the ship.

Tim ducked involuntarily. "Hey!" he yelled, "cut it out! You can't do that! I'm an American!" He shook his fist at the two Messerschmidts which had zoomed past and were banking for another attack. "I haven't got any ammunition!" he screamed wildly.

Baering Down on the News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

I don't know what they mean by a shooting war because I don't know of any other kind.

But like Big Chief Smoke he knew when the pipe of peace was a piece of pipe.

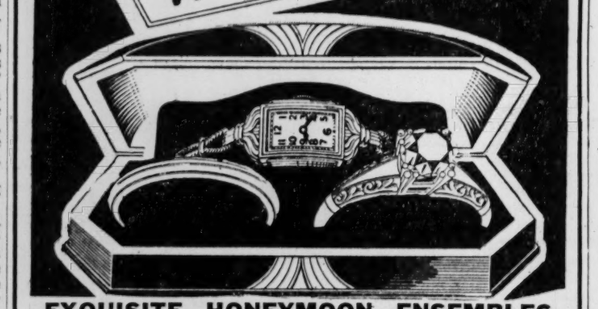

If the other fellow pops loose at you I claim you are in a war even if you haven't got your working certificate.

Then you had better break all track records for moving targets or get yourself a gun.

For you are in a war when the other fellow is shooting at you.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The day favors writing, communications, trial, changes, new attachments. A great deal should be accomplished in inventive or scientific work. An auspicious day for dealings with older people and for matters related to the land.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Previous to 7:06 p. m. favors routine affairs in your life, but suggests caution in secretive ideas, around liquids, water and chemicals. The remainder of the day is auspicious for making progress in those things that will advance your standing, dealings with people who are conservative and responsible for those things that are matured slowly.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—After 11:07 a. m. the day favors general finance, dealings with women and contacting superiors. Before 11:07 a. m. you may have a tendency to increase your peace to such an extent that you will feel irritable. The evening hours favor sports and romantic interests.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The combined influences operating throughout the entire day make a rather negative period. The affairs that you are attempting may seem to get you nowhere, or will not go at all. Changes, especially important changes, are not favored. Carelessness may be encountered, so give attention to routine matters.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The predominating influences today suggest attention to your health and being cautious and moderate in all that you do. After 3:43 p. m. financial efforts should meet favorable results.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—The entire day suggests you control self and act with much discretion and caution, for the predominating influences are such that may easily bring arguments, disputes and impulsive speech. The period does not especially favor new beginnings.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—It might be well to give business and social associates every consideration before 7:12 p. m., for you are apt to encounter a letdown feeling or meet with coldness, which will retard matters. After 7:12 p. m. favors activity, whether you use energies in sports or business or merely in disposing of the work at hand quietly.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—Whatever you are wanting to accomplish, try and start before 11:30 a. m. and after 5:05 p. m., for you should be able to advance your position at this time. After 11:30 a. m. favors new undertakings and changes.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The day does not especially favor new beginnings or assuming added responsibilities. The best aspects of the day operate between 11:38 a. m. and 12:06 p. m.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—The period through 4:43 p. m. favors dealings with others in a friendly and openhearted way in practically almost all lines of endeavor. The period past 4:43 p. m. suggests care in connection with other people and in written matters of all kinds.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—Whatever you want to accomplish, try and start before 11:33 a. m. and after 5:05 p. m. for you should be able to advance your position at this time. Between 11:33 a. m. and 5:05 p. m. does not especially favor new undertakings and changes.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—During the entire day and until 7:55 p. m. favors attending to older matters and affairs under consideration. After 7:55 p. m. use care in driving and avoid quick flareups of temper.

George Burns is Jack Benny's best audience, and vice versa. The comedy stars dropped into a Hollywood business office the other day to discuss phases of their respective yarns until both were on the floor—literally—howling with laughter.

Today's Radio

Friday's Program

These Programs Are Given in EASTERN STANDARD (ATLANTA) TIME and are subject to change by the stations or networks without notice.

GINNY SIMMS.

Ginny Simms In Bow Today; Fight on Air

Sophie Tucker, Frank Buck on Quiz Show; Music Scheduled.

By PAUL JONES.

Ginny Simms, pretty vocalist who was given a chance at fame by Kay Kyser's fine orchestra, will premier her own program tonight over the Columbia network and WGST at 8:55 o'clock. Ginny, brown-haired, blue-eyed singer, will stray from the Kay Kyser college and remain in Hollywood where she will fill a movie contract. She no longer will be heard with the Kyser band.

Other high spots on tonight's log will be a broadcast of a lightweight bout between Ray Robinson and Maxie Shapiro, sensational boxers. This program will be airwaved at 9 p. m. over Mutual. Immediately preceding this program Charles Laughton, noted character actor, will present the second "Three Ring Time" over the same station. Shirley Ross, screen star, will be featured.

Sophie Tucker, queen of blues singers who made famous "Some of These Days," will co-star with Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Buck on the "Double or Nothing" quiz program which also will be heard over Mutual and WATL beginning at 7 o'clock.

"First Nighter" will be shifted from Tuesday to Friday nights beginning tonight when a omedy-romance will be enacted for the radioites. The story will tell of a couple who decide to go on separate vacations, but who wind up on the same boat. The title of the skit will be "Husband Below Deck." Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne will be the stars.

Abe Lyman and Frank Black will wave batons and their respective orchestras will entreat listeners to two programs of waltzes and classics—music of a lighter nature. Lyman's featured selection will be a Strauss waltz. The Friday Concert Orchestra will play a selection from Moszkowski's opera, "Boabdil," as a highlight of the hour. Ross Graham, baritone, and Lucille Manners, soprano, will be soloists. Both are features of NBC-Red and WSB.

Sylvia Sidney, actress, will star in Charles Martin's "Great Moments in Great Plays," to be heard over CBS and WGST tonight at 8 o'clock. A special play has been selected for Miss Sidney.

FLY AS RELAXATION.

In Fresno, Cal., five members of the medical fraternity have taken up flying in their spare time for relaxation. Three veterans recently were joined by two recruits to make up the quintet, composed of Drs. J. D. Morgan and W. G. Milholland, the newcomers, and Drs. Lloyd B. James, W. A. Hunt and L. Glynne Price, old-timers.

RUN ON FLYSWATTERS.

Tyler, Texas, is an exceedingly uncomfortable place for flies, judging by reports of local merchants. Several drug, hardware and grocery stores reported recently their stocks of flyswatters had been sold out and could not be replenished for several days.

NIGHT TENNIS METERED.

The park commission of Kansas City, Mo., has introduced night tennis, for which enthusiasts pay 25 cents for half an hour. At each court there is a meter in which the player deposits a quarter. The lights are turned off automatically after 30 minutes.

CANARIES COME BACK.

GIANT LOCOMOTIVES.

Forty mammoth new locomotives will be placed in service on Union Pacific railroad lines within the next year to care for increased transportation resulting from national defense needs, railway officials announced recently. Twenty of the locomotives will enter service this summer.

STATES TIE IN GASLINE USE.

California and New York tied for first in the gasoline consumption race of the 48 states last year. They each ran up a total of 1,800,000,000 gallons.

'Can't Happen Here,' British Say of Invasion

People Feel Hitler Has Missed Bus in Postponing Attack.

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Winston Churchill's most difficult task today is to keep the people of Great Britain on their toes against possible invasion. "It can't happen here" is the dangerous and growing belief in Britain as month succeeds month and the Germans fail to materialize.

Wherever I went in England, I heard: "Hitler cannot invade this country. He might have done so last year after the fall of France. Now it is too late. This time he really has missed the bus."

But government officials and those in the know are less optimistic. They know that but for the unlooked-for and magnificent stand of the Russian Armies, England would now be taking it on the invasion front.

They know that at any time the Russian campaign may bog down into a winter holding line, at best, and that the German high command will then turn its attention to an invasion of England.

Reason for Crete Conquest.

They know that the only possible reason for the German air conquest of Crete was to provide a full dress rehearsal for a repeat performance on the large island of England. They know that Hitler's men twice already have appeared dangerously near the coast line of Great Britain.

Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply, told me he anticipates an all-out attack on Britain by sea, land and air, before spring—"and we must be ready whenever it comes." He added that the Germans have no other alternative than to attempt an invasion. They must decide their victory or defeat—"and it will be a defeat"—on the soil of Great Britain.

Opinion on the two unsuccessful German attempts to land off the coast of Scotland and southeast England last winter, is divided. Some believe they were genuine small-scale invasion attempts. Others state that they were merely "practice" invasions. Perhaps the latter are right. But the situation is still ominous, in spite of the German failure to effect a landing. Events in this war have proved that the Germans practice with a purpose.

Invading an Island.

The Germans were first seen practicing large scale tactics for the specialized job of invading an island, in September, 1940. They chose the island near Les Andyles in Normandy, France, where Richard the Lion-hearted once lived in the Chateau Gaillard, and where his troops built a tunnel to the island chosen last year as understudy for the British Isles.

The Germans used hundreds of flat-bottomed barges, distributing the men in a ratio of four kneeling, one standing. And there were small tanks and other military equipment. The local French were interested but silent spectators. They made a great point of refraining to tell the Germans that on the far side of the island there were dangerous currents. Most of these barges capsized and the men on them drowned.

The story is told in England that when 50,000 Germans appeared on barges and boats near the coasts of Scotland and southeast England, the prepared drums of gasoline in the water were set on fire. And later, thousands of charred German bodies floated ashore on French and British beaches. Those who survived filled the hospitals in German-occupied France, where the sheets in the hotels and department stores were requisitioned to bandage the burned Nazis.

Warfare with Gliders.

When the Luffwaffe could not get the RAF out of the sky in the Battle of Britain, the Germans went further inland at home and practiced aerial warfare with gliders and transport planes. This they eventually tried out in Crete, with, as you know, great success.

The British are worried about these transport planes. The usual 50 soldiers are equipped with light and heavy machine guns and with light mine throwers. If only 20 of the 50 Germans get out alive they can inflict tremendous damage. The Germans now are said to be building many thousands of these transport planes and gliders.

England is divided into 12 major regions. And each region can function and survive independently should the Germans manage to effect a landing in any one of them. Then there are the restricted zones, near certain portions of the coast, and only those with special permits are allowed entry.

All over the country there are well camouflaged contrivances which are expected to stop enemy tanks and soldiers. It is not an exaggeration to state that every acre in England has its system of defense. Soon it will be every yard, then every foot of land.

If Invasion Comes.

"What will you do, when and if the invasion comes?" I asked a hotel maid in Bristol. "I'll stay where I am," she replied in a "learned-by-heart" manner. Among other do's and don'ts for the invasion are: Give all help to the troops; tell the enemy nothing; do not give him anything; when there is fighting, stay in your district and carry on as usual. Go to work whether in factory, field or office. Do your shopping, send your children to school; if you see an enemy tank or a few enemy soldiers, do not assume that the enemy is in control of the area.

Motorists, whether, in a car, truck or motor cycle must remove from their vehicles, the distributor head and leads, empty the gas tank or remove the carburetor. During non-invasion periods, all motorists must keep their cars locked. A driver was recently fined for failure to observe this rule. And incidentally, all radios have been removed from civilian cars.
